Military Reserve Explained

To Become Law Soon as Signed

By JAMES MARLOW
(AP News Analyst)

Washington, July 27 (AP)—This is an ABC on the Military Reserve Bill just passed by Congress to build up a pool of trained men. President Eisenhower is expected to sign it into law shortly. It will go into effect at that moment.

It has significance for those now in the armed forces, those going in after the new law becomes effective, and for teenagers who wish to join the reserves or the National Guard and thus avoid the draft.

To see what the new law means, first look at the reserve program as it stands under a law passed in 1951.

Under that law everyone discharged from the armed forces, unless he served eight years, must then go into the reserves so that his total active and reserve service is eight years.

THERE ARE three kinds of reserves:

1. Ready reservists who train. They drill one night a week, from 12 to 48 weeks a year, and spend 17 days a year in camp. They get paid, according to rank, for the days and nights they drill.

2. Ready reservists who don't do any training. They get no pay.

3. Standby reserves. They, like the second group of ready reservists, do no drilling.

Both groups of ready reservists, in case of war, would be called into active service ahead of the standby reserves. Who, under present law, goes into the ready reserves and into the standby reserves?

1. Anyone with less than five years in the armed forces must, upon his discharge, go into the ready reserves. But whether or not he takes reserve training is voluntary. He can choose to go into the non-training reserves. If he doesn't take the reserve training, however, he must stay

Lombardi Has Narrow Escape

Highland Man Leaps From Fire to Tree

Frank Lombardi, about 28, left a second-floor shower bath and leaped approximately 12 feet into a maple tree early last night to escape flames pouring up the stairs of a residence in Highland.

The home, which also serves as an office, is owned by Benjamin Lombardi, contractor, Frank's father. It is located on Route 299 about a quarter of a mile from the center of the village.

Fire Chief William H. Maynard of the Highland Fire Department said young Lombardi strained a muscle in his arm when he caught hold of the maple limbs about 30 feet from the ground. He estimated the leap at 12 feet.

ACCORDING to Chief Maynard, Frank was taking a shower when he heard a "commotion" and saw flames at the "cracks of the hall doors." He slipped into the bedroom and through a window onto the roof of a porch. Flames were also beginning to eat the porch roof as he made his leap and climbed to the ground.

The first floor of the residence was described by the chief as badly damaged, "contents and all." The second floor suffered "a little smoke damage," but the basement was not involved.

THE HIGHLAND department received a call at 8 p. m., and dispatched all pieces of apparatus to the scene, three engines and a tanker. Chief Maynard said the fire which destroyed the kitchen, dining room, bathroom and a bedroom, another large room, a room used as Lombardi's office, and the front porch, was effectively stopped with 1500 gallons of water carried by the department's tanker and 500 by one of the trucks. He said two lines of hose with fog nozzles were used to bring the flames under control. Another hose fed water from a nearby hydrant.

The chief said he couldn't "praise too highly" the importance of the tanker, and the work of the tanker crew in bringing the fire under control. "It really stopped the fire by the time we could hook up the hydrant," he said. "Five minutes later we would have lost the whole place."

HE SAID the tanker purchased last spring had been "well worth its weight in gold." Chief Maynard said he believes the fire started in the kitchen where workmen had been cementing synthetic sheathing to a counter. The cement is highly inflammable, he explained.

He believes the can of cement may have been left uncovered by the workmen. He explained that the cement gives off heavy fumes which may have been ignited by the pilot light on the stove.

Approximately 35 members of the volunteer department fought the fire, securing about 10 p. m. Chief Maynard praised the work of Highland state police who handled traffic at the scene, rerouting it to old Route 9W across upper Grand street, and back into 299.

Road to Link Woodstock, Elka Park

A Greene county project now under way will open the Mink Hollow road between the Elka Park area and town of Woodstock, it was indicated today.

A dead-end road at the Ulster-Greene county line since 1919, it is expected that the project being done without cost to Greene county by I. and O. A. Slutzky, contractors at Hunter, will open the route in the near future as a through road, and will bring two resort areas closer together.

ABOUT FOUR miles of the road in Greene county has been roughly graded, to date, and it was indicated that some bridge work will be necessary on the town of Woodstock side to permit through travel.

Supervisor Joseph Fitzsimmons said that he and Albert Cashdollar, Woodstock town road superintendent, had hiked over the old road alignment between Elka Park and the Woodstock town line. Fitzsimmons estimated that use of the road would save between 16 and 18 miles in travel between Woodstock and the Tannersville area.

Grateful Firemen Praised

Mayor Frederick H. Stang yesterday received a resolution from the Hudson Valley Firemen's Association thanking the city and its officials for treatment of the firemen here during the June convention, and the mayor mailed one back commending the firemen and inviting their return in the future.

Charles M. Fales, of Haverstraw, association secretary, forwarded the resolution, which was adopted at the session.

THE RESOLUTION extended the association's "sincere thanks and appreciation" to all who contributed toward the convention's success.

It named Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and his department, Mayor Stang, State Senator Arthur H. Wicks, the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the local convention committee James Locke; Kingston Lodge 550, BPOE, other civic organizations and citizens of the city "all of whom have labored with head, heart and hand to make this convention an outstanding success, and who, in every way, have promoted the pleasure and well-being of the members and delegates during their stay in Kingston."

MAYOR STANG, in replying, wrote: "I think it is fitting and proper at this time that I comment on the excellent manner in in which all the participating organizations cooperated in every possible way to make this convention one of the outstanding events that has taken place in the city of Kingston.

"I trust that sometime in the years to come, we may have the pleasure of again playing host to this group.

"Very simply may I say, we are glad you came, we hope you had a good time, and we trust that you will come again."

4 Injured In Mishap, 1 Arrested

Stop Sign Case Moved to Aug. 15

Four persons were injured and one driver was arrested in two of three city traffic mishaps yesterday.

Three persons were reported slightly hurt in the collision of a ranch wagon and sedan at Prospect and Liberty streets at 7:55 p. m., and a driver was hurt in a car-truck mishap at Meadow and Chambers street at about 5 p. m.

OFFICERS George Dohnken and Joseph Keller, reporting on the mishap at Prospect and Liberty streets, said the ranch wagon, owned by DUSO Sales, 159 Hasbrouck avenue, and driven west on Liberty street by Aaron Bahl, 71 Lafayette avenue and the sedan of Tony Valle, 36, of 26 East St. James street, headed south on Prospect street, were in collision.

Bahl was treated at Kingston Hospital for an injured left elbow, Tony Valle was treated for a chest injury, and Joseph Valle, 8, of the same address, was treated for injuries of the lower lip and teeth.

BAHL WAS arrested by Valle on the charge that he failed to stop for a sign at the intersection. He pleaded innocent before Special City Judge Harry Gold today, and the judge, who disqualified himself because of having done legal work for the defendant, put the case over to Aug. 15 when City Judge Raymond J. Mino is due to return.

Officers James Burns and John Houghtaling reported at 5 p. m. that the sedan of Frank Bitonte, 34, of 204 Downs street, was headed north on Meadow street, and the one-ton truck of Zeeh's Bottling Works, 47 West Union street, driven by Gerard J. Kearney, 24, of 9 Reynolds street, was going west on Chambers street when they collided.

KEARNEY was to be treated by a doctor for neck and head injuries and the truck was towed from the scene, the report said.

A report at 7:10 p. m., said vehicles involved in a mishap near 20 North street were the car of Steve Wesolowski, 22 North street, which was parked at the curb, and that of Rosario Naccarato, 63, of 320 Wilbur avenue, headed north on North street. Both reported damage, but no injuries.

Bulgarian Gunners Are Blamed

4 Americans Are In Burning Ship

Athens, Greece, July 27 (AP)—An Israeli airliner was forced down in flames in Communist Bulgaria today. Greek authorities said Bulgarian antiaircraft gunners shot it down near the Greek border and that all but perhaps one of the 58 persons aboard must be considered dead.

Four of the passengers were Americans.

Israel, alerted that the Constellation had crashed from some cause, said it had no official information that Bulgarians fired on it. A Foreign Ministry spokesman in Jerusalem said the Israeli legation in Sofia has been instructed urgently to investigate circumstances of the crash.

A SPECIAL Greek government statement, based on observations of soldiers of the 10th Greek Army Division in Macedonia, said the four-engine, American-built craft of the El Al Lines was felled north of Petritsiu on a flight from London to Lydda, Israel.

The crash in rugged territory of Bulgaria, a member of the Communists Warsaw Military Alliance, came only four days after the windup of the Big Four summit conference to ease world tensions.

The first word that anything was amiss with the Constellation, which took off from Vienna's Schechat Airport at 4 a. m. today on the Vienna-Istanbul leg of its southward journey, was an SOS intercepted by the airline operations office and Rome monitors. The message said the plane was going down in flames.

Then came an announcement by the El Al office in London that the plane, which took off from London last night, was believed to have gone down, afire, near the Greek-Bulgarian border. A crew of 7 and 14 passengers were aboard when the plane left London. Other passengers were picked up in Paris and Vienna.

In Tel Aviv, the airlines general manager said the Constellation made a forced landing in Bulgaria after being fired on by Bulgarian antiaircraft guns.

AGAINST the Greek account that 58 persons were aboard, he said the Constellation carried 57—50 passengers, including 3 children, and the crew of 7.

"At 8:37 a. m. local time (1:37 a. m. EST) the operations

Three Saratoga Barns Burn

Fire Before Noon Is Second in 14 Hours

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Fire today destroyed three horse barns and threatened others at the Saratoga Race Track.

It was the second fire at the famed thoroughbred racing plant within 14 hours. Last night, a frame barn in a training track stabling area was destroyed but no horses were injured.

The fire today broke out shortly before noon. Three green-painted barns that roughly parallel the big bend of the track near the head of the home stretch went up in flames in a short time.

IT WAS REPORTED but not confirmed that no horses were injured.

The flames, whipped by a strong wind, threatened another green barn nearby. All the destroyed barns were of frame construction and comparatively new.

The stable of William Du Pont, containing a larger number of barns and fronting on Union avenue, was reported in danger.

The Saratoga fire department and track employes fought the fire.

THE CAUSE of the fire was not determined.

Earnings Are Down, Says Phone Head

Albany, July 27 (AP)—A New York Telephone Co. official, testifying for a stopgap, $34-million-dollar annual increase in the company's phone rates, said today the utilities rate of earnings had slumped by about one-half of one per cent a year since World War 2.

Russell H. Hughes, vice president in charge of revenues and regulatory matters, was the first witness as the Public Service Commission opened its second day of hearings on the company's request for a temporary rate increase.

HUGHES said New York Telephone's rate of earnings had declined in recent years because of increases in wages, taxes and materials and supplies costs.

The stop-gap increase, Hughes said, would produce for the company an average rate of return of "a shade over six per cent over a 2½-year period." He said this would be consistent with the commission's own opinion on the company's application last year for a larger, permanent rate boost.

Hughes maintained that regulated utilities, such as the telephone company, were subject to what he termed "regulatory lag." This, he said, occurred because the regulated utilities could not move to increase revenues simultaneously with increases in operating costs.

HE SAID that companies like New York Telephone sometimes

Revolver Is Stolen From Car Here

Police were notified early today of the theft of a .22 calibre revolver from the glove compartment of a car parked on North Front street.

Officers Joseph Kivlan and George Dohnken were dispatched to the location, near 44 North Front street, after the theft was reported at 12:43 a. m.

They reported that Gerald Bellinger, of 1 East Main street, Johnsonville, said the glove compartment had been forced open, and the revolver and $4 in bills were taken. The revolver is valued at $78, the report said.

Fuel Tax Opposed for Roads

State Finance Group Against Democrat Plan

Albany, July 27 (AP)—The New York State Temporary Highway Finance Planning Commission has expressed opposition to a Democratic plan for increased federal motor-fuel taxes to finance road building.

The commission, appointed during the administration of former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, said in a resolution yesterday that a federal tax boost would "seriously adversely affect" the chances of a 750-million-dollar state highway bond issue that will be voted upon next November.

The group, headed by Charles H. Diefendorf of Buffalo, said also that a federal program should provide a method of compensating states that recently had constructed parts of the Federal Interstate Highway System.

IT NOTED that the New York State Thruway accounted for about half of the 1,000 miles of the interstate system within New York.

Highway financing was before the House in Washingon today. Democrats propose to finance the program by increasing the gasoline tax from two to three cents a gallon and by increases in other taxes of fuel and goods used by cars and trucks.

Republicans were working for the establishment of a federal highway corporation that would sell 21 million dollars worth of bonds.

The state bond issue will come before the voters as a constitutional amendment. Legislation has been enacted increasing the per-gallon state tax from four to six cents on gasoline and from six to nine cents on diesel fuel. The increases will take effect January 1 if the voters approve the bond issue.

THE COMMISSION said the state program would provide $1,800,000,000 for highway construction by the state and localities over the next seven years. It added:

"This is a large sum of money, but the highway needs of the state are even greater and cannot be met unless there is a very substantial increase in federal aid."

The resolution said New York had 30,000 miles of highways eligible for federal aid. "Both the state and federal programs are essential," it declared. "One must not adversely affect the other . . . without the bond is-

Rosendale Span Bids Due

Sealed bids for reconstruction of the Rosendale Bridge and approaches over Rondout Creek in Rosendale will be among those on 25 projects opened in Albany on August 25 for state highway and expressway construction projects, nine State Thruway jobs and two Barge Canal contracts, it was announced today by John W. Johnson, state superintendent of public works.

The new Rosendale Bridge will have a 126½-foot span with 30-foot curb to curb width and five-foot sidewalks. Approaches will consist of 30-foot asphalt concrete. Work involves 0.08 mile, estimated at $275,000.

The 36 jobs involve 87½ miles of work in 31 different counties throughout the state, and have been estimated at a total cost of $34,738,944. The bids, Mr. Johnson said, will be opened publicly at 10:30 a. m., in Hearing Room No. 1 of the Governor Alfred E. Smith State Office Building.

Motor Vehicle Issues Discussed

Checks, Driver Exams Are in Plans of State

(AB) Buffalo, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—The state motor vehicle commissioner said today the state was giving "serious consideration" to substituting a spot-check program for the compulsory automobile safety inspection plan scheduled to go into effect late next year.

Joseph P. Kelly made the disclosure in a speech prepared for delivery at the 55th annual conference of the New York State Assn. of Chiefs of Police.

Kelly said a spot-check program, carried out by motor vehicle department patrols using portable equipment, could be financed by an increase of "perhaps a dollar or two a year" in motor vehicle registration fees.

The commissioner declared also that Gov. Harriman's administration was seeking means of protecting motorists against uninsured drivers. He said the administration would make a recommendation to the 1956 Legislature.

In addition, Kelly said, the department may review present physical qualifications for drivers licenses to determine whether they are stiff enough.

The Legislature at Harriman's recommendation, this spring postponed from Sept. 1, 1955, to Dec. 1, 1956, the compulsory inspection of automobiles and trucks. The law requiring the inspections was enacted in 1954.

Kelly said the spot-check program under consideration would work this way:

Patrols would set up equipment at strategic spots along highways and stop cars at random for a safety check that would take only a few minutes.

Teen Road-e-o Drivers Ready for Capital Finals

Washington, July 27 (AP)—A bunch of teen-agers are going to prove their mettle by driving through downtown Washington traffic—even worse now than the normal headache because of a transit strike.

That awesome test comes tomorrow in the fourth annual National Teen-Age Road-E-O held in Washington.

All 48 states are represented, plus Hawaii, Canada and the District of Columbia. Only one entrant is a girl—17-year-old Peggy Jean Vowell of Maljamar, N. M., who is only five feet tall and has to sit on a pillow to drive.

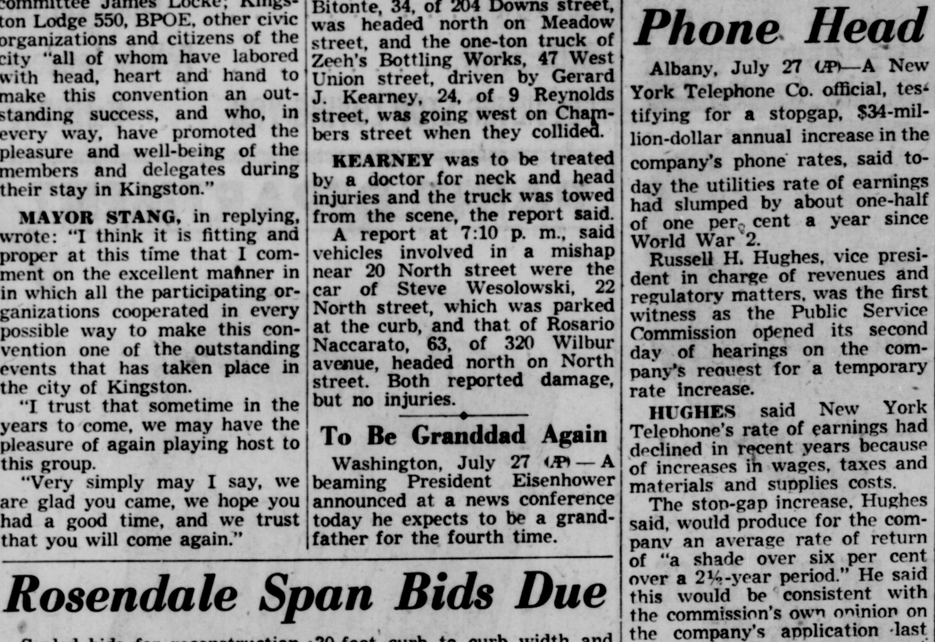

Charles Brooks, 18, from Honolulu, has an advantage of a sort. His father, a navy commander, was stationed here until four years ago when he was transferred to the islands to direct the navy's frogman operations in the Pacific. Charles has been swimming with the frogmen for a number of years.

The road-e-o's top prize is $1,500 toward a college scholarship. All told, the sponsors are putting up $3,000 in prize money.

The sponsors are the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., and the American Trucking Association, Inc.

The tests include intensive written and oral examinations,

Letchworth Cave May Be 'Home Colony' for US Bats

Rochester, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—The state this week will begin a study of a cave full of bats at the Letchworth State Park, the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle reported today.

The newspaper said the 400-foot cave might prove to be what it called the "home colony" for bats in the eastern United States and possibly all of North America.

Up to 4,000 bats have been counted in the cave which is located near Middle Falls in the state park. The park straddles the Wyoming-Livingston county line.

Dr. William Fenton, assistant commissioner of the New York State Museum and Science Service, told the newspaper that the cave contained speciments of all six species of bats known to exist on this continent.

Dr. Fenton said an intensive study of the cave will begin Thursday under the direction of Victor Cahalane, assistant director of the State Museum and Science Service.

He said the investigators will seek clues to the mysterious migration of the bats and their strange hibernation habits. He said they would also try to learn if there was any relation-

Athens, Greece, July 27 (AP)—An Israeli airliner was forced down in flames in Communist Bulgaria today. Greek authorities said Bulgarian antiaircraft gunners shot it down near the Greek border and that all but perhaps one of the 58 persons aboard must be considered dead.

Four of the passengers were Americans.

Israel, alerted that the Constellation had crashed from some cause, said it had no official information that Bulgarians fired on it. A Foreign Ministry spokesman in Jerusalem said the Israeli legation in Sofia has been instructed urgently to investigate circumstances of the crash.

A SPECIAL Greek government statement, based on observations of soldiers of the 10th Greek Army Division in Macedonia, said the four-engine, American-built craft of the El Al Lines was felled north of Petritsiu on a flight from London to Lydda, Israel.

The crash in rugged territory of Bulgaria, a member of the Communists Warsaw Military Alliance, came only four days after the windup of the Big Four summit conference to ease world tensions.

The first word that anything was amiss with the Constellation, which took off from Vienna's Schechat Airport at 4 a. m. today on the Vienna-Istanbul leg of its southward journey, was an SOS intercepted by the airline operations office and Rome monitors. The message said the plane was going down in flames.

Then came an announcement by the El Al office in London that the plane, which took off from London last night, was believed to have gone down, afire, near the Greek-Bulgarian border. A crew of 7 and 14 passengers were aboard when the plane left London. Other passengers were picked up in Paris and Vienna.

In Tel Aviv, the airlines general manager said the Constellation made a forced landing in Bulgaria after being fired on by Bulgarian antiaircraft guns.

AGAINST the Greek account that 58 persons were aboard, he said the Constellation carried 57—50 passengers, including 3 children, and the crew of 7.

Revolver Is Stolen From Car Here

Police were notified early today of the theft of a .22 calibre revolver from the glove compartment of a car parked on North Front street.

Officers Joseph Kivlan and George Dohnken were dispatched to the location, near 44 North Front street, after the theft was reported at 12:43 a. m.

They reported that Gerald Bellinger, of 1 East Main street, Johnsonville, said the glove compartment had been forced open, and the revolver and $4 in bills were taken. The revolver is valued at $78, the report said.

Earnings Are Down, Says Phone Head

Albany, July 27 (AP)—A New York Telephone Co. official, testifying for a stopgap, $34-million-dollar annual increase in the company's phone rates, said today the utilities rate of earnings had slumped by about one-half of one per cent a year since World War 2.

Russell H. Hughes, vice president in charge of revenues and regulatory matters, was the first witness as the Public Service Commission opened its second day of hearings on the company's request for a temporary rate increase.

HUGHES said New York Telephone's rate of earnings had declined in recent years because of increases in wages, taxes and materials and supplies costs.

The stop-gap increase, Hughes said, would produce for the company an average rate of return of "a shade over six per cent over a 2½-year period." He said this would be consistent with the commission's own opinion on the company's application last year for a larger, permanent rate boost.

Hughes maintained that regulated utilities, such as the telephone company, were subject to what he termed "regulatory lag." This, he said, occurred because the regulated utilities could not move to increase revenues simultaneously with increases in operating costs.

HE SAID that companies like New York Telephone sometimes

Fuel Tax Opposed for Roads

State Finance Group Against Democrat Plan

Albany, July 27 (AP)—The New York State Temporary Highway Finance Planning Commission has expressed opposition to a Democratic plan for increased federal motor-fuel taxes to finance road building.

The commission, appointed during the administration of former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, said in a resolution yesterday that a federal tax boost would "seriously adversely affect" the chances of a 750-million-dollar state highway bond issue that will be voted upon next November.

The group, headed by Charles H. Diefendorf of Buffalo, said also that a federal program should provide a method of compensating states that recently had constructed parts of the Federal Interstate Highway System.

IT NOTED that the New York State Thruway accounted for about half of the 1,000 miles of the interstate system within New York.

Highway financing was before the House in Washingon today. Democrats propose to finance the program by increasing the gasoline tax from two to three cents a gallon and by increases in other taxes of fuel and goods used by cars and trucks.

Republicans were working for the establishment of a federal highway corporation that would sell 21 million dollars worth of bonds.

The state bond issue will come before the voters as a constitutional amendment. Legislation has been enacted increasing the per-gallon state tax from four to six cents on gasoline and from six to nine cents on diesel fuel. The increases will take effect January 1 if the voters approve the bond issue.

THE COMMISSION said the state program would provide $1,800,000,000 for highway construction by the state and localities over the next seven years. It added:

"This is a large sum of money, but the highway needs of the state are even greater and cannot be met unless there is a very substantial increase in federal aid."

The resolution said New York had 30,000 miles of highways eligible for federal aid. "Both the state and federal programs are essential," it declared. "One must not adversely affect the other . . . without the bond is-

Rosendale Span Bids Due

Sealed bids for reconstruction of the Rosendale Bridge and approaches over Rondout Creek in Rosendale will be among those on 25 projects opened in Albany on August 25 for state highway and expressway construction projects, nine State Thruway jobs and two Barge Canal contracts, it was announced today by John W. Johnson, state superintendent of public works.

The new Rosendale Bridge will have a 126½-foot span with 30-foot curb to curb width and five-foot sidewalks. Approaches will consist of 30-foot asphalt concrete. Work involves 0.08 mile, estimated at $275,000.

The 36 jobs involve 87½ miles of work in 31 different counties throughout the state, and have been estimated at a total cost of $34,738,944. The bids, Mr. Johnson said, will be opened publicly at 10:30 a. m., in Hearing Room No. 1 of the Governor Alfred E. Smith State Office Building.

Motor Vehicle Issues Discussed

Checks, Driver Exams Are in Plans of State

(AB) Buffalo, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—The state motor vehicle commissioner said today the state was giving "serious consideration" to substituting a spot-check program for the compulsory automobile safety inspection plan scheduled to go into effect late next year.

Joseph P. Kelly made the disclosure in a speech prepared for delivery at the 55th annual conference of the New York State Assn. of Chiefs of Police.

Kelly said a spot-check program, carried out by motor vehicle department patrols using portable equipment, could be financed by an increase of "perhaps a dollar or two a year" in motor vehicle registration fees.

The commissioner declared also that Gov. Harriman's administration was seeking means of protecting motorists against uninsured drivers. He said the administration would make a recommendation to the 1956 Legislature.

In addition, Kelly said, the department may review present physical qualifications for drivers licenses to determine whether they are stiff enough.

The Legislature at Harriman's recommendation, this spring postponed from Sept. 1, 1955, to Dec. 1, 1956, the compulsory inspection of automobiles and trucks. The law requiring the inspections was enacted in 1954.

Kelly said the spot-check program under consideration would work this way:

Patrols would set up equipment at strategic spots along highways and stop cars at random for a safety check that would take only a few minutes.

Teen Road-e-o Drivers Ready for Capital Finals

Washington, July 27 (AP)—A bunch of teen-agers are going to prove their mettle by driving through downtown Washington traffic—even worse now than the normal headache because of a transit strike.

That awesome test comes tomorrow in the fourth annual National Teen-Age Road-E-O held in Washington.

All 48 states are represented, plus Hawaii, Canada and the District of Columbia. Only one entrant is a girl—17-year-old Peggy Jean Vowell of Maljamar, N. M., who is only five feet tall and has to sit on a pillow to drive.

Charles Brooks, 18, from Honolulu, has an advantage of a sort. His father, a navy commander, was stationed here until four years ago when he was transferred to the islands to direct the navy's frogman operations in the Pacific. Charles has been swimming with the frogmen for a number of years.

The road-e-o's top prize is $1,500 toward a college scholarship. All told, the sponsors are putting up $3,000 in prize money.

The sponsors are the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., and the American Trucking Association, Inc.

The tests include intensive written and oral examinations,

Letchworth Cave May Be 'Home Colony' for US Bats

Rochester, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—The state this week will begin a study of a cave full of bats at the Letchworth State Park, the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle reported today.

The newspaper said the 400-foot cave might prove to be what it called the "home colony" for bats in the eastern United States and possibly all of North America.

Up to 4,000 bats have been counted in the cave which is located near Middle Falls in the state park. The park straddles the Wyoming-Livingston county line.

Dr. William Fenton, assistant commissioner of the New York State Museum and Science Service, told the newspaper that the cave contained speciments of all six species of bats known to exist on this continent.

Dr. Fenton said an intensive study of the cave will begin Thursday under the direction of Victor Cahalane, assistant director of the State Museum and Science Service.

He said the investigators will seek clues to the mysterious migration of the bats and their strange hibernation habits. He said they would also try to learn if there was any relation-

Solution to Keep Good Times

Money Managers Think Tighter Credit Solution

New York, July 27 (AP)—How to keep good times going is the problem today for the money managers. They think they have the answer in mild restraints on credit.

Their idea: Not only have you never had it so good, but if you're to avoid hard times in the future, money mustn't be let to get too easy now.

So the cost of short-term borrowing has risen to the highest point in more than a year and a half. And the price of long-term government bonds has fallen—another way of saying that the yield on them has risen to keep pace with higher rates charged on other loans.

THIS MAY be hard for some to understand—the fellow, say, who is looking for a comfortable-to-carry mortgage for a new house for a growing family; or the businessman who'd like a bank loan, at last year's cost, to get ready for the fall and Christmas trade.

The policy of mild restraint is based on the belief that price inflation isn't much of a threat in the United States now, but that credit inflation could be. And inflated credit could kill the business boom simply by overstimulating it and bringing on a bust.

With an apparent frown for the easier credit terms that have become popular, the comptroller of the currency has told the 4,800 national banks in the land; "go ahead and do all the consumer loan business you can, but be sure you do it sensibly."

THE FEDERAL Reserve Board has sent notice to the 1,900 state banks who are members of the system that it plans to keep an eye on their instalment credit activities.

The official worry stems from the chance that all the talk nowadays about higher prices perhaps being on the way—especially for industrial materials—could lead businessmen and consumers to start stocking up on goods and materials to beat any anticipated rise. Borrowing to build up inventories, officials fear, could lead to the same situation that preceded the recessions of 1949 and 1953-54.

Consumer credit is already at an all-time high.

During the first half of this year, the Federal Reserve notes, bank loans to business increased by two billion dollars. This is contrary to customary experience. Bank loans usually drop in the first half of the year and increase in the second half to take care of the crops and the fall pickup in trade.

OFFICIALS are quick to point out that there is nothing dangerous in the size of the loans, either at the business or consumer levels. National income and production have kept step with, or set the pace for, the debt increase. But the money managers dislike any prospect of an over-optimistic credit inflation being piled on top of the present considerable boom.

So they haven't pumped any new credit into the money market. The rising demand for credit, therefore, has squeezed against the tight supply. Interest rates have crept up.

This comes just at the time when normally demand for credit starts moving toward its peak. If the mild restraint policy continues, there may be some squawks from businessmen, from crop handlers, from home builders.

The money managers' policy appears to be: Enough credit and money to keep the boom going along at its present pace—but not so much as to breed too much optimism, or speculation, or a yen to beat possible price rises. This could lead to excesses which would only end, after the fling, in hard times.

More Time for Slap

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 27 (AP)—Twenty-year-old Doris Gordon started out of Superior Court here yesterday to face a two to three-year prison term for setting fire to the apartment house in which she lived. A few minutes later she faced another two to three years. On the way out she gave state witness Louise Stanton a resounding slap on the face. Judge Walter E. Johnston rapped for order, reopened the case and told the woman she was getting more prison time to cool her temper. Mrs. Gordon admitted setting fire to her husband's clothing June 19 following an argument in their apartment.

Father Again at 75

New York, July 27 (AP)—Vincent Ferraro, a 75-year-old great-grandfather, is passing out cigars on his own account again. The retired furniture polisher, who had eight children by his first two wives, is celebrating the birth of an eight-pound two-ounce son to his third wife, Antonetta, 34. Ferraro's older children have already given him 10 grandchildren and 5 great-grandchildren. He married his present wife on a visit to his native Italy in 1950.

Found Guilty

Bombay, India, July 27 (AP)—A 34-year-old rickshaw puller who lunged at Prime Minister Nehru's car during a parade in Nagpur March 13 was found guilty today of trying to murder the government chief with a knife. Following the verdict of the five-man jury against Baburao Kochale, the Nagpur district magistrate said he would pass sentence tomorrow.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Friday, June 17, a statement addressed to Joe Curran, signed by ten shipping corporations, appeared in the press. The question asked was: "Why put a premium on quitting?".

Now a guy says, "Don't be a sucker! Why work when you are paid for no work?

Mr. Hutton

Joe, that's a helluva "package." There's only one issue involved. A guy voluntarily decides to bounce himself from his job. Should he receive unemployment benefits? Curran, looks like you are trying to out-do Reuther!

When a guy quits he gets unemployment insurance. Does he pay taxes? Can he bounce out of a job after 26 weeks, then go on relief for another 26 weeks? Where ends the merry-go-round for more pay, less work — and, full pay, no work?

One answer is — when there is less production the unions will have less goods to ship.

What's the racket in your "local," Joe?

Look in Webster's Dictionary and see the meaning of "racketeer." It's defined as, "one who singly, or in combination with others, extorts money or advantages, by threats of violence, or unlawful interference with business."

Boss Joe, take a look. Have your boys "in combination with others," extorted money "by threats of violence"? Are you and other unions engaged in "unlawful interference with business"? Looks like your boys are attempting to blackjack and tomahawk business.

Send this to your Congressmen, neighbor.

Promised Land Lies in East For Many Jamaican Workers

Kingston, Jamaica, July 27 (AP)—For many workers in the West Indies, the Promised Land lies eastward.

Reversing a trend of three centuries, a steady migration from the new world to the old is helping with two problems—a labor demand in England and a surplus of laborers in Jamaica.

More than 12,000 Jamaicans have in two years left their tropical island to seek jobs in Britain. Only about one in a hundred returned.

SHIPPING lines offer cheap passage. Employers in England's industrial midlands are advertising for West Indian workers.

Many Jamaicans went to England during the war. Some remained and found good jobs in postwar prosperity. They sent word back to the Caribbean. Last year more than 8,000 made the trip. But this number made only a dent in the estimated 100,000 who are unemployed during the agriculture off-season. The government calls unemployment its most pressing problem.

Practically all who have emigrated are either Negro or have Negro blood.

WILLS ISAACS, minister for trade and industry in Jamaica, says he was in England recently "and found not the slightest discrimination." Others in Jamaica do not take such a satisfied view of the situation. They prefer to refer to the problems not as one of "racial discrimination" but of "racial sensitivity."

William Alexander Bustamante, contraversial favorite of a large portion of Jamaica's workingmen, says West Indians should flow freely to England "but we should not encourage them to go to England just to get rid of them here."

"ANY MAN in England who's earning less than 10 pounds ($28) a week would be better off here earning 30 shillings ($4.25)," this former prime minister of Jamaica insists.

A weekly wage of 30 shillings in Jamaica is not unusual.

Still, few emigrants have returned. Those who do frequently blame the English climate and way of life.

Why do they go to England?

"Principally," said Isaacs, "to save money so they can return home better off than when they left. And they're saving money."

Some, however, leave for England planning to stay there.

Jamaica also sends to the United States about 4,000 farm laborers annually for temporary work. These, of course, return home. The U. S. Immigration quota for Jamaica is only 100 annually.

Hitler Enemies Get Top Posts in German Army

Bonn, Germany, July 27 (AP)—Two of the 1944 bomb plotters against Hitler, Adolf Heusinger and Hans Speidel, have been named to the top ranks in the new German army.

They headed a list of officer appointments approved last night by the security committee of the Bundestag, lower house of West Germany's Parliament.

The officers first will serve in a 6,000-man volunteer force to be raised this year as the nucleus to the 500,000-man armed force West Germany has pledged to the Atlantic Alliance.

THERE WAS no indication from the committee of what posts Heusinger and Speidel will hold. They will have their former rank of lieutenant general.

The new army will include only one full general. He will not be appointed until organization of the armed forces is well under way and will serve as representative of the armed forces at cabinet and defense council level.

The security committee also approved the appointments of 3 major generals, 21 brigadier generals, 275 colonels, 680 lieutenant colonels, 966 majors, 970 captains and 400 lieutenants.

SPEIDEL, 58, now is the Bonn government's civilian representative at Supreme Allied Headquarters in Europe (SHAPE). There has been speculation that he would be named to head West Germany's military mission to SHAPE. He was Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's chief of staff on the western front in World War 2.

Heusinger, 57, has been heading the defense ministry's military planning department. He was wartime chief of the German Supreme Command's Operations Division. Defense ministry officials have said previously he would be named chief of all the armed forces.

Both Heusinger and Speidel were arrested following the 1944 attempt on Hitler. Heusinger was released after two months. Speidel escaped and was in hiding when the war ended.

What Tires You?

Taking a shower requires more than three times as much energy as running a sewing machine.

Have you ever tried to figure out what kind of activity tires you most? People who must regulate their physical activity because of illness have to know how they are spending their precious energy. They have to economize. Some of the facts that have been learned for their benefit can be helpful to the rest of us in slowing down to adjust to living with summer heat.

Rest is one of the important elements in treatment for tuberculosis. When a TB patient is allowed limited activity, the amount of energy he spends must be carefully regulated. Recently, researchers studied the energy cost of typical activities in the rehabilitation workshop of a TB hospital, rug hooking, copper tooling, using a sewing machine, and chisel carving. Energy expended taking a shower was also measured. The investigators measured oxygen consumption in terms of changes from the normal rate of metabolism.

The rise over normal metabolism for each of the tasks was as follows: 33 per cent for rug hooking, 66 per cent for copper tooling, 77 per cent for machine sewing, 100 per cent for chisel carving, and all of 264 per cent for taking a shower.

The results on showering may come as a surprise, but notice next time you take a shower how hard your trunk and limbs have to work.

This is not to suggest that you substitute rug hooking for your shower, but you might try a relaxing tub bath. If you find yourself getting "hot and bothered" these summer days, take a look at some of your activities. Are they worth the physical energy they cost? Or can they be done with less wasted motion?

Take a leaf from the book of those who dare not burn up their energy unnecessarily. Take it easy, and you'll be cooler.

Money Managers Think Tighter Credit Solution

New York, July 27 (AP)—How to keep good times going is the problem today for the money managers. They think they have the answer in mild restraints on credit.

Their idea: Not only have you never had it so good, but if you're to avoid hard times in the future, money mustn't be let to get too easy now.

So the cost of short-term borrowing has risen to the highest point in more than a year and a half. And the price of long-term government bonds has fallen—another way of saying that the yield on them has risen to keep pace with higher rates charged on other loans.

THIS MAY be hard for some to understand—the fellow, say, who is looking for a comfortable-to-carry mortgage for a new house for a growing family; or the businessman who'd like a bank loan, at last year's cost, to get ready for the fall and Christmas trade.

The policy of mild restraint is based on the belief that price inflation isn't much of a threat in the United States now, but that credit inflation could be. And inflated credit could kill the business boom simply by overstimulating it and bringing on a bust.

With an apparent frown for the easier credit terms that have become popular, the comptroller of the currency has told the 4,800 national banks in the land; "go ahead and do all the consumer loan business you can, but be sure you do it sensibly."

THE FEDERAL Reserve Board has sent notice to the 1,900 state banks who are members of the system that it plans to keep an eye on their instalment credit activities.

The official worry stems from the chance that all the talk nowadays about higher prices perhaps being on the way—especially for industrial materials—could lead businessmen and consumers to start stocking up on goods and materials to beat any anticipated rise. Borrowing to build up inventories, officials fear, could lead to the same situation that preceded the recessions of 1949 and 1953-54.

Consumer credit is already at an all-time high.

During the first half of this year, the Federal Reserve notes, bank loans to business increased by two billion dollars. This is contrary to customary experience. Bank loans usually drop in the first half of the year and increase in the second half to take care of the crops and the fall pickup in trade.

OFFICIALS are quick to point out that there is nothing dangerous in the size of the loans, either at the business or consumer levels. National income and production have kept step with, or set the pace for, the debt increase. But the money managers dislike any prospect of an over-optimistic credit inflation being piled on top of the present considerable boom.

So they haven't pumped any new credit into the money market. The rising demand for credit, therefore, has squeezed against the tight supply. Interest rates have crept up.

This comes just at the time when normally demand for credit starts moving toward its peak. If the mild restraint policy continues, there may be some squawks from businessmen, from crop handlers, from home builders.

The money managers' policy appears to be: Enough credit and money to keep the boom going along at its present pace—but not so much as to breed too much optimism, or speculation, or a yen to beat possible price rises. This could lead to excesses which would only end, after the fling, in hard times.

More Time for Slap

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 27 (AP)—Twenty-year-old Doris Gordon started out of Superior Court here yesterday to face a two to three-year prison term for setting fire to the apartment house in which she lived. A few minutes later she faced another two to three years. On the way out she gave state witness Louise Stanton a resounding slap on the face. Judge Walter E. Johnston rapped for order, reopened the case and told the woman she was getting more prison time to cool her temper. Mrs. Gordon admitted setting fire to her husband's clothing June 19 following an argument in their apartment.

The retired furniture polisher, who had eight children by his first two wives, is celebrating the birth of an eight-pound two-ounce son to his third wife, Antonetta, 34. Ferraro's older children have already given him 10 grandchildren and 5 great-grandchildren. He married his present wife on a visit to his native Italy in 1950.

Found Guilty

Bombay, India, July 27 (AP)—A 34-year-old rickshaw puller who lunged at Prime Minister Nehru's car during a parade in Nagpur March 13 was found guilty today of trying to murder the government chief with a knife. Following the verdict of the five-man jury against Baburao Kochale, the Nagpur district magistrate said he would pass sentence tomorrow.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Friday, June 17, a statement addressed to Joe Curran, signed by ten shipping corporations, appeared in the press. The question asked was: "Why put a premium on quitting?"

Now a guy says, "Don't be a sucker! Why work when you are paid for no work?

Mr. Hutton

Joe, that's a helluva "package." There's only one issue involved. A guy voluntarily decides to bounce himself from his job. Should he receive unemployment benefits? Curran, looks like you are trying to out-do Reuther!

When a guy quits he gets unemployment insurance. Does he pay taxes? Can he bounce out of a job after 26 weeks, then go on relief for another 26 weeks? Where ends the merry-go-round for more pay, less work — and, full pay, no work?

One answer is — when there is less production the unions will have less goods to ship.

What's the racket in your "local," Joe?

Look in Webster's Dictionary and see the meaning of "racketeer." It's defined as, "one who singly, or in combination with others, extorts money or advantages, by threats of violence, or unlawful interference with business."

Boss Joe, take a look. Have your boys "in combination with others," extorted money "by threats of violence"? Are you and other unions engaged in "unlawful interference with business"? Looks like your boys are attempting to blackjack and tomahawk business.

Send this to your Congressmen, neighbor.

Promised Land Lies in East For Many Jamaican Workers

Kingston, Jamaica, July 27 (AP)—For many workers in the West Indies, the Promised Land lies eastward.

Reversing a trend of three centuries, a steady migration from the new world to the old is helping with two problems—a labor demand in England and a surplus of laborers in Jamaica.

More than 12,000 Jamaicans have in two years left their tropical island to seek jobs in Britain. Only about one in a hundred returned.

SHIPPING lines offer cheap passage. Employers in England's industrial midlands are advertising for West Indian workers.

Many Jamaicans went to England during the war. Some remained and found good jobs in postwar prosperity. They sent word back to the Caribbean. Last year more than 8,000 made the trip. But this number made only a dent in the estimated 100,000 who are unemployed during the agriculture off-season. The government calls unemployment its most pressing problem.

Practically all who have emigrated are either Negro or have Negro blood.

WILLS ISAACS, minister for trade and industry in Jamaica, says he was in England recently "and found not the slightest discrimination." Others in Jamaica do not take such a satisfied view of the situation. They prefer to refer to the problems not as one of "racial discrimination" but of "racial sensitivity."

William Alexander Bustamante, contraversial favorite of a large portion of Jamaica's workingmen, says West Indians should flow freely to England "but we should not encourage them to go to England just to get rid of them here."

"ANY MAN in England who's earning less than 10 pounds ($28) a week would be better off here earning 30 shillings ($4.25)," this former prime minister of Jamaica insists.

A weekly wage of 30 shillings in Jamaica is not unusual.

Still, few emigrants have returned. Those who do frequently blame the English climate and way of life.

Why do they go to England?

"Principally," said Isaacs, "to save money so they can return home better off than when they left. And they're saving money."

Some, however, leave for England planning to stay there.

Jamaica also sends to the United States about 4,000 farm laborers annually for temporary work. These, of course, return home. The U. S. Immigration quota for Jamaica is only 100 annually.

Hitler Enemies Get Top Posts in German Army

Bonn, Germany, July 27 (AP)—Two of the 1944 bomb plotters against Hitler, Adolf Heusinger and Hans Speidel, have been named to the top ranks in the new German army.

They headed a list of officer appointments approved last night by the security committee of the Bundestag, lower house of West Germany's Parliament.

The officers first will serve in a 6,000-man volunteer force to be raised this year as the nucleus to the 500,000-man armed force West Germany has pledged to the Atlantic Alliance.

THOUGHTS IN A ROWBOAT

It's a long time between fish.

All a guy can do is sit there and think. The opportunity is so rare that the thoughts should be profound.

But probably they get around to something like computing the chances of catching anything worth while.

First, there's a gamble of even getting away from the family and wetting a line. That happens about 12 times a year so you start with odds of 12 to 365 against you.

Then proceed to the chance of getting the right lake where the big buster waits for you. Let's see, how many lakes in the United States? They call Minnesota the "land of the 10,000 lakes" just for one single state. Must be 100,000 to 1 odds there, anyway.

There's little chance of not getting a boat or breaking an oar when you get to the lake. If you use an outboard, they're almost infallible these days. You're way ahead here.

But finding the right hole is another thing. Twenty feet can make a whopping difference. Fellow fisherman are free with advice but they always keep the best spots as secret as the amount of their pay check.

Are the fish there that particular day? The weather can have them loafing out deep or picking their teeth under a lily somewhere else.

Are you going to drop your tackle box and scare every fish within a mile?

Then, for a fish to bite he's got to be hungry. When you see a big torpedo idly finning his way past your boat you think they never eat.

Next there's the case of just the right bait. That goes right down to the precise minnow or worm, for frequently a fisherman can see his adversary come dashing up to the hook then back away like a pedestrian from a panhandler.

Will be miss when he strikes? Will the anxious fisherman jerk the hook away from him when he tries to hook him? Will be toss the hook and become the big one that got away?

What are the odds on getting him from the water beside the boat over the gunwale? Will it be a keeper? How many out of 1000 fish jump out after being once in the boat and unhooked? How many stringers or burlap bags are lost off the sides of boat on the way home?

Call the insurance company statistical departments. All these odds must be stupendous. One little night crawler in all that water? Poof.

Consider the fisherman to discover the amazing nature of the human being and to understand why, of all the species including fish, he has become the lord of the globe.

He keeps in there, persistently ignoring the odds, dangling his sad little pink worms, flicking his silly feathers through the water, dunking his implausable costume jewelry lures instead of just going home and lying in a darkened room with a cold wet cloth on his forehead.

What was that? A BITE!

A BRISK WALK, ANYONE?

The fellow who can devise a lazy way to become slim and trim will have an address on Easy Street. Americans are doing a lot of worrying about overweight, and they are willing to pay for advice—if it doesn't involve too much work.

But the chances of finding an easy remedy for those extra pounds are dwindling. It begins to look more and more as though there will have to be a little huffing and puffing for those who want to keep fit.

Not long ago, for example, three New York University doctors told the American Medical Association that lack of exercise makes such things as diabetes, backaches, heart trouble and various other ailments—not to mention plain, old-fashioned fatness—more likely. And in the July issue of The Atlantic an expert on obesity writes that exercise is necessary to keep the weight down.

"If we want to avoid obesity," says Dr. Jean Mayer of the Harvard School of Public Health, "we must either exercise more or feel hungry all our lives." In short, eat a lot less or do more pushups. Physical fitness is like learning: there's no royal road to take you there.

'These Days'

NEUTRALISM

Those countries which do not choose to line up either with Soviet Russia or the United States find themselves in the awkward position of being squeezed in the conflict between these giants. Some countries are so situated geographically that their decisions cannot be their own. Norway and Sweden are so situated; Soviet Russia could take them without an effort unless the United States acted first. In a word, they would be taken by one side or the other. President Eisenhower's assurance that the United States would not initiate a war does not help such countries because they do not have an equal guarantee from the power that could more easily take them.

Afghanistan is similarly situated. So is Iran. To a degree, so are West Germany and France.

In a measure, the airplane and the North Pole have changed political and military geography. It is hard to realize by looking at the map, but when one flies from London to New York, one is never really far from land in aeronautical terms in that long stretch. Flying over the North Pole is now a practical matter which occurs daily. Actually there is a commercial route from the West Coast of the United States to Europe which employs the extreme Northern Route.

What chance do the smaller countries have? They saw what Hitler could do to them, and Hitler had no such weapons of war as the United States and Soviet Russia would let loose in the next war. Therefore, most of the smaller and weaker countries are neutral and want peace at any price. It seems ungenerous to talk about war after the demonstration for peace at Geneva, but the small countries need to be very suspicious and practical because what is at stake is their existence.

Paul Hoffman, who has developed into an articulate statesman, said at a Rotary convention in Chicago:

"Not for one moment should we assume that those countries which are unwilling to join a military alliance with us are necessarily against us. We followed a neutralist policy for the first century and a half in our life as a nation, and we were not judged unfriendly for so doing."

That has little to do with anything, although it sounds like a plausible argument. If war came, either the United States or Soviet Russia would take as many of these smaller nations as they could. There would be no question of past history or of past or current friendship. Everything would be done in the name of military necessity, which it would undoubtedly be.

The only advantage that a small nation has, if it becomes a Soviet satellite, is that its boundaries are currently protected by Russian might; the advantage that such a nation has if it joins the United States is that we put bases all over the place and develop the country economically so that it may be an advantageous war potential. Meanwhile considerable wealth is added to the economy of that nation. Also, it goes through an inflationary period. We are doing that today in Spain, Turkey and Greece, to say nothing of many other countries. Friendship is not a factor in all this; it is cold military strategy.

It is historically incorrect to suggest that we were neutralist for the first century and a half of our history. That is the application of a currently popular term to conditions which were altogether different geographically. We were separated from Europe by a mighty ocean not easily traversible. (Mr. Hoffman may know that there were no jet bombers in those days!)

Nevertheless, Great Britain, up to the end of our War Between the States, disliked our refusal to become involved in "entangling alliances," and during that war sided with the South against the North and employed unfriendly measures until it was certain that the South could not win. Also France, prior to that, interfered in our affairs and it was against France that the Alien and Sedition Laws were passed. Also there was the fear that the Holy Alliance would move upon other American countries and there was the Maximilian affair in Mexico. In a word, as a weak and backward nation, although we were protected by an effective ocean, we had our troubles.

The small nations want peace because it is their only hope for survival in the kind of war the world now faces.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

PSYCHOGENIC RHEUMATISM

Although we are gradually becoming used to the idea that many symptoms of which we complain have their origin in our minds and emotions (Psychogenic) such as intestinal upsets, rapid heart beat, and others, we may not be aware that this idea also applies to rheumatism and that there is a definite condition known as psychogenic rheumatism. In fact, it is quiet common as we are told that in a recent study of 500 consecutive civilian patients with rheumatic disease, the diagnosis of psychogenic rheumatism was made in 13.4 per cent of cases.

A study has been made of the patient with psychogenic rheumatism under the following heads:

Chief Symptoms: Often vague. Patient may describe the "pain" as a burning, tightness, fullness, numbness, weakness, tingling, pressure or "queer feeling." The muscles and joints may be "tense" rather than stiff.

Factor Influencing Symptoms: The symptoms seem to change along with changes in the person's everyday mental and physical environment. They tend to be worse during or following emotional stress, and temporarily relieved by mental distraction (theatre, social gather, sports events, etc.)

Degree of Disability: This varies but may be severe and out of all proportion to any actual findings present. In fact, the disability may be even greater than if true disease were present.

Constancy of Complaints: The complaints tend to be constant, "bad all the time" or "getting worse." Exercise almost always aggravates.

Location of Symptoms: May "skip here, there and everywhere."

Response to Examination: Often over-reacts, is tense and resistant; a "touch-me-not" attitude.

Response to Treatment: This may vary, often nothing helps. Drugs usually used such as aspirin are frequently ineffective, local heat seems to make worse; alcoholic beverages relieves temporarily.

Associated Complaints: Often nervousness, shaking of hands, sleeplessness, headaches, sighing, unusual postures and limps.

What may be the cause of psychgenic rheumatism? One research worker says that a feeling of "smoldering resentment" is the basis of the trouble. Resentment breeds feeling of discontent and rebellion. If the patient restrains any outward showing of this feeling a sense of continuous hostility follows which prevents the patient from relaxing. A state of constant muscle tension is created which leads to symptoms of aching, tenseness, stiffness and muscular fatigue.

Washington — (NEA) — The hassle over 19 so-called "dollar-a-year" men in Department of Commerce smells a little bit of politics.

But it is really a Democratic attempt to discredit a system that was set up by the Democratic administration itself during the Korean war emergency.

The aim was to get experienced business executives, thoroughly familiar with the problems of their various industries, to handle government allocations and priorities of scare materials channeled into defense production.

A secondary objective was to train a large number of business executives in government administration. The idea was to build up a pool of trained administrators who could be drafted to come to Washington to handle all-out defense production and industrial mobilization in case the country got into a major war.

THE SYSTEM HAS WORKED WELL on both phases. In the five years since the Defense Production Act of 1950 was passed, nearly 100 business executives have done tours of duty in Washington ranging from six months to a year and a half.

Actually, these men are not "dollar-a-year" men. They are known as WOC, which is government gobbledygook for "without compensation." They work full time.

There is another group, known as WAE, which stands for "when actually employed." They are advisers who are called to Washington for a day or a week or a month to work on particular problems. They are given a per diem allowance to cover their expenses away from home.

The WOC get no government salary. They continue on the payroll of their company. Often they are $25,000 to $50,000-a-year men who come to Washington to take jobs normally paying $10,000 to $14,000.

Not being willing to take these salary reductions, even for six months or a year, they are kept on private payrolls by their companies, which donate their services. The assignments are rotated among various companies in the particular industry by their trade associations.

THESE WOC GET TRAVEL EXPENSES and per diem allowances — when they ask for them. The allowance is $15 a day, though there is now a proposal in Congress to raise it to $24 a day, since the $15 doesn't cover the cost of hotel living.

In Department of Commerce, the 19 WOC now on the job are all in the Business and Defense Services Administration. This is a successor to the old National Production Authority.

BDSA, since the end of the Korea fighting, has been cut down to a staff of about 450 government career people who today carry on the work and provide the necessary continuity.

The WOC division administrators, fresh from the business world, keep the government from fouling up civilian goods production while directing the available supplies of iron, steel, copper and aluminum into the multi-billion-dollar defense contracts.

None of these WOC ever makes a policy decision. And whenever an allocation is called for involving the company from which a WOC official comes, he must bow out of the case and let someone else handle it.

This latter angle is the particular phase which a House Judiciary Subcommittee under Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N. Y.) isn't so sure about and is looking into.

AMONG THE WOC OFFICIALS now in Washington are:

Assistant Administrators Stanley F. Damkroger of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph, Seattle, and Norval W. Postweiler, Riegel Paper Co., New York.

BDSA material division directors include:

Harold C. Erskine, Aluminum Co. of America, Pittsburgh; Joseph W. Eskridge, Hudson division of American Motors, Detroit; Theodore S. Hodgins, Reichold Chemicals, White Plains, N. Y.; Hugh A. Barnhart, Rochester Telephone Co., Rochester, Ind.; George E. Peterson, Simplex Wire & Cable Co., Cambridge, Mass.; John S. Vander Heide, Holland-American Wafer Co., Grand Rapids; William A. Simon, Jr., Walworth Co., New York; William H. Thomas, Sharon Steel Corp., Warren, Ohio; Robert D. James, American Box Board Co., Grand Rapids; Ralph R. Baldenhofer, Thompson Grinder Co., Springfield, Ohio; William M. Fishing, Babcock & Wilcox Co., New York; Harry F. Bower, James B. Clow & Sons, Chicago.

There are also three deputy directors on the job: Henry A. Frutig, Aluminum-Magnesium, Inc., Sandusky, Ohio; Leonard O. Lea, Kieckheifer Container Co., Camden, N. J.; Robert W. Clark, Powers Regulator Co., Skokie, Ill.

Talbott Case Raises Issue Of Ethics in Goverment

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 26 — Just what is "ethical" or "unethical" in the day-by-day conduct of persons who enter the government service from business and the profesions?

The case of Harold Talbott Secretary of the Air Force sharpens the issue. He told the Senate committee, when he was confirmed for his present post in 1953, that he was giving up his special partnership in Paul B. Mulligan & Company, a management engineering firm. He said in recent testimony that he had not in any way promoted business for the Mulligan Company in connection with Air Force contracts.

TESTIMONY. was adduced that Mulligan had solicited business from contractors who had defense contracts with the government, and some of them had a negligible amount with the Air Force. Was it ethical for Mr. Talbott to continue this partnership after his confirmation, and should the Senate committee have told him that it was unethical when he was confirmed? Should any official engage in a sideline of a money-making nature while drawing a salary from the government as a full-time employe?

The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt didn't see anything improper in allowing his private secretary, Louis Howe, to receive more than $1,000 a week from a public utility company for a broadcast over a national radio network. Nor did Mr. Roosevelt see anything improper in intervening from the White House with business men to help his sons in their commercial endeavors.

BUT ALL of this was under a Democratic administration. Officials of the Eisenhower Republican administration are supposed to be above such things.

It develops, however, that Mr. Talbott, while Secretary of the Air Force, wrote letters to friends of long standing and told them about the services of the engineering company, which it appears saved a lot of money for its clients because of the introduction of efficient methods.

If Mr. Talbott's action is considered now to be unethical, what was the responsibility of the Senate committee which confirmed him and failed to look into it?

WHAT IS the responsibility also of the House and Senate today with respect to those members who continue to receive regular income from their law firms back home whose clients do business with the government of the United States?

Many members of Congress act as attorneys in local and state courts for labor unions as well as corporations, and receive fees while they are serving in the House of Representatives or the Senate. Is it ethical for this practice to be continued?

Many members of Congress make speeches and receive large sums as "honorariums." Some of these fees come from labor unions and from trade associations, many of which are interested in legislation pending before Congress. Is it ethical for members of Congress to accept such fees?

AVERELL HARRIMAN was Secretary of Commerce in President Truman's Cabinet but was not requested to give up his huge holdings in the Union Pacific Railroad.

Martin Durkin was Secretary of Labor in President Eisenhower's Cabinet, and the Senate voted confirmation without requesting him to sever his relations with the plumbers' union with which he still had a contract, though he was given leave of absence and his pension rights were continued while he was on duty in the government.

Edward F. Howrey was formerly the attorney for Firestone Company, and is now chairman of the Federal Trade Commission. When the Firestone case came up before the commission, he took no part in it. When the commission voted three to none to file an appeal from the court decision which was in favor of the Firestone Company, Mr. Howrey urged the Department of Justice to appeal the case to a higher court, which is exactly the opposite from the position he had once taken on that issue as a private lawyer. He thinks he should be commended for this action, but Representative Joe Evins, Democrat, of Tennessee, member of the House Small Business Committee, said Mr. Howrey's action had raised a "grave ethical question."

PERHAPS the Talbott case will focus attention on the entire issue of ethics in the government, but the biggest single phase will probably not be touched. It is that substantial contributions to campaign funds of members of Congress are made by individuals connected with companies or labor unions which have a continuing interest in legislation before Congress. Until and unless Congress passes a law prohibiting campaign contributions in excess of a nominal sum—$10 or $25—members of Congress will still be beholden, theoretically at least, to the large campaign contributors, and the question of ethics will never be really removed from the realm of public criticism.

This correspondent many years ago suggested that campaign contributions be limited by law to very small sums, but the argument has always been made in rebuttal that the cost of soliciting small contributions is prohibitive and consumes virtually all the receipts. The fact is that it has never had a trial, and that's about the only way to resolve the issue.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Geneva — The result of the Geneva conference is entirely up to each individual, to be determined by the individual's political and spiritual chemistry.

There are those who wistfully believe that personal manifestations by the Soviet agents, the sudden resort to affability in contrast to the surly demeanor which had been characteristic of the Reds since 1944, even when Harry Hopkins, Henry Wallace and Averell Harriman were forcing our treasure upon an obvious enemy, has important meaning.

These, and many other optimists besides, will delight themselves, momentarily at least, with a belief that President Eisenhower's expressions here have suddenly, for the first time, informed a startled and delighted world that the United States has no secret design to provoke the final world war.

It certainly was not necessary to go through all the commotion and effort of a week of discussion in Geneva to establish that fact. Nevertheless, the President will be acclaimed for inviting the enemy again to contemplate actions which the enemy could not consent to without submitting to a defeat by diplomacy in all the issues of the cold war.

The enemy is the enemy because he holds Poland, the Baltic and the Balkans captive and employs political slavery in his mysterious industrial empire in a secret world beyond the knowledge of the west.

He is the enemy because he has salted our own bureaucracy with traitors and other spies and availed himself of our helplessness against the ordinary observation of the most casual stroller.

One day early in the war, Eric Nelson, a native Swede but a naturalized American and a magnificent grease-monkey of aviation, in his Yon Yohnson dialect complained that we were escorting the Russians through all our secret factories and showing them all our plans, when they would not show any American the blueprint of a screw driver.

Far from exaggerating, Eric, now a retired brigadier of the U. S. Air Force, expressed this opinion without knowledge of the fact, at that time undisclosed, that Wallace as secretary of commerce with jurisdiction over the patent office, was delivering thousands of inventions to the Soviet Embassy for 25 cents each and was meekly submitting to abusive letters from Soviet procurement for taking too long to comply with requisitions, which were not requests but demands.

When President Eisenhower offers to tell and show all to the Soviets as a quid pro quo he conveys an impression that we are in a position to bargain, when most of our secrets have been thrust upon the foe and most of the remainder have been stolen.

It may seem handsome of him to invite the enemy to trade scientific and military secrets, but the illusion dies when one remembers that Ike himself hounded Joe McCarthy for hounding Soviet spies in radar at Fort Monmouth, and his own political henchmen of radio, TV and the Ford Foundation rallied to the cause of Professor Oppenheimer, who literally slept with two Communists and had traffic with others and lied about it because he was so brainy that he didn't know right from wrong.

We are not in a trading position. We have an army of spoiled sojourners with off-post privileges, without discipline, skill or determination and an air force of great technical ability whose best flyers nevertheless are husbands and daddies serving only until they can get out and assume in civil life the same economic status or better with none of the peril.

The Russians know all there is to know about our "establishments" and our weapons.

As to whether Ike has become a new hope of the western world, a noble visage glowing in the clouds after the manner of the Italian posters of Mussolini 20 years ago, again the verdict is dictated by the political and spiritual chemistry of the individual.

There are those who sadly but firmly hold that to indulge in this dream is to renew one's faith in Santa Claus.

The Communists are, for all that these dealing have shown to the contrary, still the same resolute, hateful, implacable cutthroats that they have been since 1917, and whoever would base foreign policy on the slight outward change in personal bearing by a few individual agents should remind himself that the greatest lovers of the screen have been the most notorious tomcats of the age.

To put the best possible face on matters, Ike did contrive to relegate all other western nations to subordinate status and to thrust the United States into the position of leader.

The Russians fell in with this when they proposed that we and they should have armies of from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 and that Britain and France should have only 600,000 each.

But are the people of the United States willing to fight Soviet Russia to maintain the western character of western Europe and to keep the Soviet Chinese hosts out of Formosa, Japan and the Philippines?

If so, who is going to carry the muskets and fly the planes? What are their names?

And will the organization tables again call for the eagles of a colonel, for a bootlegger detailed to procure food, booze and women for the brass abroad and for lavish rank for 10,000 commissioned press agents and experts in mass psychology?

We knew we were dealing with bad people a year ago, but some of us are trying to persuade the rest that the enemy has abandoned all the traits and purposes that made him a peril without the slightest evidence that he has altered any of them.

Shall we coexist then? So far we have.

The enemy still has the veto on all our ideals and hopes, and the great material power of the west is still our principal force to deter him. But force is still the persuader.

THOUGHTS IN A ROWBOAT

It's a long time between fish.

All a guy can do is sit there and think. The opportunity is so rare that the thoughts should be profound.

But probably they get around to something like computing the chances of catching anything worth while.

First, there's a gamble of even getting away from the family and wetting a line. That happens about 12 times a year so you start with odds of 12 to 365 against you.

Then proceed to the chance of getting the right lake where the big buster waits for you. Let's see, how many lakes in the United States? They call Minnesota the "land of the 10,000 lakes" just for one single state. Must be 100,000 to 1 odds there, anyway.

There's little chance of not getting a boat or breaking an oar when you get to the lake. If you use an outboard, they're almost infallible these days. You're way ahead here.

But finding the right hole is another thing. Twenty feet can make a whopping difference. Fellow fisherman are free with advice but they always keep the best spots as secret as the amount of their pay check.

Are the fish there that particular day? The weather can have them loafing out deep or picking their teeth under a lily somewhere else.

Are you going to drop your tackle box and scare every fish within a mile?

Then, for a fish to bite he's got to be hungry. When you see a big torpedo idly finning his way past your boat you think they never eat.

Next there's the case of just the right bait. That goes right down to the precise minnow or worm, for frequently a fisherman can see his adversary come dashing up to the hook then back away like a pedestrian from a panhandler.

Will be miss when he strikes? Will the anxious fisherman jerk the hook away from him when he tries to hook him? Will be toss the hook and become the big one that got away?

What are the odds on getting him from the water beside the boat over the gunwale? Will it be a keeper? How many out of 1000 fish jump out after being once in the boat and unhooked? How many stringers or burlap bags are lost off the sides of boat on the way home?

Call the insurance company statistical departments. All these odds must be stupendous. One little night crawler in all that water? Poof.

Consider the fisherman to discover the amazing nature of the human being and to understand why, of all the species including fish, he has become the lord of the globe.

He keeps in there, persistently ignoring the odds, dangling his sad little pink worms, flicking his silly feathers through the water, dunking his implausable costume jewelry lures instead of just going home and lying in a darkened room with a cold wet cloth on his forehead.

What was that? A BITE!

A BRISK WALK, ANYONE?

The fellow who can devise a lazy way to become slim and trim will have an address on Easy Street. Americans are doing a lot of worrying about overweight, and they are willing to pay for advice—if it doesn't involve too much work.

But the chances of finding an easy remedy for those extra pounds are dwindling. It begins to look more and more as though there will have to be a little huffing and puffing for those who want to keep fit.

Not long ago, for example, three New York University doctors told the American Medical Association that lack of exercise makes such things as diabetes, backaches, heart trouble and various other ailments—not to mention plain, old-fashioned fatness—more likely. And in the July issue of The Atlantic an expert on obesity writes that exercise is necessary to keep the weight down.

"If we want to avoid obesity," says Dr. Jean Mayer of the Harvard School of Public Health, "we must either exercise more or feel hungry all our lives." In short, eat a lot less or do more pushups. Physical fitness is like learning: there's no royal road to take you there.

NEUTRALISM

Those countries which do not choose to line up either with Soviet Russia or the United States find themselves in the awkward position of being squeezed in the conflict between these giants. Some countries are so situated geographically that their decisions cannot be their own. Norway and Sweden are so situated; Soviet Russia could take them without an effort unless the United States acted first. In a word, they would be taken by one side or the other. President Eisenhower's assurance that the United States would not initiate a war does not help such countries because they do not have an equal guarantee from the power that could more easily take them.

Afghanistan is similarly situated. So is Iran. To a degree, so are West Germany and France.

In a measure, the airplane and the North Pole have changed political and military geography. It is hard to realize by looking at the map, but when one flies from London to New York, one is never really far from land in aeronautical terms in that long stretch. Flying over the North Pole is now a practical matter which occurs daily. Actually there is a commercial route from the West Coast of the United States to Europe which employs the extreme Northern Route.

What chance do the smaller countries have? They saw what Hitler could do to them, and Hitler had no such weapons of war as the United States and Soviet Russia would let loose in the next war. Therefore, most of the smaller and weaker countries are neutral and want peace at any price. It seems ungenerous to talk about war after the demonstration for peace at Geneva, but the small countries need to be very suspicious and practical because what is at stake is their existence.

Paul Hoffman, who has developed into an articulate statesman, said at a Rotary convention in Chicago:

"Not for one moment should we assume that those countries which are unwilling to join a military alliance with us are necessarily against us. We followed a neutralist policy for the first century and a half in our life as a nation, and we were not judged unfriendly for so doing."

That has little to do with anything, although it sounds like a plausible argument. If war came, either the United States or Soviet Russia would take as many of these smaller nations as they could. There would be no question of past history or of past or current friendship. Everything would be done in the name of military necessity, which it would undoubtedly be.

The only advantage that a small nation has, if it becomes a Soviet satellite, is that its boundaries are currently protected by Russian might; the advantage that such a nation has if it joins the United States is that we put bases all over the place and develop the country economically so that it may be an advantageous war potential. Meanwhile considerable wealth is added to the economy of that nation. Also, it goes through an inflationary period. We are doing that today in Spain, Turkey and Greece, to say nothing of many other countries. Friendship is not a factor in all this; it is cold military strategy.

It is historically incorrect to suggest that we were neutralist for the first century and a half of our history. That is the application of a currently popular term to conditions which were altogether different geographically. We were separated from Europe by a mighty ocean not easily traversible. (Mr. Hoffman may know that there were no jet bombers in those days!)

Nevertheless, Great Britain, up to the end of our War Between the States, disliked our refusal to become involved in "entangling alliances," and during that war sided with the South against the North and employed unfriendly measures until it was certain that the South could not win. Also France, prior to that, interfered in our affairs and it was against France that the Alien and Sedition Laws were passed. Also there was the fear that the Holy Alliance would move upon other American countries and there was the Maximilian affair in Mexico. In a word, as a weak and backward nation, although we were protected by an effective ocean, we had our troubles.

The small nations want peace because it is their only hope for survival in the kind of war the world now faces.

PSYCHOGENIC RHEUMATISM

Although we are gradually becoming used to the idea that many symptoms of which we complain have their origin in our minds and emotions (Psychogenic) such as intestinal upsets, rapid heart beat, and others, we may not be aware that this idea also applies to rheumatism and that there is a definite condition known as psychogenic rheumatism. In fact, it is quiet common as we are told that in a recent study of 500 consecutive civilian patients with rheumatic disease, the diagnosis of psychogenic rheumatism was made in 13.4 per cent of cases.

A study has been made of the patient with psychogenic rheumatism under the following heads:

Chief Symptoms: Often vague. Patient may describe the "pain" as a burning, tightness, fullness, numbness, weakness, tingling, pressure or "queer feeling." The muscles and joints may be "tense" rather than stiff.

Factor Influencing Symptoms: The symptoms seem to change along with changes in the person's everyday mental and physical environment. They tend to be worse during or following emotional stress, and temporarily relieved by mental distraction (theatre, social gather, sports events, etc.)

Degree of Disability: This varies but may be severe and out of all proportion to any actual findings present. In fact, the disability may be even greater than if true disease were present.

Constancy of Complaints: The complaints tend to be constant, "bad all the time" or "getting worse." Exercise almost always aggravates.

Location of Symptoms: May "skip here, there and everywhere."

Response to Examination: Often over-reacts, is tense and resistant; a "touch-me-not" attitude.

Response to Treatment: This may vary, often nothing helps. Drugs usually used such as aspirin are frequently ineffective, local heat seems to make worse; alcoholic beverages relieves temporarily.

Associated Complaints: Often nervousness, shaking of hands, sleeplessness, headaches, sighing, unusual postures and limps.

What may be the cause of psychgenic rheumatism? One research worker says that a feeling of "smoldering resentment" is the basis of the trouble. Resentment breeds feeling of discontent and rebellion. If the patient restrains any outward showing of this feeling a sense of continuous hostility follows which prevents the patient from relaxing. A state of constant muscle tension is created which leads to symptoms of aching, tenseness, stiffness and muscular fatigue.

Talbott Case Raises Issue Of Ethics in Goverment

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 26 — Just what is "ethical" or "unethical" in the day-by-day conduct of persons who enter the government service from business and the profesions?

The case of Harold Talbott Secretary of the Air Force sharpens the issue. Nor did Mr. Roosevelt see anything improper in intervening from the White House with business men to help his sons in their commercial endeavors.

BUT ALL of this was under a Democratic administration. Officials of the Eisenhower Republican administration are supposed to be above such things.

It develops, however, that Mr. Talbott, while Secretary of the Air Force, wrote letters to friends of long standing and told them about the services of the engineering company, which it appears saved a lot of money for its clients because of the introduction of efficient methods.

If Mr. Talbott's action is considered now to be unethical, what was the responsibility of the Senate committee which confirmed him and failed to look into it?

WHAT IS the responsibility also of the House and Senate today with respect to those members who continue to receive regular income from their law firms back home whose clients do business with the government of the United States?

Many members of Congress act as attorneys in local and state courts for labor unions as well as corporations, and receive fees while they are serving in the House of Representatives or the Senate. Is it ethical for this practice to be continued?

Many members of Congress make speeches and receive large sums as "honorariums." Some of these fees come from labor unions and from trade associations, many of which are interested in legislation pending before Congress. Is it ethical for members of Congress to accept such fees?

AVERELL HARRIMAN was Secretary of Commerce in President Truman's Cabinet but was not requested to give up his huge holdings in the Union Pacific Railroad.

Martin Durkin was Secretary of Labor in President Eisenhower's Cabinet, and the Senate voted confirmation without requesting him to sever his relations with the plumbers' union with which he still had a contract, though he was given leave of absence and his pension rights were continued while he was on duty in the government.

Edward F. Howrey was formerly the attorney for Firestone Company, and is now chairman of the Federal Trade Commission. When the Firestone case came up before the commission, he took no part in it. When the commission voted three to none to file an appeal from the court decision which was in favor of the Firestone Company, Mr. Howrey urged the Department of Justice to appeal the case to a higher court, which is exactly the opposite from the position he had once taken on that issue as a private lawyer. He thinks he should be commended for this action, but Representative Joe Evins, Democrat, of Tennessee, member of the House Small Business Committee, said Mr. Howrey's action had raised a "grave ethical question."

PERHAPS the Talbott case will focus attention on the entire issue of ethics in the government, but the biggest single phase will probably not be touched. It is that substantial contributions to campaign funds of members of Congress are made by individuals connected with companies or labor unions which have a continuing interest in legislation before Congress. Until and unless Congress passes a law prohibiting campaign contributions in excess of a nominal sum—$10 or $25—members of Congress will still be beholden, theoretically at least, to the large campaign contributors, and the question of ethics will never be really removed from the realm of public criticism.

This correspondent many years ago suggested that campaign contributions be limited by law to very small sums, but the argument has always been made in rebuttal that the cost of soliciting small contributions is prohibitive and consumes virtually all the receipts. The fact is that it has never had a trial, and that's about the only way to resolve the issue.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Geneva — The result of the Geneva conference is entirely up to each individual, to be determined by the individual's political and spiritual chemistry.

There are those who wistfully believe that personal manifestations by the Soviet agents, the sudden resort to affability in contrast to the surly demeanor which had been characteristic of the Reds since 1944, even when Harry Hopkins, Henry Wallace and Averell Harriman were forcing our treasure upon an obvious enemy, has important meaning.

These, and many other optimists besides, will delight themselves, momentarily at least, with a belief that President Eisenhower's expressions here have suddenly, for the first time, informed a startled and delighted world that the United States has no secret design to provoke the final world war.

It certainly was not necessary to go through all the commotion and effort of a week of discussion in Geneva to establish that fact. Nevertheless, the President will be acclaimed for inviting the enemy again to contemplate actions which the enemy could not consent to without submitting to a defeat by diplomacy in all the issues of the cold war.

The enemy is the enemy because he holds Poland, the Baltic and the Balkans captive and employs political slavery in his mysterious industrial empire in a secret world beyond the knowledge of the west.

He is the enemy because he has salted our own bureaucracy with traitors and other spies and availed himself of our helplessness against the ordinary observation of the most casual stroller.

One day early in the war, Eric Nelson, a native Swede but a naturalized American and a magnificent grease-monkey of aviation, in his Yon Yohnson dialect complained that we were escorting the Russians through all our secret factories and showing them all our plans, when they would not show any American the blueprint of a screw driver.

Far from exaggerating, Eric, now a retired brigadier of the U. S. Air Force, expressed this opinion without knowledge of the fact, at that time undisclosed, that Wallace as secretary of commerce with jurisdiction over the patent office, was delivering thousands of inventions to the Soviet Embassy for 25 cents each and was meekly submitting o abusive letters from Soviet procurement for taking too long to comply with requisitions, which were not requests but demands.

When President Eisenhower offers to tell and show all to the Soviets as a quid pro quo he conveys an impression that we are in a position to bargain, when most of our secrets have been thrust upon the foe and most of the remainder have been stolen.

It may seem handsome of him to invite the enemy to trade scientific and military secrets, but the illusion dies when one remembers that Ike himself hounded Joe McCarthy for hounding Soviet spies in radar at Fort Monmouth, and his own political henchmen of radio, TV and the Ford Foundation rallied to the cause of Professor Oppenheimer, who literally slept with two Communists and had traffic with others and lied about it because he was so brainy that he didn't know right from wrong.

We are not in a trading position. We have an army of spoiled sojourners with off-post privileges, without discipline, skill or determination and an air force of great technical ability whose best flyers nevertheless are husbands and daddies serving only until they can get out and assume in civil life the same economic status or better with none of the peril.

The Russians know all there is to know about our "establishments" and our weapons.

As to whether Ike has become a new hope of the western world, a noble visage glowing in the clouds after the manner of the Italian posters of Mussolini 20 years ago, again the verdict is dictated by the political and spiritual chemistry of the individual.

There are those who sadly but firmly hold that to indulge in this dream is to renew one's faith in Santa Claus.

The Communists are, for all that these dealing have shown to the contrary, still the same resolute, hateful, implacable cutthroats that they have been since 1917, and whoever would base foreign policy on the slight outward change in personal bearing by a few individual agents should remind himself that the greatest lovers of the screen have been the most notorious tomcats of the age.

To put the best possible face on matters, Ike did contrive to relegate all other western nations to subordinate status and to thrust the United States into the position of leader.

The Russians fell in with this when they proposed that we and they should have armies of from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 and that Britain and France should have only 600,000 each.

But are the people of the United States willing to fight Soviet Russia to maintain the western character of western Europe and to keep the Soviet Chinese hosts out of Formosa, Japan and the Philippines?

If so, who is going to carry the muskets and fly the planes? What are their names?

And will the organization tables again call for the eagles of a colonel, for a bootlegger detailed to procure food, booze and women for the brass abroad and for lavish rank for 10,000 commissioned press agents and experts in mass psychology?

We knew we were dealing with bad people a year ago, but some of us are trying to persuade the rest that the enemy has abandoned all the traits and purposes that made him a peril without the slightest evidence that he has altered any of them.

Shall we coexist then? So far we have.

The enemy still has the veto on all our ideals and hopes, and the great material power of the west is still our principal force to deter him. But force is still the persuader.

Q—Does the pilot fist lead a shark to its prey?

A—It was once thought that the tiny pilot fish warned the shark of danger, and led it to food. But scientific observation has proved that the small fish accompanies the shark only to eat the food the shark leaves.

It's the 4-Door Riviera—
the stunning new hit of America's Hardtops

WHEN Buick introduced this nation's first hardtop—the Riviera—folks went for it, and fast.

They liked the Convertible look of this 2-door beauty—long, low and rakish. They liked the added security of the steel roof overhead. And they certainly liked the absence of center posts in the side window areas—which gave a completely unbroken view left and right.

People liked it all so well that, over the past six years, they made the Riviera the biggest-selling hardtop in the world, bar none. And it still is.

Now Buick has come up with another great advance in hardtops—the 4-Door Riviera—and it's a sensational hit.

It has everything the original 2-Door Riviera has—plus separate doors for rear-seat passengers, and a whale of a lot more room for them.

Rock-solid half-pillars on either side are what latch the front doors and hinge the rear ones. So there's no center post above the door line—and a completely open sweep of view to both sides.

And the roominess provided by this gorgeous new hardtop is really something—over 9 inches more hiproom and 5 inches more legroom in the rear.

Why don't you come see this brand-new kind of automobile that's heading up the parade of the hottest-selling line of Buicks in history?

That way you can also try Buick comfort, Buick power, Buick ride and handling and roadability—plus the electrifying action of Buick's Variable Pitch Dynaflow.*

Do it this week—tomorrow would be fine—and you'll see what record volume really means in the way of record-high trade-in deals.

Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on ROADMASTER, optional at modest extra cost on other Series.*

Gambler Erickson Hit With Heavy Income Tax Liens

Freehold, N. J., July 27 (AP)—Gambler Frank Erickson has been slapped with federal income tax liens totaling more than five million dollars.

The liens, filed yesterday by the Brooklyn office of the Internal Revenue Department, were recorded here and in New Orleans.

Erickson, onetime kingpin bookmaker, has served five months in Milan, Mich., federal penitentiary for income tax evasion, and spent 10 months in New Jersey State Prison for bookmaking and conspiracy.

SINCE HIS release from the Michigan penitentiary last May, Erickson has led a quiet life in New York.

The liens were recorded here at the Monmouth county seat because of Erickson's interest in a local corporation—the Walter Reade Corp., which operates a chain of theatres.

Details of the government's claim against Erickson were withheld by the Brooklyn tax office, where a spokesman said "we have no right to disclose anything about it."

ONE OF THE liens against Erickson and his wife Amelia, lists nonpayment of taxes of $3,212,010 for the three-year period of 1948-1950.

In a statement, Walter Reade Jr., president of the local firm in which Erickson has an interest, said: "Frank Erickson is a stockholder in the Park avenue,-59th Street Corp., owner of the building located at that corner in New York city. The Reade interests also own stock in the corporation and supervise management of the building. Mr Erickson has no other interest in or connection with any other Walter Reade enterprise, nor has he ever had at any time."

200 Prisoners End Texas Jail Riot

San Antonio, Tex., July 27 (AP)—All was quiet today in the Bexar County Jail where more than 200 prisoners broke into a riot last night that lasted nearly three hours.

A reinforced crew of jailers stood guard through the night as a safeguard against any new outbreak. Some prisoners claimed insufficient food caused the disturbance.

Nobody was seriously injured but damage done to the fourth and fifth floors of the jail was extensive. Sheriff's officers said some of the rioting prisoners suffered "bumps and cuts." None of the scores of officers who tried to quell the riot was reported hurt.

The riot came to an end shortly before midnight after promises were made that the riot leaders and rioters would not be punished for the action which began about 8:45 p. m.

Some jailers who tried to stop the first disturbance with fire hose had the hose taken from them and were themselves driven from the floor with the high-pressure torrents.

Spellman to Stay Out

New York, July 27 (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman has messaged his office that he will stay out of Argentina, scene of recent church-state feuding, even though his ship makes a call there. The chancery office of the New York Archdiocese said last night the cardinal had sent a radiogram of his decision from the Brazil, the ship on which he is now traveling. He has been in South America in connection with the Roman Catholic Church's 36th International Eucharistic Congress in Brazil.

Eggs on Demand

University Park, Pa. (AP)—Harry Kauffman, poultry specialist for Pennsylvania State University, says farmers producing eggs for a local market can fix production schedules to equalize monthly output. One flock of chickens hatched in winter and another flock hatched in June will help to equalize monthly production, Kauffman explained.

Kiddie Car

Los Angeles (AP)—Disc jockey Bill Ballance said he was driving to work on his midget foreign car when traffic stopped at a signal light and he found himself next to an immense double-trailer truck. The driver looked down at Ballance and the tiny car. Laughing, he cracked, "And what else did your Daddy give you for your birthday, sonny?"

Repair Work Near on Greene County Road

Plans are progressing toward start of work on a four-mile section of the Stony Clove Notch road, town of Hunter, Greene county, it was indicated today.

Newton F. Ronan, state engineer in the district, reported that the plans were to be forwarded this week to the Albany office of the state public works department.

Another section of the road, which extends from Phoenicia to the Tannersville-Hunter area, has been repaired, and the unrepaired section has been the subject of complaints from the Stony Clove Parents Association for several years.

Cost of repairing the strip is estimated at $700,000, and the federal government has allocated $350,000 as reimbursement to the state under the federal road improvement program.

Condition of the road was reported dangerously bad and the town of Hunter, to avoid liability for accidents, graded and surfaced it last summer, and engineering surveys for complete repair were made after that.

A committee of the Stony Clove Parents Association went so far as to petition President Eisenhower for action, and as a result, a reply was received from the Federal Bureau of Public Roads.

Lions Speaker Talks of Man's Opportunities

Any man of average ability who takes advantage of his opportunities can change the world, Clair S. Sheaffer, vice president of the Rodie Coal Co., Inc., told the Lions Club yesterday at its weekly luncheon at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

He pointed out that man's duty to his fellowman is to help him reach his potential.

PEOPLE are interested in themselves, he said. Each has a basic urge to create. Each wants to create to make himself appreciated by his fellowman. The man who understands this will be better able to function effectively in relationships with his fellowman. Here lies the "secret of effective action."

He said Herbert Greenwald, chairman of the program committee, had suggested that he tell the Lions Club what he had learned from his experience in business and life.

HE POINTED out in this connection that Charles Beard, the historian, was asked once what he had learned from history and replied with four points: Whom the gods would destroy, they first make mad. The mills of the gods grind slowly but they grind exceedingly fine. The bee fertilizes the flower that it robs. When it gets dark the stars come out.

"There you have the purest essence of the lessons of history," he said.

MR. SHEAFFER said when he tried to list the lessons he had learned from the coal business he came up with these points: John L. Lewis is not always as mean as he sometimes is. Black business but it treats you white. Dirty business but we clean you good.

He said his job had given him the opportunity to support his family, had satisfied his urge to be creative, had earned for him reasonable appreciation and had enabled him to assist others to reach their potential.

Lloyd Gets $1,000 In Recreation Aid

The Town of Lloyd has been allocated $1,000 in state aid for a recreation project for a 12-month period, the New York State Youth Commission announced today.

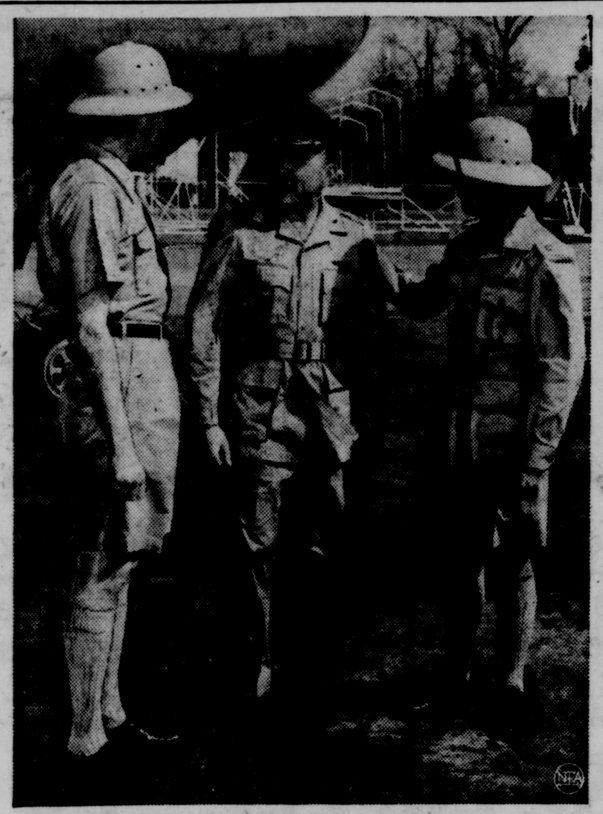

An application for state aid submitted by Supervisor John J. Gaffney indicates that the Town will spend a total of $4,000 during the year to provide a recreation program. Activities to be provided include swimming instructions, arts and crafts, storytelling, supervised play and competitive games. Facilities to be used include school and recreation swimming area.

The agency responsible for the conduct of this program is the Recreation Commission of which Harold Berean is chairman. Director of recreation is William Maynard.

The Town of Lloyd is one of more than 950 municipalities that have participated in the State Youth Commission's annual $5,000,000 youth program. This is the ninth year that the Town and the State have joined in a program to provide wholesome recreation activities for the youth of the community.

Mixed Fire Protection

Pratt, W. Va. (AP) — Garbage and cake doesn't sound like a very palatable combination but it produced a fire department. The local Woman's Club began bake sales and garbage collections back in 1951, after hearing a pep talk by Mayor Claude Castro on the need for better fire protection. An ancient fire cart was the town's only protection. The women set $1,300 as what they considered an ambitious goal. Before it was over, the town had a new $4,500 truck, as well as hose, portable extinguishers, gas masks, rescue equipment, axes and even raincoats. Townsmen did the collecting for the women and the group included a bank official, a minister and other community leaders.

NEW LOOK FOR AIR FORCE—The U.S. Air Force is going cool for 1956. Three officers in Washington, D.C., model combinations of the recently approved summer uniform which will be issued in '56. It includes a choice of shorts or long trousers, a sleeveless shirt to be worn with or without necktie, and a bush jacket. The pith helmet will be authorized for the tropics. Commanders will designate combinations of this uniform to be worn in their area. Official U.S. Air Force photo.

TV on the Way

Ipoh, Malaya (AP)—There's no television in Malaya but the telecommunications department is getting ready for it. Singapore (AP)—There's a rush on to join the royal Malayan navy. Recruiting officers asked for 80 candidates. Five hundred Malays, Indians, Chinese and Eurasians turned up at Singapore naval base.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 27 (AP)—The activity and strength in a higher stock market today were confined to a relatively small area.

The steels, motors, oils and railroads cornered most of the attention and a large part of the gain in the market.

Oils had advances running to between 3 and 5 points. Elsewhere, however, advances to between 1 and 2 points weren't numerous. Losses were found in a number of areas of the list. Most of them were under a point.

New York banks today began to raise their interest charges on loans to brokers to 3¼ per cent from 3 per cent, a move that is in line with hardening money in Wall Street. The rise will tend to make speculation in the stock market on credit more expensive.

Impaled on Roadbed

Buffalo, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—The body of a man today was found impaled on a steel reinforcement rod in the roadbed of the thruway extension near the lake front. Papers in his clothing gave the name of Joseph Steinnagle, police said. Police theorized that the man apparently thought he was jumping down a small embankment but landed instead on the steel rod projecting four feet from the roadbed. The spike entered his lower abdomen and protruded from his left shoulder. He appeared in his mid-40's, police said.

Modena

Modena, July 27 — Worship services at the Modena and Clintondale Methodist Churches on Sunday, July 31, will emphasize the theme, "Dawns and Twilights in the Life of Jesus." The Senior Youth Fellowship will conclude their "problem clinic" with the discussion of "Do We Believe in the Word of God?" Mary Watson and Virgil Ronk will present leading ideas to prepare for the discussion period. The intermediate group topic will be, "Under the Stars." Earl B. DeWitt, Sr., their counselor during the summer, is expected to meet with the group at this time. The regular meeting of the MYF was conducted Sunday evening of the past week with a business meeting and discussion period. Following the sessions, the Rev. Richard Moore, a guest at Modena for the day, led the young people in group singing and sang several Negro work songs and spirituals as well as "white spirituals" from the mountains of Tennessee.

During the worship period, led by Herbert Winters Jr., Gilbert Smith gave a report of his attendance at the Oakwood School in Poughkeepsie, as a delegate of the local MYF, at the Methodist Junior High Institute of the New York annual conference. He thanked the group for assisting in sponsoring his stay and gave a very interesting account of the course of a typical day and of his studies. He also reported on the recreational activities and the worship experiences he had participated in. The attendance at the institute was approximately 220, with the Rev. Herman L. Kuster of Beacon as dean.

The softball schedule for the coming week, planned by MYF members is as follows: Monday, Aug. 1, at 7:30, Middle Hope vs. Clintondale, at Balmville; Aug. 2, Clintondale vs. Fostertown at Clintondale; Highland vs. Modena, at Highland.

Members of the Methodist Youth Caravan, who plan to arrive in Modena and Clintondale on Saturday Aug. 13, will work as a team with the youth and adult workers with youth, in the local churches. They will lead discussion groups, share in the fellowship experience with the youth of the community and church, serve as resource persons in planning the youth program, assist in leadership education, set up workshops for practical experience in youth work, and in many additional ways be available for service in the local church.

Fire Before

open Monday and hundreds of horses are being shipped to the historic track.

The fire last night occurred not far from the spot where one of the greatest thoroughbreds in racing today was quartered.

Andrew J. Goldsborough, superintendent of stable arrangements, said today's fire broke out shortly before noon in No. 59, a 30-stall barn containing about 11 horses trained by G. M. Odom.

STRONG WINDS whipped the flames to No. 58, a 28-stall barn containing 11 horses trained by Harry Sanderson.

The damaged third barn was ready for horses owned by Harry Guggenheim of Port Washington, L. I., of the Cain Hoy Stable and trained by Lloyd Gentry. The horses had not arrived.

None of the horses in the barns was well known.

The barns, all painted green, and made of wood, were owned by the track. They roughly parallel the big bend near the head of the home stretch.

Alert Officer Helps Apprehend Two Teen-Agers

The alertness of a veteran city police officer resulted in the apprehension yesterday afternoon of two teen-age youths trying to peddle goods stolen from an unoccupied home in Cottekill, the Ulster county sheriff's office reported today.

OFFICER Gurnsey Burger, Sr., who joined the Kingston Police Department in May, 1919, was credited by the sheriff's office office with breaking a case in which two youths, 14 and 15 years of age, allegedly broke into the home of Walter Trepte of Cottekill shortly after noon yesterday and stole some precision tools.

County Investigator Arthur Brown said Officer Burger observed the youths in Kingston later in the day attempting to peddle the tools to local second-hand dealers on North Front street and picked them up.

THE BOYS were questioned by Detectives Clarence Brophy and Frank Sammons of the Kingston Police Department who turned them over to County Investigator Brown when it turned out that the burglary had occurred outside the city.

Mr. Brown said the youths entered the home of Mr. Trepte, now in Germany on a visit, by breaking a pane in a rear window. He said they had no previous records.

The boys were paroled in custody of their parents pending children's court action.

Repair Work Near on Greene County Road

Plans are progressing toward start of work on a four-mile section of the Stony Clove Notch road, town of Hunter, Greene county, it was indicated today.

Newton F. Ronan, state engineer in the district, reported that the plans were to be forwarded this week to the Albany office of the state public works department.

Another section of the road, which extends from Phoenicia to the Tannersville-Hunter area, has been repaired, and the unrepaired section has been the subject of complaints from the Stony Clove Parents Association for several years.

Cost of repairing the strip is estimated at $700,000, and the federal government has allocated $350,000 as reimbursement to the state under the federal road improvement program.

Condition of the road was reported dangerously bad and the town of Hunter, to avoid liability for accidents, graded and surfaced it last summer, and engineering surveys for complete repair were made after that.

A committee of the Stony Clove Parents Association went so far as to petition President Eisenhower for action, and as a result, a reply was received from the Federal Bureau of Public Roads.

Lions Speaker Talks of Man's Opportunities

Any man of average ability who takes advantage of his opportunities can change the world, Clair S. Sheaffer, vice president of the Rodie Coal Co., Inc., told the Lions Club yesterday at its weekly luncheon at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

He pointed out that man's duty to his fellowman is to help him reach his potential.

PEOPLE are interested in themselves, he said. Each has a basic urge to create. Each wants to create to make himself appreciated by his fellowman. The man who understands this will be better able to function effectively in relationships with his fellowman. Here lies the "secret of effective action."

He said Herbert Greenwald, chairman of the program committee, had suggested that he tell the Lions Club what he had learned from his experience in business and life.

HE POINTED out in this connection that Charles Beard, the historian, was asked once what he had learned from history and replied with four points: Whom the gods would destroy, they first make mad. The mills of the gods grind slowly but they grind exceedingly fine. The bee fertilizes the flower that it robs. When it gets dark the stars come out.

"There you have the purest essence of the lessons of history," he said.

MR. SHEAFFER said when he tried to list the lessons he had learned from the coal business he came up with these points: John L. Lewis is not always as mean as he sometimes is. Black business but it treats you white. Dirty business but we clean you good.

He said his job had given him the opportunity to support his family, had satisfied his urge to be creative, had earned for him reasonable appreciation and had enabled him to assist others to reach their potential.

Lloyd Gets $1,000 In Recreation Aid

The Town of Lloyd has been allocated $1,000 in state aid for a recreation project for a 12-month period, the New York State Youth Commission announced today.

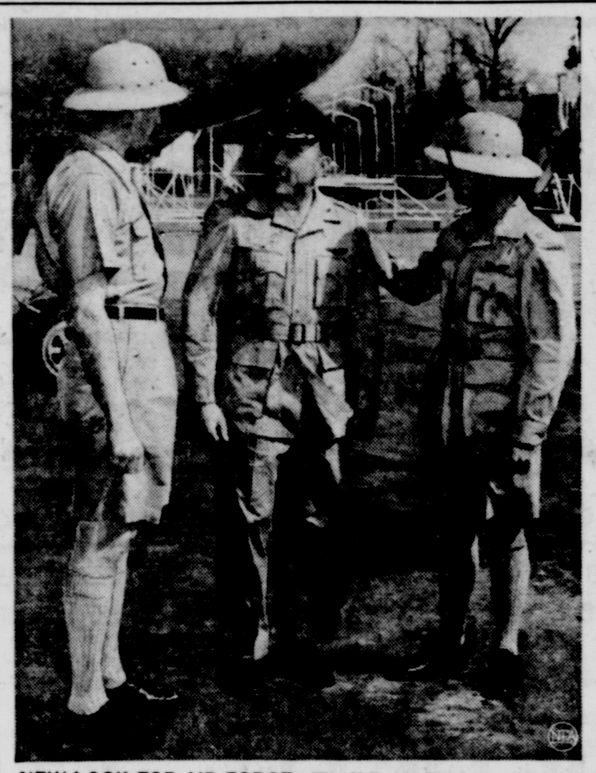

An application for state aid submitted by Supervisor John J. Gaffney indicates that the Town will spend a total of $4,000 during the year to provide a recreation program. Activities to be provided include swimming instructions, arts and crafts, storytelling, supervised play and competitive games. Facilities to be used include school and recreation swimming area.

The agency responsible for the conduct of this program is the Recreation Commission of which Harold Berean is chairman. Director of recreation is William Maynard.

The Town of Lloyd is one of more than 950 municipalities that have participated in the State Youth Commission's annual $5,000,000 youth program. This is the ninth year that the Town and the State have joined in a program to provide wholesome recreation activities for the youth of the community.

Mixed Fire Protection

Pratt, W. Va. (AP) — Garbage and cake doesn't sound like a very palatable combination but it produced a fire department. The local Woman's Club began bake sales and garbage collections back in 1951, after hearing a pep talk by Mayor Claude Castro on the need for better fire protection. An ancient fire cart was the town's only protection. The women set $1,300 as what they considered an ambitious goal. Before it was over, the town had a new $4,500 truck, as well as hose, portable extinguishers, gas masks, rescue equipment, axes and even raincoats. Townsmen did the collecting for the women and the group included a bank official, a minister and other community leaders.

NEW LOOK FOR AIR FORCE—The U.S. Air Force is going cool for 1956. Three officers in Washington, D.C., model combinations of the recently approved summer uniform which will be issued in '56. It includes a choice of shorts or long trousers, a sleeveless shirt to be worn with or without necktie, and a bush jacket. The pith helmet will be authorized for the tropics. Commanders will designate combinations of this uniform to be worn in their area. Official U.S. Air Force photo.

TV on the Way

Recruiting Drive

Singapore (AP)—There's a rush on to join the royal Malayan navy. Recruiting officers asked for 80 candidates. Five hundred Malays, Indians, Chinese and Eurasians turned up at Singapore naval base.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 27 (AP)—The activity and strength in a higher stock market today were confined to a relatively small area.

The steels, motors, oils and railroads cornered most of the attention and a large part of the gain in the market.

Oils had advances running to between 3 and 5 points. Elsewhere, however, advances to between 1 and 2 points weren't numerous. Losses were found in a number of areas of the list. Most of them were under a point.

New York banks today began to raise their interest charges on loans to brokers to 3¼ per cent from 3 per cent, a move that is in line with hardening money in Wall Street. The rise will tend to make speculation in the stock market on credit more expensive.

Impaled on Roadbed

Buffalo, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—The body of a man today was found impaled on a steel reinforcement rod in the roadbed of the thruway extension near the lake front. Papers in his clothing gave the name of Joseph Steinnagle, police said. Police theorized that the man apparently thought he was jumping down a small embankment but landed instead on the steel rod projecting four feet from the roadbed. The spike entered his lower abdomen and protruded from his left shoulder. He appeared in his mid-40's, police said.

Modena

Modena, July 27 — Worship services at the Modena and Clintondale Methodist Churches on Sunday, July 31, will emphasize the theme, "Dawns and Twilights in the Life of Jesus." The Senior Youth Fellowship will conclude their "problem clinic" with the discussion of "Do We Believe in the Word of God?" Mary Watson and Virgil Ronk will present leading ideas to prepare for the discussion period. The intermediate group topic will be, "Under the Stars." Earl B. DeWitt, Sr., their counselor during the summer, is expected to meet with the group at this time. The regular meeting of the MYF was conducted Sunday evening of the past week with a business meeting and discussion period. Following the sessions, the Rev. Richard Moore, a guest at Modena for the day, led the young people in group singing and sang several Negro work songs and spirituals as well as "white spirituals" from the mountains of Tennessee.

During the worship period, led by Herbert Winters Jr., Gilbert Smith gave a report of his attendance at the Oakwood School in Poughkeepsie, as a delegate of the local MYF, at the Methodist Junior High Institute of the New York annual conference. He thanked the group for assisting in sponsoring his stay and gave a very interesting account of the course of a typical day and of his studies. He also reported on the recreational activities and the worship experiences he had participated in. The attendance at the institute was approximately 220, with the Rev. Herman L. Kuster of Beacon as dean.

The softball schedule for the coming week, planned by MYF members is as follows: Monday, Aug. 1, at 7:30, Middle Hope vs. Clintondale, at Balmville; Aug. 2, Clintondale vs. Fostertown at Clintondale; Highland vs. Modena, at Highland.

Members of the Methodist Youth Caravan, who plan to arrive in Modena and Clintondale on Saturday Aug. 13, will work as a team with the youth and adult workers with youth, in the local churches. They will lead discussion groups, share in the fellowship experience with the youth of the community and church, serve as resource persons in planning the youth program, assist in leadership education, set up workshops for practical experience in youth work, and in many additional ways be available for service in the local church.

Fire Before

open Monday and hundreds of horses are being shipped to the historic track.

The fire last night occurred not far from the spot where one of the greatest thoroughbreds in racing today was quartered.

Andrew J. Goldsborough, superintendent of stable arrangements, said today's fire broke out shortly before noon in No. 59, a 30-stall barn containing about 11 horses trained by G. M. Odom.

STRONG WINDS whipped the flames to No. 58, a 28-stall barn containing 11 horses trained by Harry Sanderson.

The damaged third barn was ready for horses owned by Harry Guggenheim of Port Washington, L. I., of the Cain Hoy Stable and trained by Lloyd Gentry. The horses had not arrived.

None of the horses in the barns was well known.

The barns, all painted green, and made of wood, were owned by the track. They roughly parallel the big bend near the head of the home stretch.

Alert Officer Helps Apprehend Two Teen-Agers

The alertness of a veteran city police officer resulted in the apprehension yesterday afternoon of two teen-age youths trying to peddle goods stolen from an unoccupied home in Cottekill, the Ulster county sheriff's office reported today.

OFFICER Gurnsey Burger, Sr., who joined the Kingston Police Department in May, 1919, was credited by the sheriff's office office with breaking a case in which two youths, 14 and 15 years of age, allegedly broke into the home of Walter Trepte of Cottekill shortly after noon yesterday and stole some precision tools.

County Investigator Arthur Brown said Officer Burger observed the youths in Kingston later in the day attempting to peddle the tools to local second-hand dealers on North Front street and picked them up.

THE BOYS were questioned by Detectives Clarence Brophy and Frank Sammons of the Kingston Police Department who turned them over to County Investigator Brown when it turned out that the burglary had occurred outside the city.

Mr. Brown said the youths entered the home of Mr. Trepte, now in Germany on a visit, by breaking a pane in a rear window. He said they had no previous records.

The boys were paroled in custody of their parents pending children's court action.

Overcall Risky Against No-Trump

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Few players would criticize South's overcall in today's hand. That is, few average players would have a harsh word for it. No expert would bid two spades with the hand for two very good reasons. The first, and more important, is that the hand can take a terrible beating at two spades. The second is that South has very good defense against no-trump and should not be in a hurry to exchange a good position for a bad one.

When I remarked that the hand can take a terrible beating at two spades, I didn't really mean that South should expect what actually happened. South didn't make a single bad play, but he managed to take only four tricks! The penalty even with the 100 honors, was a thousand points!

West opened the king of clubs, holding the trick, and led another club to his partner's ace. East decided that his partner was bound to have some strength in diamonds, so he led the king of diamonds at the third trick.

When this held, East went back to clubs, allowing West to ruff. West then naturally took the ace of diamonds and led another diamond for East to ruff.

East now led the ten of clubs, and South ruffed with the king of spades to shut out and overruff. West discarded a heart, and South continued with the queen of spades to force out the ace.

East now took the ace of hearts and led another heart, allowing West to ruff once more. South took the rest, but the defenders had already taken nine tricks.

You may be sure that North managed to point out, after the slaughter had been concluded, that East and West would have made only a part score contract if South had passed instead of bidding.

A little later it jammed completely and blew steadily for five minutes. Then somebody corked it up.

Iowa Communities Anxious to Have Visit From Reds

By TOM WHITNEY

Spencer, Iowa, July 27 (AP)—The astonishing story of the fabulous tour of the Soviet farm delegation across Iowa continued today.

The governor of the state, Leo Hoegh, helped arrange for the delivery this morning of three members of the Soviet agricultural group including its head V. V. Matskevich to Sioux City.

The governor's help was necessary because Sioux City leaders, when for reasons of timing and schedule their city was eliminated from the Russian's itinerary, made a major issue of the question.

"YOU SHOULD see the pile of telegrams I have from Iowa communities which want the Russians to visit them," declared C. R. Elder of Iowa State College last night. Elder is in charge of arrangements for the Russians in Iowa.

The town of Laurens lined its streets yesterday with flags in honor of the occasion of the Russians' visit. Many of the important people of the town, including its ministers, were at the consolidated school where the Russians ate. They went there even though they knew ahead of time there would be no speech making.

At every farm the Russians visit there are crowds of Iowans. At the home of Tafford J. Tinius of Laurens there were around 300 people in the yard when the Russians arrived.

IN THIS MEDIUM sized northern Iowa city last night there was a small crowd of citizens on the sidewalk in front of the hotel where the Russians were to stay for more than an hour before the Russians actually came to town.

"Have you seen the Russians?" was the commonest question in the city's streets.

The Russians, continuing their explorations of Americana went to see Marilyn Monroe in "The Seven Year Itch" at a local motion picture theatre. Matskevich had to settle for Monroe instead of "Davy Crockett" since Davy wasn't in town.

Night before last several Russians headed by Alexander Tulupnikov went to see Jane Russell in "Foxfire." Tulupnikov made disparaging remarks about the famous Russell charms afterwards.

The Russians visited a much bigger farm yesterday than most they have seen. It was one owned by R. L. Simm and sons of Paullina, Iowa. It is 480 acres in size, of which 225 acres in under corn. The machinery at the Simm farm is up-to-date and plentiful and its use efficient.

It interested the Russians more than some others they have seen because of its machinery and its size.

The Russians have been telling their conductors on the tour they want to see big farms which are comparable in scale of operation to some of their own large state and collective farms.

The Americans heading the tour, have pointed out that immense farms are uncommon in Iowa and that the Russian group will see much bigger operations after leaving Iowa.

ONE OF THE most important of the Russians said yesterday that the most significant lesson he had learned from the trip was "specialization." He said that he is impressed with the degree in which Iowa farmers, even the small farmers, concentrate on the branches of farming which are most profitable to them.

He pointed out that most collective farms in the Soviet Union are engaged in a number of different branches of farming activity.

It's not clear whether this Russian, deputy premier of the Ukraine Nikolai Gureyev, realizes to what degree this specializations is made possible only by the existence of the efficient and enormous American network of retail distribution and trade which means that American farmers can afford to emphasize just one or two farming activities. Gureyev may have noticed that some of the farms he has visited out here have hardly any kitchen garden at all and even in some cases get their milk from dairies.

Disappearing Doughnuts

Jackson, Mich. (AP)—A drug store was vexed by its disappearing doughnuts. Every morning the delivered doughnuts vanished from the front door. But police found out why. Squirrels had been snatching them.

New Cannon for Old Fort

Rock Island, Ill. (AP)—Fort Armstrong, which was established in 1816, again has two brass cannon mounted at the site overlooking the Mississippi river on Rock Island Arsenal Island. They replace two Civil War iron cannons mounted on wooden carriages. Many repairs were required with the passing of time. The design of the brass cannons is similar to the mounts used in 1816.

How to stop a squawk

When our operator plugged in to answer the light blinking on her switchboard, she found a young man with a problem. He was about nine, she guessed, and considerably upset.

"Say, Operator," his worried voice asked, "how do you keep a baby from squawking?"

She assured him that there was nothing to it. Did he know where his mother kept the baby's bottles? Yes. Was there milk in the refrigerator? Yes. She told him how to prepare the bottle, and how long to warm it. The light on the board blinked out.

A few minutes later another light came on. Same boy, very much relieved! "Okay, Operator, she's stopped squawking now."

Telephone people are busier than ever these days. Yet whenever an emergency arises—even if it's just a crying baby—they always seem to manage to find time for the little "extras" that make your telephone service so friendly and personal.

Tokyo, July 27 (AP)—Direct railway traffic between Red China and North Viet Nam will start next Tuesday, Peiping radio broadcast today. The French built rail link has not operated since early in World War 2. Passengers and freight from Viet Nam will have to transfer from the narrower Vietnamese gauge to the standard Chinese gauge at Pingsiang, inside the Chinese border. Extra buildings have been added and the signalling system extended to expedite transhipments at Pingsiang.

Overcall Risky Against No-Trump

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Few players would criticize South's overcall in today's hand. That is, few average players would have a harsh word for it. No expert would bid two spades with the hand for two very good reasons. The first, and more important, is that the hand can take a terrible beating at two spades. The second is that South has very good defense against no-trump and should not be in a hurry to exchange a good position for a bad one.

When I remarked that the hand can take a terrible beating at two spades, I didn't really mean that South should expect what actually happened. South didn't make a single bad play, but he managed to take only four tricks! The penalty even with the 100 honors, was a thousand points!

West opened the king of clubs, holding the trick, and led another club to his partner's ace. East decided that his partner was bound to have some strength in diamonds, so he led the king of diamonds at the third trick.

When this held, East went back to clubs, allowing West to ruff. West then naturally took the ace of diamonds and led another diamond for East to ruff.

East now led the ten of clubs, and South ruffed with the king of spades to shut out and overruff. West discarded a heart, and South continued with the queen of spades to force out the ace.

East now took the ace of hearts and led another heart, allowing West to ruff once more. South took the rest, but the defenders had already taken nine tricks.

You may be sure that North managed to point out, after the slaughter had been concluded, that East and West would have made only a part score contract if South had passed instead of bidding.

Iowa Communities Anxious to Have Visit From Reds

By TOM WHITNEY

Spencer, Iowa, July 27 (AP)—The astonishing story of the fabulous tour of the Soviet farm delegation across Iowa continued today.

The governor of the state, Leo Hoegh, helped arrange for the delivery this morning of three members of the Soviet agricultural group including its head V. V. Matskevich to Sioux City.

The governor's help was necessary because Sioux City leaders, when for reasons of timing and schedule their city was eliminated from the Russian's itinerary, made a major issue of the question.

"YOU SHOULD see the pile of telegrams I have from Iowa communities which want the Russians to visit them," declared C. R. Elder of Iowa State College last night. Elder is in charge of arrangements for the Russians in Iowa.

The town of Laurens lined its streets yesterday with flags in honor of the occasion of the Russians' visit. Many of the important people of the town, including its ministers, were at the consolidated school where the Russians ate. They went there even though they knew ahead of time there would be no speech making.

At every farm the Russians visit there are crowds of Iowans. At the home of Tafford J. Tinius of Laurens there were around 300 people in the yard when the Russians arrived.

IN THIS MEDIUM sized northern Iowa city last night there was a small crowd of citizens on the sidewalk in front of the hotel where the Russians were to stay for more than an hour before the Russians actually came to town.

"Have you seen the Russians?" was the commonest question in the city's streets.

The Russians, continuing their explorations of Americana went to see Marilyn Monroe in "The Seven Year Itch" at a local motion picture theatre. Matskevich had to settle for Monroe instead of "Davy Crockett" since Davy wasn't in town.

Night before last several Russians headed by Alexander Tulupnikov went to see Jane Russell in "Foxfire." Tulupnikov made disparaging remarks about the famous Russell charms afterwards.

The Russians visited a much bigger farm yesterday than most they have seen. It was one owned by R. L. Simm and sons of Paullina, Iowa. It is 480 acres in size, of which 225 acres in under corn. The machinery at the Simm farm is up-to-date and plentiful and its use efficient.

It interested the Russians more than some others they have seen because of its machinery and its size.

The Russians have been telling their conductors on the tour they want to see big farms which are comparable in scale of operation to some of their own large state and collective farms.

The Americans heading the tour, have pointed out that immense farms are uncommon in Iowa and that the Russian group will see much bigger operations after leaving Iowa.

ONE OF THE most important of the Russians said yesterday that the most significant lesson he had learned from the trip was "specialization." He said that he is impressed with the degree in which Iowa farmers, even the small farmers, concentrate on the branches of farming which are most profitable to them.

He pointed out that most collective farms in the Soviet Union are engaged in a number of different branches of farming activity.

It's not clear whether this Russian, deputy premier of the Ukraine Nikolai Gureyev, realizes to what degree this specializations is made possible only by the existence of the efficient and enormous American network of retail distribution and trade which means that American farmers can afford to emphasize just one or two farming activities. Gureyev may have noticed that some of the farms he has visited out here have hardly any kitchen garden at all and even in some cases get their milk from dairies.

New Cannon for Old Fort

Rock Island, Ill. (AP)—Fort Armstrong, which was established in 1816, again has two brass cannon mounted at the site overlooking the Mississippi river on Rock Island Arsenal Island. They replace two Civil War iron cannons mounted on wooden carriages. Many repairs were required with the passing of time. The design of the brass cannons is similar to the mounts used in 1816.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Gabriel Banat Returns To Maverick Concerts

Woodstock, July 27—An extremely interesting program is in store for the Maverick concert audience Sunday afternoon, July 31, at 4 p. m. In addition to the presentation again this season of the solo-violist of the Philadelphia orchestra, Harry Zaratzian and two Woodstock favorites, Cynthia Eddy, cellist and Ilsa Sass, pianist, the concert will mark the return of Gabriel Banat to the Maverick programs. He is the remarkable young, Hungarian born, violinist who has given so much pleasure to Maverick music connoisseurs in previous seasons.

Banat recently returned from triumphs in Europe where, among others, such papers as The London Times praised his playing in extravagant terms, pointing to him as apparent proof of the legend which claims that some Hungarians are born with fiddles under their chins and therefore play the instrument "as to the manner born." The New York Times was no less enthusiastic apropos of Banat's New York Town Hall recital in February of this year. Praising his fine-textured tone and secure intonation in all of his playing, it had special admiration for the way he played one of the most exacting violin pieces, Ysaye's Ballade op. 27, finding in his performance an expressiveness and fluency that made light of all technical difficulties.

IN HIS MAJOR CONTRIBUTION to the program, Gabriel Banant bows to one of the great composers of our century who is celebrating his 60th birthday this year, Paul Hindemith. He plays the composer's Sonata for Violin and Piano in D, op. 11 no. 2, a work Hindemith wrote in his middle twenties. This sonata shows how firmly rooted Hindemith was in the classical romanticism of the 19th Century, yet, even then, there were manifestations of his later rebellion from this tradition.

With Harry Zaratzian, Gabriel Banat will introduce to Woodstock the Three Madrigals for Violin and Viola by the Bohemian born Bohuslav Martinu who, like Hindemith, chose the USA for his second home. Zaratzian, who emerges more and more as one of the leading violists of our day, opens the program with the seldom heard concerto for Viola by Johann Christian Bach. And Cynthia Eddy, who is cellist of the Minneapolis Symphony and an experienced ensemble player, will join both Banat and Zaratzian in the performance of the charming and scintillating Serenade for String Trio in D major op. 8 by Beethoven.

Ilse Sass's dynamic chamber music playing will enhance, through her always active and sensitive pianistic participation, the interpretation of both the J. C. Bach Concerto and the Hindemith Sonata.

New Music Symposium Set for Harmony HiH

Woodstock, July 27—The next music symposium, directed by H. A. Schimmerling will be held Saturday, July 30, at 8:15 p. m., for the first time at his own place on Harmony Hill (located at the top of Ohayo Mountain Road). It will be an out and indoor gathering. Richard Burlingame, of the Catskill Book and Record Shop, will again contribute the installation of loudspeaker and amplifying system. The audience will participate in the discussion of rarely performed works by Arnold Bax, Frederic Jacobi, Ernst Krenek and other composers. Since the seats are limited an arrangement has been made for part of the audience to be seated on the ground and terrace according to the Tanglewood custom. Those wishing to secure inside seats are requested to make reservations. The public is invited, and as usual there will be no admission fee for this series of concerts. Cars should be left at the parking lot opposite the entrance to Harmony Hill, and from there down on the left hand side of the Ohayo Mountain Road from the direction of Woodstock.

Gallery Well Attended

Woodstock, July 27—The gallery evening at the Woodstock Art Gallery last Friday night, entitled "Recent Developments in Painting and Sculpture", with Mr. Kyle Morris as commentator, drew a large audience. Mr. Morris showed many slides of works by contemporary painters and sculptors, taken recently from exhibitions of work by the artists discussed. Consequently the collection of slides constituted the most recent coverage of the contemporary American scene possible.

Among the sculptors whose works Mr. Morris showed and commented upon were. Seymour Lipton (who will come to Woodstock to participate in a panel discussion on August 12); Ibrim Lassaw, Ferber and Naguchi. Among the painters whose works were shown were: Afro, Rubin Tan, Kuniyoshi, famous Woodstock painter who died last year; Ben Shahn, Herman Cherry, Malcolm Green and Matthieu.

MRS. BERTHA DRUCKLIEB, 94, (oldest) and David De Lisio, 6, and sister, Elizabeth, 5, (youngest) participate at Woodstock Library Fair.

Youngest and Oldest Work at Library Fair

Woodstock, July 27 — Mrs. Bertha Drucklieb of Plochmann's Lane who will be 95 next month, shows patchwork designs which are from patterns 100 years old, to the youngest participants in the Woodstock Library Fair to be held Thursday, July 28, from noon to 6 p. m. David DeLisio, age 6, and Elizabeth DeLisio, aged 5, children of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony DeLisio, will be among the group of children who will sing old French nursery songs in the children's entertainment section at the Library Fair building, while the fair is in progress at the Library grounds. "Les Petits Chanteurs" range in age from 5 to 10 years and are being trained by Mrs. Walter P. McTeigue of Woodstock.

Mrs. Drucklieb has been active in Library Fairs since 1930, serving at the handkerchief and apron tables. This year she will have a corner of the table of linens and draperies, with Mrs. Dudley Summers as chairman.

Misalliance to Open At Playhouse Aug. 2

Woodstock, July 27—"Missalliance" a George Bernard Shaw play written in 1910, which was ignored for many years, will be the next presentation at the Woodstock Playhouse, opening Tuesday, Aug. 2. Following the presentation of this little known work of Shaw's at the New York City Center, there was an immediate sensation among the critics and theatre-goers alike. Praise for it was unanimous and so successful was the New York run, that many summer stock companies, along with traveling road shows, have been playing it with great success.

"One of my masterpieces," commented the roguish Shaw.

Bright, witty and contrary in the best Shawian manner, the uproarious farce provides a hilarious evening theatre.

In the Woodstock Playhouse production, directed by Michael Howard, the roles will be played by many former and present Woodstock favorites. Susan Reed, noted ballad singer, cafe artist and dramatic actress, will make her initial appearance this year in Woodstock as the gay, light-hearted Hypatia, daughter of a wealthy upper middle class family. She is affianced to a physical weakling, but in the course of the play there are surprising developments. With skeletons rattling in the closets of all the families involved, the intrusion of an aviator, a lady acrobat and a would-be killer add to the mirth of the situation.

Frank Daly, who has appeared in all previous Woodstock productions this season, will make his final appearance here in the role of Gunner, the potentia killer. Jane Lloyd Jones, long a popular actress here, will play the lady acrobat. Archie Smith will recreate the Roddy McDowell part of the fiance of the Hypatia, Bently Summerhay.

Newcomer Henry Silva will enact the role of the aviator who drops in out of the clouds adding to the intrigue in Hypatia's life.

Virginia Downing will return to Woodstock for her first appearance here since 1951. She will play the mother of Hypatia. Others in the cast include Robert Alvin as Mr. Tarleton, Hypatia's civic-minded father; Jack Sydow as Lord Summerhay; and James Karen as Johnny Tarleton.

Pijper's Symphony Heard at Symposium

Woodstock, July 27—Pijper's Third Symphony was featured in the second music symposium, presented by H. A. Schimmerling, last Saturday night at the Maverick Concert Hall, which was crowded on the occasion of the second event in the Harmony Hill series. Dr. Julius Hijman of the Music Academy of Philadelphia, was the distinguished guest of the evening. Dr. Hijman, who is engaged as musicologist for the Dutch Government, acquainted the audience with William Pijper's Third Symphony. The analysis, which preceded the performance was unusually interesting and some of the musicians present in the audience accepted Schimmerling's invitation to come to the state in order to follow the full scores made available for better understanding of the difficult work. Pijper, who never wrote a Fourth Symphony though he lived for another 20 years after his "Third" was completed, died in 1947 at the age of 43.

The second and third work in the Dutch program was Henkeman's Flute Concerto and the first movement of Hijman's Sonata for Cello and Piano. The Henkeman Flute Concerto is rather eclectic, the French Impressionists being the main contributors, and reminiscences of Bloch's "Schelomo Style" were noticeable here and there in the Hijman cello piece. It would have been interesting to hear more of Hijman's chamber music.

It was a fortunate idea to divide the Dutch program into two sections and to interpolate a group of South American piano music presented by the other guest artist of the evening, Salvador Ley. Mr. Ley, a native of Guatemala, played works by Castro, Mignone, Chavez, Solares and one of his own compositions. This selection did not represent South American contemporary music too well and was probably the result of Mr. Ley's having been guided more by personal pianistic moments than general musical considerations. Mr. Ley is an excellent technician rather on the vigorous than on the refined side and the tendency to effectiveness prevents him from unfolding his rich musical endowment.

The forum discussion which followed the program was short and interesting due to the participation of some distinguished musicians in the audience.

Village Notes

Woodstock, July 27—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris are the parents of a daughter, born Sunday at the Doctors Hospital in New York, weighing 7 pounds, 14 ounces. They have a boy, Stephen. Mrs. Harris, who is known to Woodstock Playhouse audiences as Viola Harris, will appear in the last play of the season, Time Out For Ginger.

The oil painting, August Night at Russell's Corners by the late George Ault, has been purchased by the Joslyn Memorial Museum of Omaha, Neb., according to Mrs. Ault of New York who visited in Woodstock this week.

Hilda Lightstone spent a few days vacationing in Cutchogue, L. I., last week.

Mr. and Mrs. David Bird spent a long weekend at Block Island.

Woodstock, July 27—The proceeds of the Hunt Brothers Circus which will play here on August 4, at the Woodstock Recreation Field, will go toward the Student Fund of the Woodstock Rotary Club. Tickets may be obtained at the Woodstock News Shop, The Woodstock Garage, the Woodstock Food Market, at the office of the Woodstock Townsman or from any Rotary Club member in this village.

Eva Peron Death Date Brings Demonstration

Buenos Aires, Argentina, July 27 (AP)—Ten thousand Argentines paraded silently before President Juan D. Peron last night on the third anniversary of the death of his wife, Eva.

A congressional resolution lauded Mrs. Peron, who died of cancer, as the "spiritual chief of the nation." The Peronista press said the day marked the anniversary of her "transition to immortality."

In several towns in Buenos Aires province, however, monuments and posters erected to her memory were defaced.

A plaque was torn off the base of a memorial in the town of Miramar. Two tar bombs were hurled against a monument in San Antonio de Areco. The hands of a memorial clock in Balcarce were twisted.

No Truck Strike

Syracuse, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—There will not be an upstate trucking strike. The AFL teamsters Union and employers announced jointly yesterday that negotiations for a new contract would be continued on a retroactive basis if necessary beyond the Aug. 1 expiration of the current contract. About 25,000 over-the-road upstate drivers are affected by the talks, which began yesterday. Fred Maggio, business agent and president of Teamsters Local 317, said the statement was issued to allay any fears of a strike.

Barbers Vacation

Binghamton, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—This is a real vacation week for this city of more than 80,000. Even the barbers took off. Seventy-five barbershops closed for a week-long vacation coinciding with that of 10,000 workers employed by the International Business Machines Corp. and Link Aviation Inc. Most of the barbers are AFL Union members. A few non-union shops remained open.

Prediction on Talbott

Kansas City, July 27 (AP)—The Kansas City Star, in a special dispatch from its Washington correspondent Duke Shoop, said today the days of Harold E. Talbott as secretary of the air force and as a ranking member of the Eisenhower team "are numbered."

Vegetable Week

Leave East Berlin

Berlin, July 27 (AP)—Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev left East Berlin by plane today for Moscow after a three-day visit with the East German Communist regime. Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl and his cabinet, along with top Soviet officials and East European diplomats, saw the Russian leaders off. The Soviet chiefs stopped here on their way from the Big Four summit conference.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

Gabriel Banat Returns To Maverick Concerts

Woodstock, July 27—An extremely interesting program is in store for the Maverick concert audience Sunday afternoon, July 31, at 4 p. m. In addition to the presentation again this season of the solo-violist of the Philadelphia orchestra, Harry Zaratzian and two Woodstock favorites, Cynthia Eddy, cellist and Ilsa Sass, pianist, the concert will mark the return of Gabriel Banat to the Maverick programs. He is the remarkable young, Hungarian born, violinist who has given so much pleasure to Maverick music connoisseurs in previous seasons.

Banat recently returned from triumphs in Europe where, among others, such papers as The London Times praised his playing in extravagant terms, pointing to him as apparent proof of the legend which claims that some Hungarians are born with fiddles under their chins and therefore play the instrument "as to the manner born." The New York Times was no less enthusiastic apropos of Banat's New York Town Hall recital in February of this year. Praising his fine-textured tone and secure intonation in all of his playing, it had special admiration for the way he played one of the most exacting violin pieces, Ysaye's Ballade op. 27, finding in his performance an expressiveness and fluency that made light of all technical difficulties.

IN HIS MAJOR CONTRIBUTION to the program, Gabriel Banant bows to one of the great composers of our century who is celebrating his 60th birthday this year, Paul Hindemith. He plays the composer's Sonata for Violin and Piano in D, op. 11 no. 2, a work Hindemith wrote in his middle twenties. This sonata shows how firmly rooted Hindemith was in the classical romanticism of the 19th Century, yet, even then, there were manifestations of his later rebellion from this tradition.

With Harry Zaratzian, Gabriel Banat will introduce to Woodstock the Three Madrigals for Violin and Viola by the Bohemian born Bohuslav Martinu who, like Hindemith, chose the USA for his second home. Zaratzian, who emerges more and more as one of the leading violists of our day, opens the program with the seldom heard concerto for Viola by Johann Christian Bach. And Cynthia Eddy, who is cellist of the Minneapolis Symphony and an experienced ensemble player, will join both Banat and Zaratzian in the performance of the charming and scintillating Serenade for String Trio in D major op. 8 by Beethoven.

Ilse Sass's dynamic chamber music playing will enhance, through her always active and sensitive pianistic participation, the interpretation of both the J. C. Bach Concerto and the Hindemith Sonata.

New Music Symposium Set for Harmony Hill

Woodstock, July 27—The next music symposium, directed by H. A. Schimmerling will be held Saturday, July 30, at 8:15 p. m., for the first time at his own place on Harmony Hill (located at the top of Ohayo Mountain Road). It will be an out and indoor gathering. Richard Burlingame, of the Catskill Book and Record Shop, will again contribute the installation of loudspeaker and amplifying system. The audience will participate in the discussion of rarely performed works by Arnold Bax, Frederic Jacobi, Ernst Krenek and other composers. Since the seats are limited an arrangement has been made for part of the audience to be seated on the ground and terrace according to the Tanglewood custom. Those wishing to secure inside seats are requested to make reservations. The public is invited, and as usual there will be no admission fee for this series of concerts. Cars should be left at the parking lot opposite the entrance to Harmony Hill, and from there down on the left hand side of the Ohayo Mountain Road from the direction of Woodstock.

Gallery Well Attended

Woodstock, July 27—The gallery evening at the Woodstock Art Gallery last Friday night, entitled "Recent Developments in Painting and Sculpture", with Mr. Kyle Morris as commentator, drew a large audience. Mr. Morris showed many slides of works by contemporary painters and sculptors, taken recently from exhibitions of work by the artists discussed. Consequently the collection of slides constituted the most recent coverage of the contemporary American scene possible.

Among the sculptors whose works Mr. Morris showed and commented upon were. Seymour Lipton (who will come to Woodstock to participate in a panel discussion on August 12); Ibrim Lassaw, Ferber and Naguchi. Among the painters whose works were shown were: Afro, Rubin Tan, Kuniyoshi, famous Woodstock painter who died last year; Ben Shahn, Herman Cherry, Malcolm Green and Matthieu.

MRS. BERTHA DRUCKLIEB, 94, (oldest) and David De Lisio, 6, and sister, Elizabeth, 5, (youngest) participate at Woodstock Library Fair.

Youngest and Oldest Work at Library Fair

Woodstock, July 27 — Mrs. Bertha Drucklieb of Plochmann's Lane who will be 95 next month, shows patchwork designs which are from patterns 100 years old, to the youngest participants in the Woodstock Library Fair to be held Thursday, July 28, from noon to 6 p. m. David DeLisio, age 6, and Elizabeth DeLisio, aged 5, children of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony DeLisio, will be among the group of children who will sing old French nursery songs in the children's entertainment section at the Library Fair building, while the fair is in progress at the Library grounds. "Les Petits Chanteurs" range in age from 5 to 10 years and are being trained by Mrs. Walter P. McTeigue of Woodstock.

Mrs. Drucklieb has been active in Library Fairs since 1930, serving at the handkerchief and apron tables. This year she will have a corner of the table of linens and draperies, with Mrs. Dudley Summers as chairman.

Misalliance to Open At Playhouse Aug. 2

Woodstock, July 27—"Missalliance" a George Bernard Shaw play written in 1910, which was ignored for many years, will be the next presentation at the Woodstock Playhouse, opening Tuesday, Aug. 2. Following the presentation of this little known work of Shaw's at the New York City Center, there was an immediate sensation among the critics and theatre-goers alike. Praise for it was unanimous and so successful was the New York run, that many summer stock companies, along with traveling road shows, have been playing it with great success.

"One of my masterpieces," commented the roguish Shaw.

Bright, witty and contrary in the best Shawian manner, the uproarious farce provides a hilarious evening theatre.

In the Woodstock Playhouse production, directed by Michael Howard, the roles will be played by many former and present Woodstock favorites. Susan Reed, noted ballad singer, cafe artist and dramatic actress, will make her initial appearance this year in Woodstock as the gay, light-hearted Hypatia, daughter of a wealthy upper middle class family. She is affianced to a physical weakling, but in the course of the play there are surprising developments. With skeletons rattling in the closets of all the families involved, the intrusion of an aviator, a lady acrobat and a would-be killer add to the mirth of the situation.

Frank Daly, who has appeared in all previous Woodstock productions this season, will make his final appearance here in the role of Gunner, the potentia killer. Jane Lloyd Jones, long a popular actress here, will play the lady acrobat. Archie Smith will recreate the Roddy McDowell part of the fiance of the Hypatia, Bently Summerhay.

Newcomer Henry Silva will enact the role of the aviator who drops in out of the clouds adding to the intrigue in Hypatia's life.

Virginia Downing will return to Woodstock for her first appearance here since 1951. She will play the mother of Hypatia. Others in the cast include Robert Alvin as Mr. Tarleton, Hypatia's civic-minded father; Jack Sydow as Lord Summerhay; and James Karen as Johnny Tarleton.

Pijper's Symphony Heard at Symposium

Woodstock, July 27—Pijper's Third Symphony was featured in the second music symposium, presented by H. A. Schimmerling, last Saturday night at the Maverick Concert Hall, which was crowded on the occasion of the second event in the Harmony Hill series. Dr. Julius Hijman of the Music Academy of Philadelphia, was the distinguished guest of the evening. Dr. Hijman, who is engaged as musicologist for the Dutch Government, acquainted the audience with William Pijper's Third Symphony. The analysis, which preceded the performance was unusually interesting and some of the musicians present in the audience accepted Schimmerling's invitation to come to the state in order to follow the full scores made available for better understanding of the difficult work. Pijper, who never wrote a Fourth Symphony though he lived for another 20 years after his "Third" was completed, died in 1947 at the age of 43.

The second and third work in the Dutch program was Henkeman's Flute Concerto and the first movement of Hijman's Sonata for Cello and Piano. The Henkeman Flute Concerto is rather eclectic, the French Impressionists being the main contributors, and reminiscences of Bloch's "Schelomo Style" were noticeable here and there in the Hijman cello piece. It would have been interesting to hear more of Hijman's chamber music.

It was a fortunate idea to divide the Dutch program into two sections and to interpolate a group of South American piano music presented by the other guest artist of the evening, Salvador Ley. Mr. Ley, a native of Guatemala, played works by Castro, Mignone, Chavez, Solares and one of his own compositions. This selection did not represent South American contemporary music too well and was probably the result of Mr. Ley's having been guided more by personal pianistic moments than general musical considerations. Mr. Ley is an excellent technician rather on the vigorous than on the refined side and the tendency to effectiveness prevents him from unfolding his rich musical endowment.

The forum discussion which followed the program was short and interesting due to the participation of some distinguished musicians in the audience.

Village Notes

Woodstock, July 27—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris are the parents of a daughter, born Sunday at the Doctors Hospital in New York, weighing 7 pounds, 14 ounces. They have a boy, Stephen. Mrs. Harris, who is known to Woodstock Playhouse audiences as Viola Harris, will appear in the last play of the season, Time Out For Ginger.

The oil painting, August Night at Russell's Corners by the late George Ault, has been purchased by the Joslyn Memorial Museum of Omaha, Neb., according to Mrs. Ault of New York who visited in Woodstock this week.

Hilda Lightstone spent a few days vacationing in Cutchogue, L. I., last week.

Mr. and Mrs. David Bird spent a long weekend at Block Island.

Woodstock, July 27—The proceeds of the Hunt Brothers Circus which will play here on August 4, at the Woodstock Recreation Field, will go toward the Student Fund of the Woodstock Rotary Club. Tickets may be obtained at the Woodstock News Shop, The Woodstock Garage, the Woodstock Food Market, at the office of the Woodstock Townsman or from any Rotary Club member in this village.

Eva Peron Death Date Brings Demonstration

Buenos Aires, Argentina, July 27 (AP)—Ten thousand Argentines paraded silently before President Juan D. Peron last night on the third anniversary of the death of his wife, Eva.

A congressional resolution lauded Mrs. Peron, who died of cancer, as the "spiritual chief of the nation." The Peronista press said the day marked the anniversary of her "transition to immortality."

In several towns in Buenos Aires province, however, monuments and posters erected to her memory were defaced.

A plaque was torn off the base of a memorial in the town of Miramar. Two tar bombs were hurled against a monument in San Antonio de Areco. The hands of a memorial clock in Balcarce were twisted.

No Truck Strike

Syracuse, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—There will not be an upstate trucking strike. The AFL teamsters Union and employers announced jointly yesterday that negotiations for a new contract would be continued on a retroactive basis if necessary beyond the Aug. 1 expiration of the current contract. About 25,000 over-the-road upstate drivers are affected by the talks, which began yesterday. Fred Maggio, business agent and president of Teamsters Local 317, said the statement was issued to allay any fears of a strike.

Barbers Vacation

Binghamton, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—This is a real vacation week for this city of more than 80,000. Even the barbers took off. Seventy-five barbershops closed for a week-long vacation coinciding with that of 10,000 workers employed by the International Business Machines Corp. and Link Aviation Inc. Most of the barbers are AFL Union members. A few non-union shops remained open.

Prediction on Talbott

Kansas City, July 27 (AP)—The Kansas City Star, in a special dispatch from its Washington correspondent Duke Shoop, said today the days of Harold E. Talbott as secretary of the air force and as a ranking member of the Eisenhower team "are numbered."

Vegetable Week

Leave East Berlin

Berlin, July 27 (AP)—Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev left East Berlin by plane today for Moscow after a three-day visit with the East German Communist regime. Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl and his cabinet, along with top Soviet officials and East European diplomats, saw the Russian leaders off. The Soviet chiefs stopped here on their way from the Big Four summit conference.

Americans in French Morocco Feel Uneasy About Future

Nouasseur, French Morocco, July 27 (AP)—Join the U. S. Air Force and see picturesque Morocco. Maybe there will be a small bomb under your car some morning to add to the excitement.

This is the hot, dusty meadow some 20 miles south of tumultuous Casablanca where Uncle Sam has built the biggest of his five air bases on the northwest hump of Africa.

THE 20,000 Americans living in French Morocco feel some uneasiness about their future amid the bitter strife between Moroccan nationalist terror and European counterterror.

THE OVERWHELMING majority of these Americans are air force people—uniformed and civilian—with their wives and children. Some 1,000 or more families live in and around Casablanca, where rioting has caused more than 100 deaths since July 14.

The American families understandably don't care too much for the situation, though no American has been killed or seriously hurt.

"THEY HAVE been standing up to it like good old American pioneer stock," said Gen. James L. Jackson of Eureka Springs, Ark., the Houasseur base commander.

But Mrs. Evelyn Allsup, of (559 Magnolia drive) Fort Walton Beach, Fla., decided after two bombs were set off on the ground floor of her apartment house that there were other places for her children to live.

"They were outside waiting for the school bus and it was a miracle nothing happened to them," she said.

The family is now one of the few housed on the base itself, waiting for a plane out. So is the family of T. Sgt. Charles V. Starks, (916 14th St.) Rock Island, Ill., who found his car one day with the engine ripped out by a bomb.

THESE FAMILIES say they are not being shipped out because of the situation but because their 30-month tour of duty has ended.

Such cases of bombings are not frequent, though car burning has nearly attained the status of a national sport in Casablanca. Most American cars have distinctive red license plates and some fly American flags, but it is doubtful if many bomb throwers would pay much attention.

Authorities at Nouasseur take what precautions they can on a base that has houses for only 50 families. Newcomers are told the situation is "a bit tense." They are ordered to stay out of crowds in the Arab quarters.

THE AIR FORCE is offering a trailer house for sale at $2,800 and there are many more applications than the 265 on order. A model on display outside the post exchange sleeps six and has a big electric refrigerator.

The main objection to Casablanca, a city of 750,000, is not the shooting and bombing. What seems to cause most annoyance is that few Americans understand French and Arabic.

"Anyone can say 'bon jour,'" explained M. Sgt. Robert Cribb, Holly Hill, S. C., "but you can't get very chummy on that."

Some also dislike the 20-mile daily drive to and from work and resent what they consider gouging in French stores. They worry about the children, too, when they are not in sight.

On the other hand, many families appreciate the exotic atmosphere, and the wives seem to like the veiled sack-gowned "fatmas"—Moroccan women—who will do the housework and help with the kids for $28.50 a month plus one meal a day.

At the base you can go to church, buy American toothpaste, attend women's club meetings, and see "Ma and Pa Kettle in Waikiki" at the camp's movie house.

Fire Chief Killed

Barker, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Fire Chief Howard I. Mang, 60, was killed last night when a commercial truck skidded and struck him on a highway near the scene of a grass fire. Police said the accident happened as Mang and two firemen were standing on Lake Road between Mang's parked auto and a parked fire truck. The two vehicles were on opposite sides of the road. The grass fire had already been put out. The driver was not held.

Mapai Party Is Holding Lead in Israel Election

Jerusalem, July 27 (AP)—David Ben-Gurion's Mapai party maintained a substantial lead today in official returns from Israel's parliamentary election. The Socialist Labor faction appeared certain to continue its seven-year government leadership.

Ben-Gurion, Israel's 69-year-old elder statesman, already had announced he would resume the premiership if his party again got the nod. Because the Mapai stood no chance of winning a majority in the 120-seat Knesset (Parliament), another coalition will be necessary.

With 442,340 of yesterday's approximately 800,000 votes counted, the Mapa had polled 33.67 per cent, or 148,887. Far behind in second place was the "dark horse" Herut, an extreme right-wing Nationalist faction, with 51,409 or 11.63 per cent.

The General Zionists, No. 2 party in the last Knesset, trailed in fifth place with 36,675 (8.29 per cent).

Wins Quiz Show

New York, July 27 (AP)—A Bronx shoemaker who knows just about everything about opera won $16,000 last night on the CBS television show, "The $64,000 Question." Gino Prato, 53, answered a four-part question about Giacomo Puccini's last, unfinished opera to win the prize. Next week he can try for $32,000. If he misses, he gets a consolation prize of an automobile. He also can take his $16,000 and quit. The highest possible prize is $64,000, which no one has yet tried for.

The annual Presentation Church bazaar will be held at the church grounds on Friday and Saturday. Various booths will be on display. A roast beef supper will be served on Saturday at 6 p. m. The public is invited.

Weekend Hostess Rates Unusual 'Thank You' Gift

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

We saw some perfect gifts for the weekend hostess in South Pasadena, California. One was a metal charcoal bucket with bright rooster decor on black and in pink gourmet motif on black. Colorful, different and practical, it would delight any hostess. Can be used also as an ice or soft drink bucket. It's 8 inches deep, 12 inches in diameter and comes complete with sturdy black tongs. Great for bright flowers, too.

Also at the Olde Thompson place we saw a pepper mill-and-tray set in California ceramic. Comes in green, white or Malibu sand, with gold tops and trim. Makes the kind of gift your hostess will bless you for.

If your hostess likes to serve tidbits beautifully, there is also a ceramic platter and dunking-sauce bowl combination in raised chrysanthemum pattern. Solid colors are either green, oatmeal gray, or chartreuse.

If you present any of these handsome California gifts to your weekend host and hostess, they should give you at least a few beefsteak sandwiches.

Individual Steak Sandwiches

Count on at least ½ pound steak per person. Let the steaks stand at room temperature for at least ½ hour. Rub both sides with salt and pepper; spread with a thin layer of prepared mustard.

Grill or broil until brown on one side. Turn and brown on second side until desired doneness.

Remove from heat; top with a dollop of butter or margarine. Spread a split loaf of French bread with butter or margarine. Place steaks on half the bread or buns. Top the other half with onion and tomato slices. Put together to form sandwiches. (Slice the French bread diagonally to make individual servings.)

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Individual beefsteak sandwiches, whole beefsteak tomatoes, warmed potato chips, stuffed celery, fruit bowl, assorted cheese, oatmeal cookies, coffee, tea, milk.

Mapai Party Is Holding Lead in Israel Election

Jerusalem, July 27 (AP)—David Ben-Gurion's Mapai party maintained a substantial lead today in official returns from Israel's parliamentary election. The Socialist Labor faction appeared certain to continue its seven-year government leadership.

Ben-Gurion, Israel's 69-year-old elder statesman, already had announced he would resume the premiership if his party again got the nod. Because the Mapai stood no chance of winning a majority in the 120-seat Knesset (Parliament), another coalition will be necessary.

With 442,340 of yesterday's approximately 800,000 votes counted, the Mapa had polled 33.67 per cent, or 148,887. Far behind in second place was the "dark horse" Herut, an extreme right-wing Nationalist faction, with 51,409 or 11.63 per cent.

The General Zionists, No. 2 party in the last Knesset, trailed in fifth place with 36,675 (8.29 per cent).

If he misses, he gets a consolation prize of an automobile. He also can take his $16,000 and quit. The highest possible prize is $64,000, which no one has yet tried for.

Weekend Hostess Rates Unusual 'Thank You' Gift

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

We saw some perfect gifts for the weekend hostess in South Pasadena, California. One was a metal charcoal bucket with bright rooster decor on black and in pink gourmet motif on black. Colorful, different and practical, it would delight any hostess. Can be used also as an ice or soft drink bucket. It's 8 inches deep, 12 inches in diameter and comes complete with sturdy black tongs. Great for bright flowers, too.

Also at the Olde Thompson place we saw a pepper mill-and-tray set in California ceramic. Comes in green, white or Malibu sand, with gold tops and trim. Makes the kind of gift your hostess will bless you for.

If your hostess likes to serve tidbits beautifully, there is also a ceramic platter and dunking-sauce bowl combination in raised chrysanthemum pattern. Solid colors are either green, oatmeal gray, or chartreuse.

If you present any of these handsome California gifts to your weekend host and hostess, they should give you at least a few beefsteak sandwiches.

Individual Steak Sandwiches

Count on at least ½ pound steak per person. Let the steaks stand at room temperature for at least ½ hour. Rub both sides with salt and pepper; spread with a thin layer of prepared mustard.

Grill or broil until brown on one side. Turn and brown on second side until desired doneness.

Remove from heat; top with a dollop of butter or margarine. Spread a split loaf of French bread with butter or margarine. Place steaks on half the bread or buns. Top the other half with onion and tomato slices. Put together to form sandwiches. (Slice the French bread diagonally to make individual servings.)

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Individual beefsteak sandwiches, whole beefsteak tomatoes, warmed potato chips, stuffed celery, fruit bowl, assorted cheese, oatmeal cookies, coffee, tea, milk.

Americans in French Morocco Feel Uneasy About Future

Nouasseur, French Morocco, July 27 (AP)—Join the U. S. Air Force and see picturesque Morocco. Maybe there will be a small bomb under your car some morning to add to the excitement.

This is the hot, dusty meadow some 20 miles south of tumultuous Casablanca where Uncle Sam has built the biggest of his five air bases on the northwest hump of Africa.

THE 20,000 Americans living in French Morocco feel some uneasiness about their future amid the bitter strife between Moroccan nationalist terror and European counterterror.

THE OVERWHELMING majority of these Americans are air force people—uniformed and civilian—with their wives and children. Some 1,000 or more families live in and around Casablanca, where rioting has caused more than 100 deaths since July 14.

The American families understandably don't care too much for the situation, though no American has been killed or seriously hurt.

"THEY HAVE been standing up to it like good old American pioneer stock," said Gen. James L. Jackson of Eureka Springs, Ark., the Houasseur base commander.

But Mrs. Evelyn Allsup, of (559 Magnolia drive) Fort Walton Beach, Fla., decided after two bombs were set off on the ground floor of her apartment house that there were other places for her children to live.

"They were outside waiting for the school bus and it was a miracle nothing happened to them," she said.

The family is now one of the few housed on the base itself, waiting for a plane out. So is the family of T. Sgt. Charles V. Starks, (916 14th St.) Rock Island, Ill., who found his car one day with the engine ripped out by a bomb.

THESE FAMILIES say they are not being shipped out because of the situation but because their 30-month tour of duty has ended.

Such cases of bombings are not frequent, though car burning has nearly attained the status of a national sport in Casablanca. Most American cars have distinctive red license plates and some fly American flags, but it is doubtful if many bomb throwers would pay much attention.

Authorities at Nouasseur take what precautions they can on a base that has houses for only 50 families. Newcomers are told the situation is "a bit tense." They are ordered to stay out of crowds in the Arab quarters.

THE AIR FORCE is offering a trailer house for sale at $2,800 and there are many more applications than the 265 on order. A model on display outside the post exchange sleeps six and has a big electric refrigerator.

The main objection to Casablanca, a city of 750,000, is not the shooting and bombing. What seems to cause most annoyance is that few Americans understand French and Arabic.

"Anyone can say 'bon jour,'" explained M. Sgt. Robert Cribb, Holly Hill, S. C., "but you can't get very chummy on that."

Some also dislike the 20-mile daily drive to and from work and resent what they consider gouging in French stores. They worry about the children, too, when they are not in sight.

On the other hand, many families appreciate the exotic atmosphere, and the wives seem to like the veiled sack-gowned "fatmas"—Moroccan women—who will do the housework and help with the kids for $28.50 a month plus one meal a day.

At the base you can go to church, buy American toothpaste, attend women's club meetings, and see "Ma and Pa Kettle in Waikiki" at the camp's movie house.

Fire Chief Killed

Barker, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Fire Chief Howard I. Mang, 60, was killed last night when a commercial truck skidded and struck him on a highway near the scene of a grass fire. Police said the accident happened as Mang and two firemen were standing on Lake Road between Mang's parked auto and a parked fire truck. The two vehicles were on opposite sides of the road. The grass fire had already been put out. The driver was not held.

French Tradition to Vie for Importance in Paltz Old Houses

Dutch Dwellings Are to Be Open to Public on Aug. 6

A French-flavored tradition will vie for historic importance with that of the widely Dutch-settled Hudson River valley when nine old stone houses will be open to visitors along Huguenot street in New Paltz on August 6, report officials of the Ulster County Publicity Committee.

Contrasting with the Dutch background of the old homes recently opened to sightseers at Hurley, these buildings date from the turn of the 17th century following the concluding of a land grant from Governor Andros, English Governor of New York, in 1678 to 12 original Patentees, then known as Walloons, and later as Huguenots. The Patentees named the grant New Paltz in honor of Pfaltz on the Rhine River, where they had found refuge from the religious persecutions of Louis XIV.

THERE WILL be a host or hostess at each open house ready to receive visitors and point out the highlights of the home, according to Kenneth Hasbrouck, director of the affair and 8th generation descendant of Patentee Abraham Hasbrouck. Up to 50 citizens will be attired in traditional Huguenot costume and many will participate in the historical pageant scheduled for the afternoon of the 6th, when the signing of the original land grant will be re-enacted in a specially-constructed log cabin.

Luncheon will be served from 12 noon to 2 p. m. in the Century Room of the Dutch Reformed Church of New Paltz, sponsor of Visitation Day. The records of this historic church may be traced back uninterrupted to colonial times. Records were first kept in French, then Dutch, and finally English.

FEATURES of these Huguenot houses, which will be open to the public from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m., include large open fireplaces, hand-hewn beams, original glass in the windows, and the original kitchen utensils.

One of the buildings of particular interest is the Jean Hasbrouck House, erected in 1712. This is one of the few old homes in the town that is open to visitors the year-round as well as on Visitation Day. Maintained as it appeared in the 1700's, the home is headquarters of the Huguenot Patriotic, Historical, and Monumental Society.

Open only on August 6 will be the Abraham Hasbrouck House, constructed by Patentee Abraham Hasbrouck in 1712. Abraham had served as a soldier under Governor Andros and is said to have been of great assistance in obtaining the original grant for the Patentees. Of interest is the central room containing seven doors and the lower kitchen, which was the site of numerous cock fights in colonial days.

ALSO ADDING to the quaint colonial atmosphere in New Paltz is the Bevier-Elting House, which appears in much the same condition as when it was built in 1698. It is maintained by a special trust established by the Elting family.

While all popular restaurants and eating places in New Paltz will be catering to hungry visitors, some sightseers may care to stop for nourishment at the Old Fort, dating from 1705, and presently operated as a restaurant. The outer wall nearest the street still exhibits the slots at the corners in which defenders could rest their rifle barrels.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Horse stealing in the olden days was really something. I see back in the Kingston Weekly Freeman of Thursday, June 7, 1900 that Policeman P. J. White placed under arrest two suspicious characters who came across on the Skillyput from Sleightburgh to Rondout. They were trying to drive a horse and wagon on the ferry when for some unaccountable reason the horse decided to jump in the creek, but luckily the horse was pulled out. Officer White found the two men to be drunk, so he sent for the Black Maria, but before it arrived he was notified by police headquarters that three men were wanted at Milton for stealing a team of horses. The description seemed to fit the two men and their wagon. The two men were taken to the City Hall but they were still so far under the influence of liquor that they could not give their names. The owner of the rig was sent for and with Police Officer McIntyre they scoured the city for the third man who had the other horse, the item said.

Cats and kittens have a way of getting into tight places but this is the first time I heard of the following. From the above newspaper one Sunday morning at the services of the Fair Street Reformed Church, Miss Fuller, the organist, touched the keys and instead of music the cry of a cat came sharp and distinct. She tried several times and the cat only cried louder, so finally everyone was out looking for the cat. The cat, it seemed, had succeeded in getting into one of the large organ pipes and would not come out. Cats are like that. So a smaller organ had to be brought in for the Sunday morning services. Before the evening services, the cat came out of the organ and went her merry way.

There is so much talk about David Crockett now that the New York Herald Tribune of Sunday, July 17, 1955 had a write-up on a trim clippership called "David Crockett" which ran for some 37 years on the high seas. On her prow she carried a carved life-sized figurehead of the noted woodsman which could easily be removed and fitted into place. This David Crockett figurehead is now the property of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. It is said, it is in nearly perfect condition. Evidently the wooden Davy Crockett was removed during its many rough Cape Horn passages and stormy weather. Davy Crockett clippership was launched Oct. 18, 1853, at present site of the Mystic Seaport and cost $93,000. By 1876 she had returned a net profit of over $500,000 to her owners, the New York-Liverpool Packet Line. In 30 years of continuous service, she never cost her insurance underwriters a single dollar. Relics of the ship the properties of Capt. Spencer, have been loaned to the Marine Historical Assn. in Mystic, Conn., by his grandson and namesake of Westbrook, Conn. So it seems David Crockett's name was not only known on land but at sea as well. Another cat story which received newspaper space in the Oct. 18, 1900 issue on page 2 covered an accounting of a will in Esopus brought out in Surrogate Court. It seems $100 was spent to feed three cats for some three and a half years at 10 cents a week. It seems they consumed a quart of milk a day and in summer received bread and meat while in winter each cat got six pancakes. Those were the days before canned cat food.

Press Agent's Estate Runs Over Million

New York, July 27 (AP)—A tax appraisal shows that press agent Steve Hannagan left a gross estate of $1,109,551, with $218,399 going to movie actress Ann Sheridan, his friend for many years.

After taxes and other expenses, the net estate was valued at $768,098 in a report filed in surrogate's court yesterday.

Hannagan died of a heart attack at the age of 53 while traveling in Africa in February, 1953.

Miss Sheridan's share of the estate was in the form of insurance policies that named her as beneficiary. Hannagan, twice married and twice divorced, often escorted Miss Sheridan. They were frequently rumored to be about to marry.

The tax appraisal valued Hannagan's public relations business at $407,056. Other assets included notes for $40,000 signed by Miss Sheridan. She said Hannagan loaned her the money to buy two movie scripts. She eventually settled the debt with the estate for $15,000.

The 1924 convention of the Democratic party required 103 roll call votes before John W. Davis was nominated for president.

Construction Wages Up Six Cents an Hour

Washington, July 27 (AP)—The Labor Department said today average wage scales for union construction workers rose 6 cents an hour during the three month period ended July 1.

This is a traditional period for widespread negotiation of new wage rates in the building and construction industry. For the year ended July 1 the average increase was 9 cents an hour.

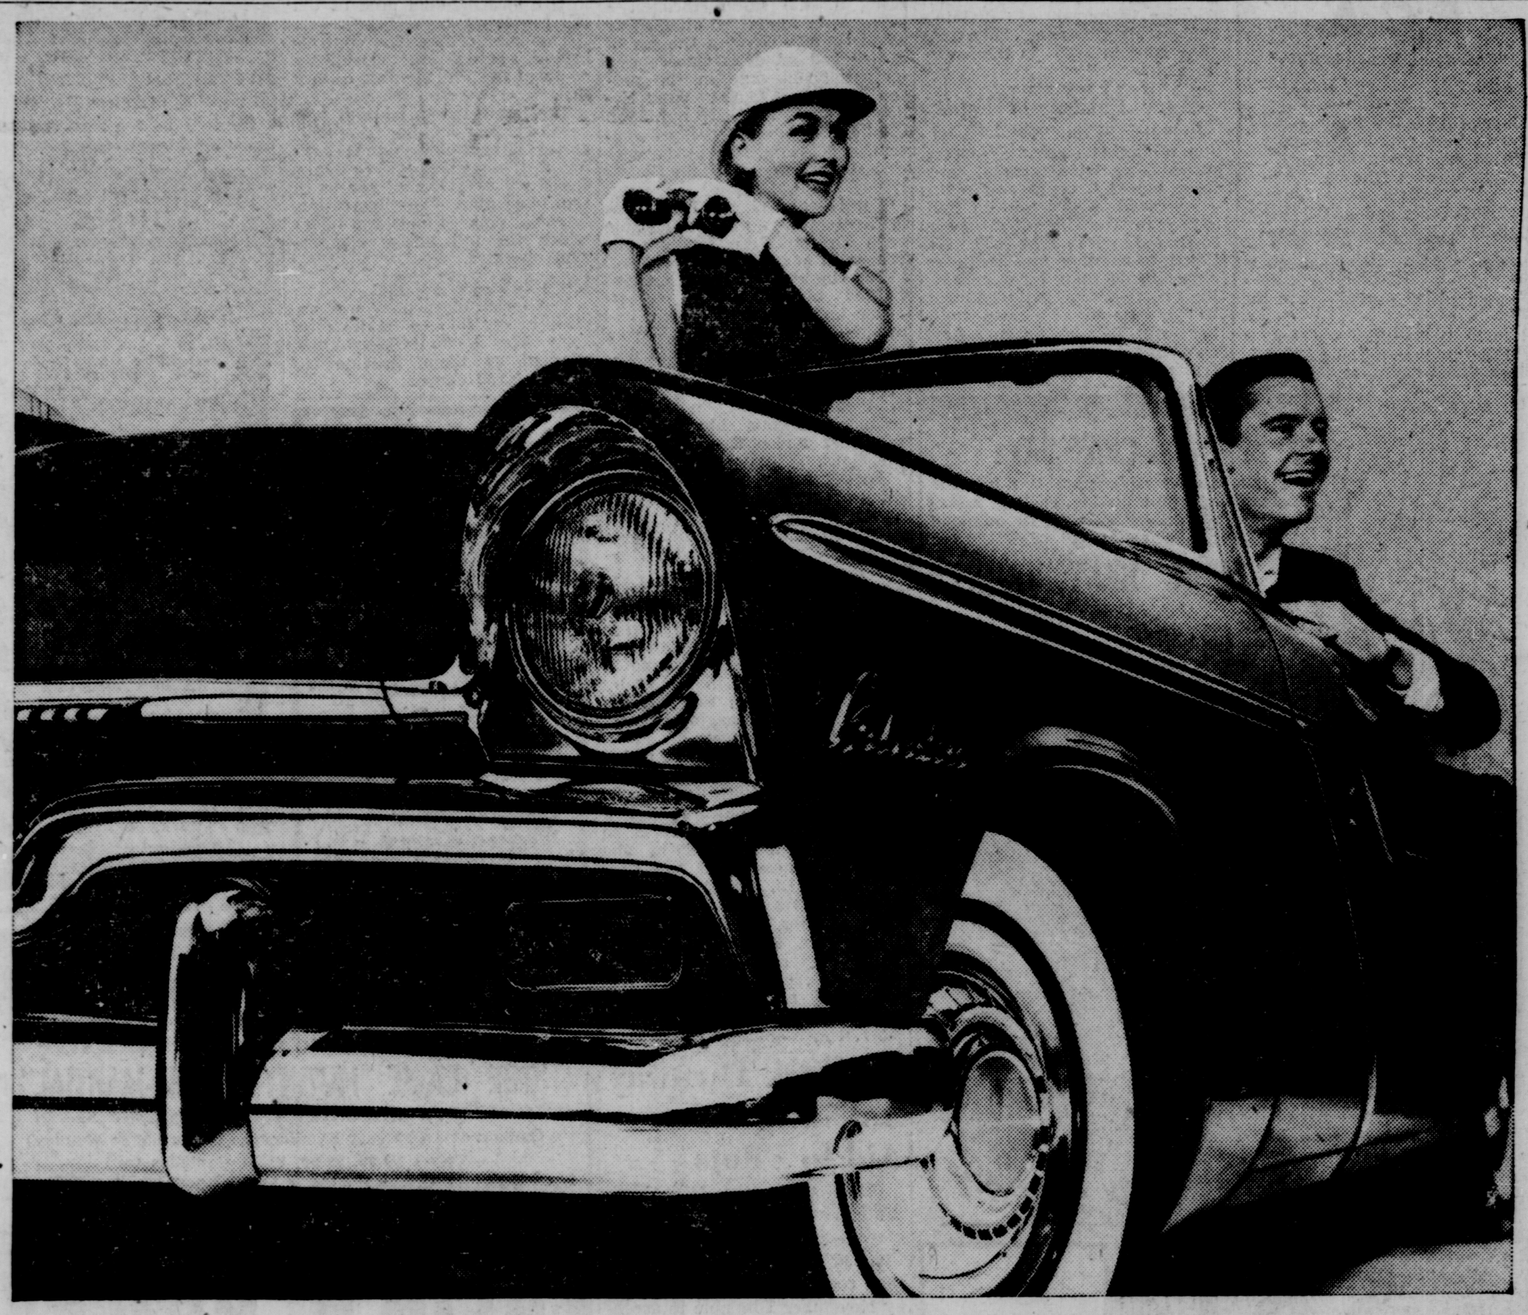

The department reported the latest average rate for bricklayers is $3.47 an hour, carpenters $3.01, electricians $3.17, painters $2.87, plasterers $3.36, plumbers $3.19 and laborers $2.04.

By SOPHIE MILLER

Horse stealing in the olden days was really something. I see back in the Kingston Weekly Freeman of Thursday, June 7, 1900 that Policeman P. J. White placed under arrest two suspicious characters who came across on the Skillyput from Sleightburgh to Rondout. They were trying to drive a horse and wagon on the ferry when for some unaccountable reason the horse decided to jump in the creek, but luckily the horse was pulled out. Officer White found the two men to be drunk, so he sent for the Black Maria, but before it arrived he was notified by police headquarters that three men were wanted at Milton for stealing a team of horses. The description seemed to fit the two men and their wagon. The two men were taken to the City Hall but they were still so far under the influence of liquor that they could not give their names. The owner of the rig was sent for and with Police Officer McIntyre they scoured the city for the third man who had the other horse, the item said.

Cats and kittens have a way of getting into tight places but this is the first time I heard of the following. From the above newspaper one Sunday morning at the services of the Fair Street Reformed Church, Miss Fuller, the organist, touched the keys and instead of music the cry of a cat came sharp and distinct. She tried several times and the cat only cried louder, so finally everyone was out looking for the cat. The cat, it seemed, had succeeded in getting into one of the large organ pipes and would not come out. Cats are like that. So a smaller organ had to be brought in for the Sunday morning services. Before the evening services, the cat came out of the organ and went her merry way.

There is so much talk about David Crockett now that the New York Herald Tribune of Sunday, July 17, 1955 had a write-up on a trim clippership called "David Crockett" which ran for some 37 years on the high seas. On her prow she carried a carved life-sized figurehead of the noted woodsman which could easily be removed and fitted into place. This David Crockett figurehead is now the property of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. It is said, it is in nearly perfect condition. Evidently the wooden Davy Crockett was removed during its many rough Cape Horn passages and stormy weather. Davy Crockett clippership was launched Oct. 18, 1853, at present site of the Mystic Seaport and cost $93,000. By 1876 she had returned a net profit of over $500,000 to her owners, the New York-Liverpool Packet Line. In 30 years of continuous service, she never cost her insurance underwriters a single dollar. Relics of the ship the properties of Capt. Spencer, have been loaned to the Marine Historical Assn. in Mystic, Conn., by his grandson and namesake of Westbrook, Conn. So it seems David Crockett's name was not only known on land but at sea as well. Another cat story which received newspaper space in the Oct. 18, 1900 issue on page 2 covered an accounting of a will in Esopus brought out in Surrogate Court. It seems $100 was spent to feed three cats for some three and a half years at 10 cents a week. It seems they consumed a quart of milk a day and in summer received bread and meat while in winter each cat got six pancakes. Those were the days before canned cat food.

Press Agent's Estate Runs Over Million

New York, July 27 (AP)—A tax appraisal shows that press agent Steve Hannagan left a gross estate of $1,109,551, with $218,399 going to movie actress Ann Sheridan, his friend for many years.

After taxes and other expenses, the net estate was valued at $768,098 in a report filed in surrogate's court yesterday.

Hannagan died of a heart attack at the age of 53 while traveling in Africa in February, 1953.

Miss Sheridan's share of the estate was in the form of insurance policies that named her as beneficiary. Hannagan, twice married and twice divorced, often escorted Miss Sheridan. They were frequently rumored to be about to marry.

The tax appraisal valued Hannagan's public relations business at $407,056. Other assets included notes for $40,000 signed by Miss Sheridan. She said Hannagan loaned her the money to buy two movie scripts. She eventually settled the debt with the estate for $15,000.

The 1924 convention of the Democratic party required 103 roll call votes before John W. Davis was nominated for president.

Construction Wages Up Six Cents an Hour

Washington, July 27 (AP)—The Labor Department said today average wage scales for union construction workers rose 6 cents an hour during the three month period ended July 1.

This is a traditional period for widespread negotiation of new wage rates in the building and construction industry. For the year ended July 1 the average increase was 9 cents an hour.

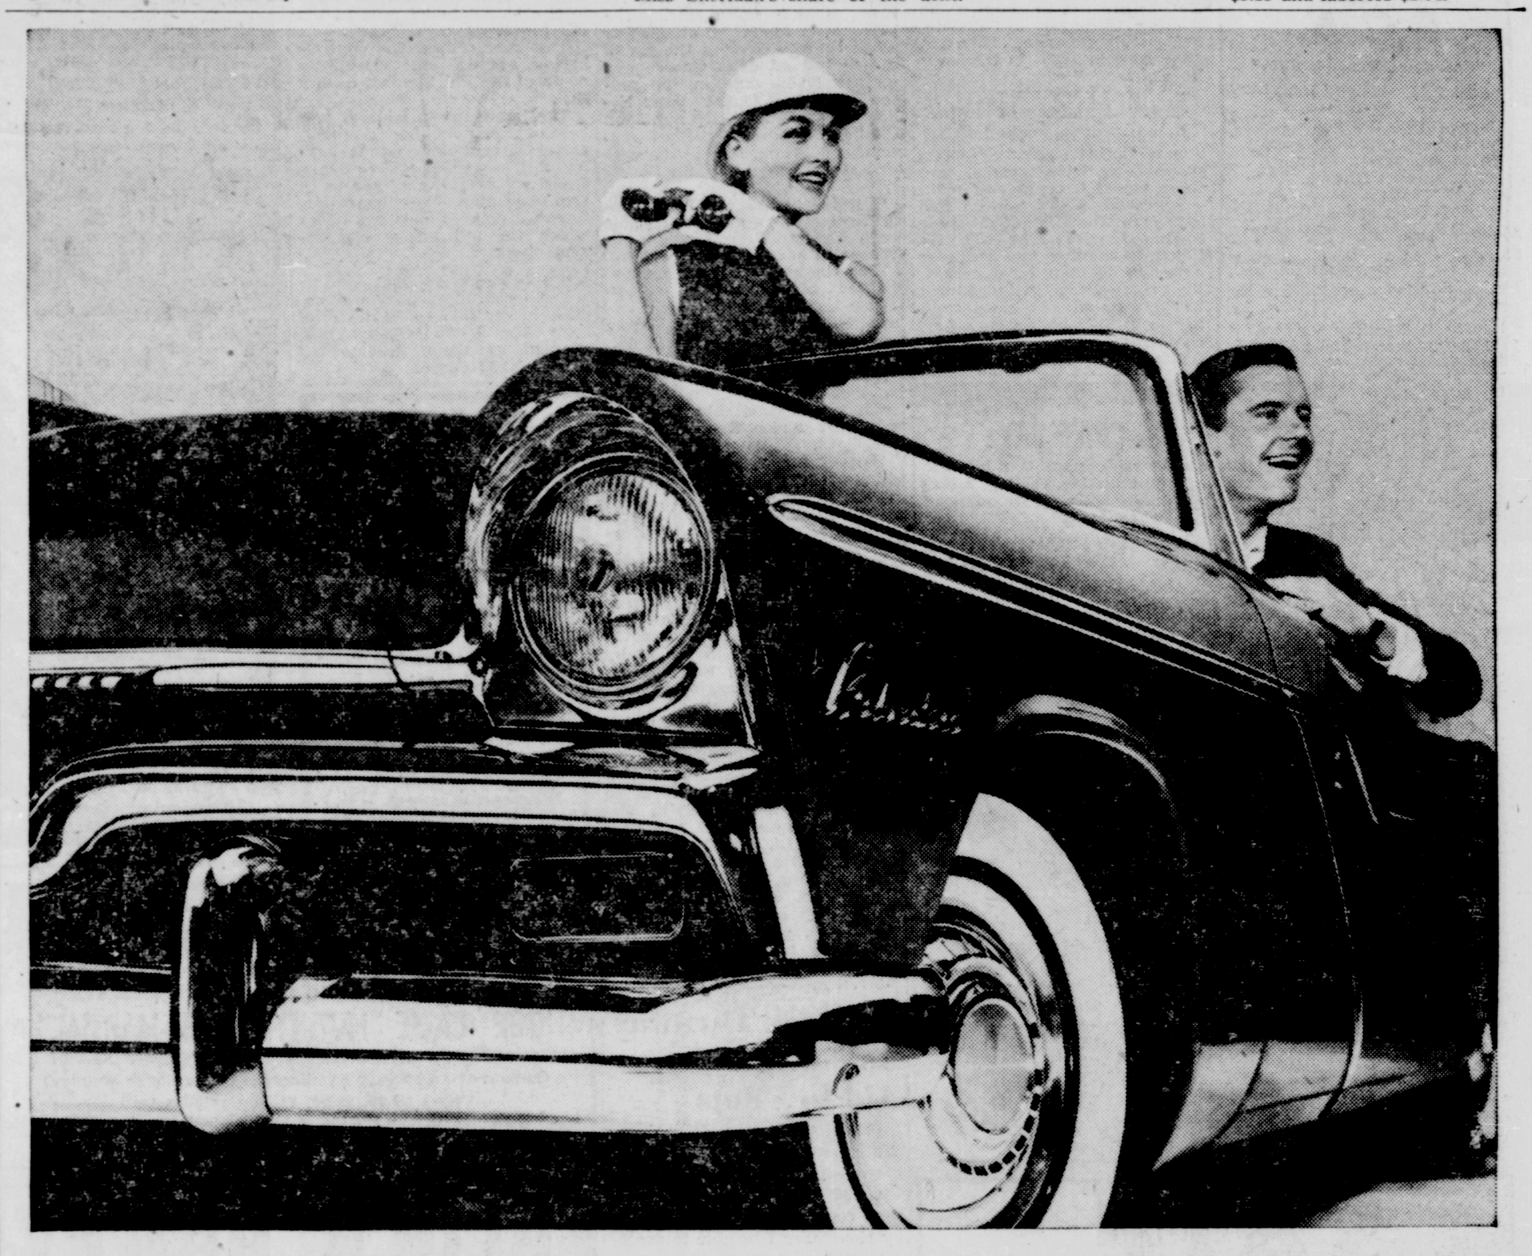

The department reported the latest average rate for bricklayers is $3.47 an hour, carpenters $3.01, electricians $3.17, painters $2.87, plasterers $3.36, plumbers $3.19 and laborers $2.04.

Plastic Coating May Help Skis on Planes

Clare, Mich., July 27 (AP)—Plastic coated skis that don't stick to the snow may permit greater use of airplanes in the navy's expedition "Deep Freeze" into the Antarctic this fall.

Two brothers, Thomas and William McConica, who have a ski business in this central Michigan winter resort area, have been doing research on coating airplane skis.

Rear Adm. George Dufek, U. S. Navy retired, who will command the navy's task force, was here yesterday to check on their progress.

Dufek said he was pleased. The new type skis will be field tested in September on Greenland's snow cap where snow conditions are almost identical with those around the South Pole.

New RKO Owners To Supply Theatre Films Is Decision

New York, July 27 (AP)—The new owner of RKO Radio Pictures, originally interested in the movie company as a source of television films, now plans to increase RKO's production for theatre showings.

RKO was bought for 25 million dollars from Howard Hughes by the General Tire and Rubber Co. through its subsidiary, General Teleradio, Inc. The sale was officially completed Monday.

Thomas F. O'Neil, president of General Teleradio, told a news conference yesterday the original reason for the purchase was to acquire films for TV.

"NOW," HE ADDED, "our decision is that the film company can stand on its own merits. This can be a successful venture itself."

O'Neil stated:

"We have become convinced that there is a large and growing market for fine films for theatrical distribution. . . .We look upon this acquisition at this time as a great opportunity to continue and increase RKO's role in the important theatrical release field."

He declined to disclose any plans General Teleradio might have for distribution of RKO's backlog of movies to TV outlets.

Malaya to Vote In Important Poll

Kuala Lumpur, Mayala, July 27 (AP) — Malaya's multi-racial population went to the polls today to elect a majority of its legislators for the first time in history.

At stake in the general election are 52 seats in the Federation of Mayala's 98-member legislative council. The high commissioner of the British protectorate, Sir Donald Macgillivray, will appoint the other 46 members.

The British government views the election as an important step toward self-government for the federation, composed of the nine Malay states and the former straits settlements of Penang and Malacca.

The party winning the most seats will form a cabinet to head most of the government departments but the high commissioner will retain a veto. Because the peninsula's six million people are about half Malays and half Chinese or Indians, most leaders are not anxious for immediate removal of Britain's moderating influence. "Merdeka (freedom) in 1959" in the favorite slogan.

More California Fruit

Berkeley, Calif. (AP)—Production of deciduous fruits—apples, apricots, cherries, grapes, freestone peaches, pears and plums—increased 27 per cent in California in the 1949-1953 period compared with 1934-1938. National production meanwhile increased less than 7 per cent. In the postwar period California has accounted for close to 50 per cent of the nation's total commercial tonnage of these fruits.

'Caine Mutiny' Receives Praise At Playhouse

Woodstock, July 27 — It is probably safe to say at the outset, without fear of contradiction, that no finer theatre may be found anywhere than that witnessed Tuesday night at the Woodstock Playhouse with the opening of The Caine Mutiny Court Martial. But it is perhaps an understatement to refer to this "strange, tragic trial" as a theatrical experience. It is simply not to be watched in passive enjoyment or sorrow, for the total experience surrounds, devastates and carries the consciousness into the very hearts of these tormented men. The final curtain brought not only applause but "Bravo!" from the audience.

The setting is the cold, sparsely furnished interior of the San Francisco naval courtroom. The sense of waiting and anguished wonder at the final outcome is quickly established, while the horns of defense attorney, Lt. Barney Greenwald's dilemma become increasingly apparent. Michael Howard accomplishes a double and staggeringly difficult feat as director of a supercharged production while on stage from beginning to his final impudent exit line, as the shriven Greenwald.

One by one the witnesses take the stand, each in his turn creating a man, a man under whom they had served during an extremity of action. Lt. Com. Philip Francis Queeg takes shape under the subtle guidance of Lt. Greenwald, the bone, the muscle, the contours with the small bits and pieces of character falling into place. Once the image is formed and the mold set, the man is destroyed with a stroke, and the impact is shattering.

Robert Alvin takes Queeg through his pompous assurance, his halting attempts to explain each of the incidents in question, through the recital of petty grievances against his men, through mounting hysteria to the final depths of dissolution. His performance was magnificent.

Carefully and with sure strokes Michael Howard builds the mounting tension; he cajoles, teases and badgers the awful facts into the glare of the silent courtroom with its panel of impassive judges.

The accused Lt. Stephen Maryk, the forthringht young "fisherman' who knew how to bring a ship safely through a gale, but foundered helplessly when confronted with the sea of a sickened mind, is sincere and immensely likeable in the person of James Karen. Jack Sydow is forceful as Lt. Com. John Challee, lawyer for the prosecution, and Frank Daly is the wise and sober judge, Captain Blakely.

Evasive and clever, Lt. Thomas Keefer plays his subtle game with Norman Rose handling the role with suave sophistication.

Joe Massot's appearance as the baffled blurter-out of a few crude facts, Signalman 3rd Class Junius Urban, was brief but a sparkling moment in the trial.

Archie Smith as Lt. (Jr. Grade) Willis Seward Keith writhed effectively in his attempts to recount his bitter experiences under the barrage of questions.

Expert testimony on the handling of ships is given by Robert Thornell as Capt. Randolph Southard, and in the debatable realms of psychiatry, both Heywood Hale Broun as Dr. Forrest Lundeen and Nicholas Sewell as Dr. Bird turn in superlative performances. The degree that a man is mentally sick or to what extent he is or is not a paranoiac remains in the realm of conjecture, but the implications are more damaging than an out and out diagnosis.

But it is the final scene which rocks to the foundations. Queeg has been sccessfully "murdered" and the ship's officers hold a double celebration. There is no triumph to be found in the mind, the heart and the conscience of Lt. Greenwald. His logic splinters their bright little victory into a multitude of shimmering fragments. "Caine Mutiny" offers no balm to ragged conscience, but it evokes a tremendously exciting and stirring reaction to the still vivid problems of men engaged in a war.

To Mark Thruway As Navigation Aid to Pilots

Pilots using the New York State Thruway as a long concrete beam to guide them along the 396 mile strip from Rockland county to Erie county will by November 1 be able to ascertain just where they are as they soar above the concrete ribbon.

Commissioner Edward T. Dickinson of the New York State Department of Commerce said the roadway will be marked as a navigation aid. Airmarking, long proposed by pilots and air safety organizations, of utility buildings adjacent to toll booths at interchanges 14 to 50 inclusive along the Thruway route from Spring Valley at Williamsville in Erie county will serve as guides.

Building roofs will be painted with ten foot high figures designating the interchanges by number. This information will be carried on federal aeronautical charts, enabling pilots to determine their exact location over the Thruway.

Would Question Bridge Group

Harrisburg, Pa., July 27 (AP)—The State Justice Department would direct the proposed investigation of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission under an amendment approved last night by the House.

The change in the proposed study of the commission was offered by Jeanette F. Reibman (D.-Northampton), one of five northeastern Pennsylvania sponsors of the original proposal.

ANOTHER CHANGE accepted by voice vote would require that the three House members of the commission, which would carry out the investigation, come from legislative districts bordering the Delaware river within the jurisdictional area of the toll bridge agency.

The joint commission controls bridges across the Delaware north of the Philadelphia county line.

The amended resolution was held over for possible final floor action later this week. It calls for a five-man group to make the study covering all phases of the operation, administration, financial policies and laws under which the toll bridge commission operates.

Name Adopted

The term "methodist" was applied in derision to followers of John Wesley at Oxford and, adopted by them, became the name of the church.

Steel Orders Heavy

New York, July 27 (AP)—Incoming orders are running as much as 20 per cent above the capacity of some of the large steel mills, Iron Age, the national metalworking weekly, reported today. The producers "are fighting to restore some kind of order to a near-chaotic situation," it added. Iron Age reported as follows on the current situation as the mills struggle to catch up with the continual flood of orders for steel: Actual production of steel has been falling behind the weekly estimates of production ever since the brief steel strike of July 1. Maintenance problems, hot weather and "fat paychecks for steelworkers" lie behind the failure to meet production schedules.

Check Police Guns

New York, July 27 (AP)—The guns of 50 policemen have been checked as an aftermath of the slaying of an ex-convict in Central Park, it was learned today. Police of the Central Park station, who called the ballistics tests "routine," said they did not produce the death weapon. The checkup was made after police ballistics experts said they believed a slug taken from the victim's body came from a .38 caliber Smith and Wesson revolver—a weapon commonly used by police. The check was made on the guns of all policemen who were on duty in the park yesterday morning. The victim, Phillip Correa, 39, of 247 West 61st street, was found fatally wounded in the park near the entrance at 59th street and 7th avenue about 2:45 a. m.

Suicide Over Falls

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 27 (AP) — A woman threw herself into the Niagara river yesterday and plunged to her death over Niagara Falls before the eyes of scores of tourists. The victim was identified as Mrs. Florence Dinger, 44, of Buffalo. Police said the woman's purse, containing a suicide note, was found on the bank of the river, about 50 yards below the Goat Island bridge. The woman's body was not recovered immediately.

New RKO Owners ToSupplyTheatre Films Is Decision

New York, July 27 (AP)—The new owner of RKO Radio Pictures, originally interested in the movie company as a source of television films, now plans to increase RKO's production for theatre showings.

RKO was bought for 25 million dollars from Howard Hughes by the General Tire and Rubber Co. through its subsidiary, General Teleradio, Inc. The sale was officially completed Monday.

Thomas F. O'Neil, president of General Teleradio, told a news conference yesterday the original reason for the purchase was to acquire films for TV.

He declined to disclose any plans General Teleradio might have for distribution of RKO's backlog of movies to TV outlets.

Malaya to Vote In Important Poll

Kuala Lumpur, Mayala, July 27 (AP) — Malaya's multi-racial population went to the polls today to elect a majority of its legislators for the first time in history.

'Caine Mutiny' Receives Praise At Playhouse

Woodstock, July 27 — It is probably safe to say at the outset, without fear of contradiction, that no finer theatre may be found anywhere than that witnessed Tuesday night at the Woodstock Playhouse with the opening of The Caine Mutiny Court Martial. Jack Sydow is forceful as Lt. Com. John Challee, lawyer for the prosecution, and Frank Daly is the wise and sober judge, Captain Blakely.

Evasive and clever, Lt. Thomas Keefer plays his subtle game with Norman Rose handling the role with suave sophistication.

Joe Massot's appearance as the baffled blurter-out of a few crude facts, Signalman 3rd Class Junius Urban, was brief but a sparkling moment in the trial.

Archie Smith as Lt. (Jr. Grade) Willis Seward Keith writhed effectively in his attempts to recount his bitter experiences under the barrage of questions.

Expert testimony on the handling of ships is given by Robert Thornell as Capt. Randolph Southard, and in the debatable realms of psychiatry, both Heywood Hale Broun as Dr. Forrest Lundeen and Nicholas Sewell as Dr. Bird turn in superlative performances. The degree that a man is mentally sick or to what extent he is or is not a paranoiac remains in the realm of conjecture, but the implications are more damaging than an out and out diagnosis.

But it is the final scene which rocks to the foundations. Queeg has been sccessfully "murdered" and the ship's officers hold a double celebration. There is no triumph to be found in the mind, the heart and the conscience of Lt. Greenwald. His logic splinters their bright little victory into a multitude of shimmering fragments. "Caine Mutiny" offers no balm to ragged conscience, but it evokes a tremendously exciting and stirring reaction to the still vivid problems of men engaged in a war.

To Mark Thruway As Navigation Aid to Pilots

Pilots using the New York State Thruway as a long concrete beam to guide them along the 396 mile strip from Rockland county to Erie county will by November 1 be able to ascertain just where they are as they soar above the concrete ribbon.

Commissioner Edward T. Dickinson of the New York State Department of Commerce said the roadway will be marked as a navigation aid. Airmarking, long proposed by pilots and air safety organizations, of utility buildings adjacent to toll booths at interchanges 14 to 50 inclusive along the Thruway route from Spring Valley at Williamsville in Erie county will serve as guides.

Building roofs will be painted with ten foot high figures designating the interchanges by number. This information will be carried on federal aeronautical charts, enabling pilots to determine their exact location over the Thruway.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Would Question Bridge Group

Harrisburg, Pa., July 27 (AP)—The State Justice Department would direct the proposed investigation of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission under an amendment approved last night by the House.

The change in the proposed study of the commission was offered by Jeanette F. Reibman (D.-Northampton), one of five northeastern Pennsylvania sponsors of the original proposal.

ANOTHER CHANGE accepted by voice vote would require that the three House members of the commission, which would carry out the investigation, come from legislative districts bordering the Delaware river within the jurisdictional area of the toll bridge agency.

The joint commission controls bridges across the Delaware north of the Philadelphia county line.

The amended resolution was held over for possible final floor action later this week. It calls for a five-man group to make the study covering all phases of the operation, administration, financial policies and laws under which the toll bridge commission operates.

Name Adopted

The term "methodist" was applied in derision to followers of John Wesley at Oxford and, adopted by them, became the name of the church.

Steel Orders Heavy

New York, July 27 (AP)—Incoming orders are running as much as 20 per cent above the capacity of some of the large steel mills, Iron Age, the national metalworking weekly, reported today. The producers "are fighting to restore some kind of order to a near-chaotic situation," it added. Iron Age reported as follows on the current situation as the mills struggle to catch up with the continual flood of orders for steel: Actual production of steel has been falling behind the weekly estimates of production ever since the brief steel strike of July 1. Maintenance problems, hot weather and "fat paychecks for steelworkers" lie behind the failure to meet production schedules.

Check Police Guns

New York, July 27 (AP)—The guns of 50 policemen have been checked as an aftermath of the slaying of an ex-convict in Central Park, it was learned today. Police of the Central Park station, who called the ballistics tests "routine," said they did not produce the death weapon. The checkup was made after police ballistics experts said they believed a slug taken from the victim's body came from a .38 caliber Smith and Wesson revolver—a weapon commonly used by police. The check was made on the guns of all policemen who were on duty in the park yesterday morning. The victim, Phillip Correa, 39, of 247 West 61st street, was found fatally wounded in the park near the entrance at 59th street and 7th avenue about 2:45 a. m.

Suicide Over Falls

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 27 (AP) — A woman threw herself into the Niagara river yesterday and plunged to her death over Niagara Falls before the eyes of scores of tourists. The victim was identified as Mrs. Florence Dinger, 44, of Buffalo. Police said the woman's purse, containing a suicide note, was found on the bank of the river, about 50 yards below the Goat Island bridge. The woman's body was not recovered immediately.

Snakes Alive

Meriden, Iowa (AP)—A squirming, 27½ foot boa constrictor nearly turned an ordinary carnival sideshow into a frightening experience for this northwest Iowa town. The snake escaped from its cage and bit a trainer, B. C. Davenport, on the wrist. Later, when the trainer opened the cage to be photographed with the boa, the lights went out. About six feet of the snake slithered onto a platform before it was captured and returned to the cage.

In ancient Rome the stork was sacred to Venus, goddess of love.

Mt. Marcy Peak Is Tourist Goal

The highest peak in New York state, Mount Marcy, is a popular goal for mountain climbers in the Adirondacks, according to the New York State Department of Commerce.

When the first ascent was made to the 5,344-foot summit in 1837 there were no trails and the exploring party had to find their way through a trackless, virgin forest. Today there are five clearly marked trails which are easily negotiated by thousands of hikers each summer. Roads permit driving within a dozen miles of the peak.

THE TRAILS vary in length from 10 miles to 17 and it is possible for an experienced hiker to make the round trip to the summit in one day. The mountain top is a bare rock cone which rises above timber line and is surrounded by the other high peaks of the MacIntyre Range. The divide between the watersheds of the Hudson and St. Lawrence rivers passes over its summit and at the base of the cone is Lake Tear-of-the-Clouds, the highest source of the Hudson.

Open camps of the famous "Adirondack leanto" type — three-sided log structures with a fireplace in front—have been erected at convenient places along the trail for overnight campers. The most popular approaches to Mount Marcy are from Heart Lake, south of the village of Lake Placid, and from Keene Valley. The mountain was named for William L. Marcy, Governor of the Empire State from 1833 to 1839.

Mountain climbing is one of the outdor recreations described in a free guide, "New York state Vacationlands," issued by the New York State Department of Commerce, 112 State street, Albany 7, N. Y.

Ulster Girl Scouts Finish Trail Hike, National Project

Two patrols of teen-age Girl Scouts from Ulster and Westchester counties spent three days and nights in the out of doors on the Applachian Trail at Bear Mountain. They were accompanied by Mrs. Ann Pouval, Westchester county camp chairman and present Senior Leader of the primitive Senior Girl Scout unit being held at Camp Wendy these two weeks.

The girls, carrying their own gear and food, will end the 15 mile hike along the trail today. A map with an accompanying daily log will be passed along from patrol to patrol, becoming a part of the permanent record filed at Girl Scout headquarters in New York city on completion of the project.

THE APPALACHIAN TRAIL hike is part of a National Girl Scout project in which hundreds of girls from 13 states along the Atlantic seaboard are expected to take part. Objective is to cover the entire 2050-mile length of the Appalachian Trial, from Mt. Katahdin in Maine to Mt. Oglethorpe in Georgia, between May 25 and August 25 of this year. Because of differing weather conditions, girls will hike the southern end of the trail while snow lies deep on the New England hills; when the New Englanders hit the trail, it will be too hot for hiking down south.

This project is part of a varied program for learning advanced campcraft skills by taking part in pack trips and primitive camping, according to Mrs. Donovan Buehring, president of Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts. In addition to giving girls opportunities of learning how to live in the out-of-doors and developing both resourcefulness and physical stamina, the project will serve as a practice-session for the Senior Roundup, scheduled for late June of 1956. The Roundup, the first mass encampment ever conducted by the Girl Scouts, will bring 4000 Senior Girl Scouts from all states of the union, from the U. S. territories and possessions, to spend 12 days together at Highland State Recreation Area in Michigan. Roundup campers will attend in eight-girl patrols bringing their own gear with them.

Mary-Ellen Adams, Robert A. Gehrer Nuptials Are Held

Miss Mary-Ellen Adams, daughter of Mrs. Thomas G. Adams of Colonial Gardens and the late Thomas G. Adams, became the bride of Robert Andrew Gehrer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gehrer of RFD 1, Box 16, Kingston, in a double ring ceremony Saturday afternoon at St. Joseph's Church. The Rev. Alfred Glancy officiated.

A reception followed at the Carousel for 125 guests.

Given in marriage by her brother, Chester R. Adams, the bride wore a nylon lace over slipper satin gown fashioned with seed pearls, fitted bodice and long pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt ended in a chapel train. The fingertip veil of pure silk illusion was caught to a coronet of tiny tulle leaves and frosted orange blossoms. She carried a white orchid on a prayer book.

Miss Vivcian Cacioppo of Flatbush was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Shirley Van Kleeck, New Paltz, Miss Roberta Kullman, Woodstock, and Miss Helene Salkin, Bayside, L. I.

The maid of honor wore a blue ballerina gown of lace with a shirred skirt of lace and double nylon net over taffeta, in strapless style with stole, and a matching beaded tiara with brief veil. She carried yellow glamelias. The attendants wore gowns in identical style in blue and carried bouquets of picardy glamelias with lemon leaves.

The flower girls were Miss Linda Geoghegan and Miss Denise Adams, nieces of the bride. Their frocks were of white dotted nylon over blue organdy with blue sashes, and headpieces were matching wreaths. They carried bouquets of yellow glamelias with lemon leaves.

Richard Gehrer was best man for his brother. The ushers were Ronald Mericle, Rifton, Kenneth Hotaling, Kingston, and Joseph Stein, Stone Ridge.

For the wedding trip to northern New York state, the bride chose a lavender and white checked sheath dress with lavender jacket, white accessories and a white orchid. On their return, they will live at 198 Harwich street.

The bride, a graduate of the class of 1954 of Kingston High School, is with IBM, Kingston.

The bridegroom, a graduate of the class of 1952, Kingston High School, is with the Hoe Corporation, Poughkeepsie.

MRS. JOHN A. LETUS, JR., the former Barbara C. Galuppo. (State photo)

Barbara Galuppo, John A. Letus, Jr. Wed in Poughkeepsie

In Holy Trinity Church, Poughkeepsie, Miss Barbara C. Galuppo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Galuppo of 16 Worrall avenue, was married Saturday morning to John A. Letus, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Letus, Sr. of Rifton. The Rev. Father Scanlon performed the double ring ceremony.

A reception was held at the VFW home, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

Soloist for the ceremony was Marianne Zeleznik, accompanied by Mrs. Carr at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of hand-clipped Chantilly lace over slipper satin, a fitted bodice with long pointed sleeves, and a bouffant skirt with lace and tulle tiers terminating in a chapel train. A fingertip veil of pure silk illusion with handrolled edge was caught to a coronet of lace, and seed pearls. She carried a prayer book with white lace, and an orchid with satin streamers.

Miss Arlene Galuppo, cousin of the bride, of Poughkeepsie, was maid of honor. The attendants were Miss Marilyn Connal and Miss Alice Molloy of Poughkeepsie. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Gail Galuppo, cousin of the bride, also of Poughkeepsie.

The maid of honor wore a gown of orchid crystalette and nylon net with a strapless bodice, short jacket and bouffant double net skirt over taffeta. Her headpiece was of white daisies.

Identical in style to that of the maid of honor, the bridemaid's gowns were blue for Miss Malloy and yellow for Miss Connal. The junior bridesmaid wore a pink taffeta and nylon net gown with scoop neckline and full tiered nylon skirt posed over hoops. Miss Marion Letus, sister of the bridegroom, flower girl, wore a gown of identical styling to that of the junior bridesmaid, in nile green.

Robert Gordon of Kingston served as best man. The ushers were Peter Letus, brother of the bridegroom, of Rifton and Paul Barslow, cousin of the bride of Poughkeepsie.

On their return from a wedding trip to Cape Cod, Mr. and Mrs. Letus will live at 16 Worrall avenue, Poughkeepsie.

The bride, a graduate of Poughkeepsie High School, is a member of Beta Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, and is with De Laval, Poughkeepsie.

The bridegroom, a grduate of Kingston High School, is serving in the Navy as electronics technician on the USS Picking DD 685.

WHEN DAUGHTER ANSWERS THE PHONE

A mother writes: 'I have a seven-year-old daughter who has my permission to answer the telephone when it rings. I have instructed her to ask "Who is calling." My brother-in-law resents this very much and says that a child has no business asking who is calling. She only asks when she doesn't recognize the voice and does it in a polite manner. Will you please tell me if I am wrong in having her ask this question?"

I think it is quite proper to have her ask the question and nobody should criticize. It is very convenient to know who's calling you, and especially who has called you when you were out.

Lazy Susan as Centerpiece

Dear Mrs. Post: I received a very pretty lazy Susan from a friend for my anniversary. I would like to know if it is proper to leave it on the dining table between meals, sort of like a centerpiece, or must it be put away and taken out when it is to be used?

Answer: There is no rule either for or against this; it is entirely a question of your personal choice.

Taking Leave

Dear Mrs. Post: When attending a wedding reception, a debut or other function at which there is a receiving line, is it customary or required that a guest seek out the hostess before leaving to express one's thanks for a pleasant afternoon or evening, as the case may be?

Answer: If she is still receiving, then you would go without saying good-bye because of the impression given that you are leaving very soon. Otherwise, you should find her to say good-bye.

What type of music is played for the wedding reception? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Her leaflet E-2, describes this and other details for formal wedding procedures. THE SUMMER STAGE

'My Three Angels' at Cragsmoor

Paul Lilly plays a leading role in "My Three Angels" which opens tonight at the Cragsmoor Playhouse, five miles southeast of Ellenville, N. Y. on Route 52. Mr. Lilly appeared in the original Broadway production of My Three Angels, The Shrike, Twentieth Century and the musical version of Street Scene. He also toured in the national company of Arsenic and Old Lace, You Can't Take It With You and Stage Door. Mr. Lilly is a graduate of the University of Detroit and received his dramatic training at Fordham University.

My Three Angels was written by Sam and Bella Spewack and was a smash success in New York. It has to do with three convicts from Devil's Island who are farmed out to do some work for a merchant in the business section of the island. They are thus privileged to discover the problems of the family, and it seems that an old meanie is about to foreclose the mortgage and disrupt the marriage of their darling daughter. In their singular and direct manner, the convicts hold court and decide that it is time to take the law into their own soiled hands. The offending character is ingeniously dispatched and after a series of further complications it is generally agreed that those remaining will live happily ever after. The elements of humor are endless and a crime committed by criminals who have nothing to lose is funny, so is the anticipation and suspense until the dire deed is discovered.

String Quartet at Tanglewood

Three weeks still remain in the 1955 Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Tonight at 8:30 in the intimate Theatre-Concert Hall the fourth concert in this season's Chamber Music series will be given by the New Music String Quartet.

The program will be made up of three string quartets by Beethoven—the Quartet in G Major, Opus 18, No. 2; the Quartet in E flat, Opus 127; and the Quartet in A Minor, Opus 132. The New Music String Quartet is the Quartet-in-Residence of the International Aspen Festival in Colorado. Its members are Broadus Erle and Matthew Raimondi, violins; Walter Trampler, viola; and David Soyer, cello.

Reports Premature

Detroit, July 27 (AP)—Chrysler Corp. and the CIO United Auto Workers say reports that they have reached general agreement on a new contract are premature. Sources close to the closed bargaining sessions had said the company and union appeared agreed on a broad area of a new contract to replace one which runs out Aug. 31. After a four-hour session yesterday, however, the two parties issued a statement declaring that reports "that Chrysler and the UAW-CIO are near an agreement are premature."

involved because a section of the road passes through the Catskill Forest Preserve.

Supervisor Mansfield Showers, town of Hunter, Greene county, said the Catskill paper, has assured State Attorney Jacob K. Javits, Assistant Attorney General William D. Bresinhan, and the Conservation Department, that reconstruction of the route is being done in strict compliance with the terms of an injunction issued on March 14, 1944 by Supreme Court Justice Sydney F. Foster.

The state had called attention to the injunction and noted that "if terms of this injunction are violated, proceedings will be immediately instituted for its enforcement."

THE NEWSPAPER noted that the injunction was the outcome of a suit started by the state in 1940 to prevent the town of Hunter from repairing the road where it runs through the forest preserve. The state noted that it had been closed since 1919 and denied the bid.

The injunction was reported as a compromise whereby the town's right to maintain the road was recognized, but the town was limited to an 18-foot road that did not essentially vary from the route and grade of the road, and with reconstruction work to be done under supervision and inspection of the Conservation Department.

BY 1944, said the Catskill paper, the town of Hunter had lost interest in the project, but earlier this month Supervisor Showers announced that the Slutzky firm would clear and grade the road without cost to the town, and that terms of the injunction would not be violated.

The route passes through heavily wooded mountain country to the northwest of Woodstock's Overlook Mountain.

Durkin Under Surgery

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Martin P. Durkin, 61, former secretary of labor, today underwent brain surgery at Georgetown University Hospital. The hospital said it would be several hours before it could report on his condition. Durkin, now president of the AFL Plumbers Union, underwent an operation for a brain tumor last September.

State Law

The U. S. Constitution has no provision that only a citizen of the United States may vote, but all the states have passed laws making U. S. citizenship a requirement for eligibility to vote.

AND ON THEY GO—The rule is off so the shorts are on. That's the story on Capitol Hill where Congress lifted a ban on women wearing shorts in the galleries. Testing the rule in photo at left is Marie Iannolillo of New Rochelle, N.Y., as she prepares to enter the House ladies' gallery. At right, Jim Jurney, an elevator operator at the Senate Office Building, shows Ada Mahaffie the Bermuda shorts he wears now on his job. Miss Mahaffie works for Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan).

admitted to the reading of one book a year. Incidentally this statistic in England is one in five." . . . And that "publishing as a business is a pitifully small one in this country. The entire industry grosses $250,000,000 a year or not as much as a good sized department or chain store. Book publishing has created no millionaires nor financial tycoons. I will also quickly admit that it has not created any millionaire authors either. . . . In America," continued Mr. Joel, "it is virtually impossible for a writer to make a living solely out of the writing of books. There are not more than 15 novelists who claim to be big money earners."

What is the solution: Better distribution? More readers? Even better books? "I think the answer is yes to all these questions. One of the weaknesses of publishing as a business lies in the necessity of backing authors," he pointed out, "who never develop and publishing books that the publisher knows will lose money. He does so because if he didn't he would lose the writer to another publisher. The public forgets that Sinclair Lewis did six books for Harpers with mild success and then gave his seventh book to Harcourt Brace and the title of that book was Main Street."

John Steinbeck did four books for a new small publisher and then gave his first hit, Of Mice and Men to another.

Why do people go into publishing, and why do they stay in it? "The favorite joke," Joel said, "and it's a slightly sour one is, 'It's better than working.' But I believe men go into publishing because it is personally rewarding, it gives one a sense of participation in the creative process. It is rewarding because you feel that in some measure you are having an influence on the taste and thinking of people. And the authors are interesting, although sometimes troublesome, and it's worth the travail."

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

To Hold Library Fair Tomorrow

Woodstock, July 27—All roads will lead to Woodstock Thursday for the gala Library Fair, opening at 12 noon on the library grounds. Typical of the widespread interest in the annual event is the plan for a motorcade of West Park residents from that town to the fair. The group will be headed by the Rev. Herald C. Swezy, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, West Park, and of St. Gregory's Mission, Woodstock.

The thousands of visitors expected here will begin arriving in the morning for the parade and opening of the fair. If it rains, the event will be postponed until Friday.

The installation of booths and decorations will start today. Scattered through the different sections will be hundreds of bargains, as well as collectors' items. Among the latter is a Chinese opium pipe cleaner made of two whiskers of a sea lion and a silver scoop. This strange object was donated by Mrs. Walter Weyl who said her late husband brought it to her from the Orient many years ago. The whiskers, resembling quills, were used to clean the stem of the pipe and the scoop to clean the bowl.

The jewelry section of the fair, in which the curious pipe cleaner will be displayed, will offer more than 1,000 pieces, including hundreds of earrings, pins, bracelets, rings and clips. The work of repairing and cleaning, sorting and pricing this collection has been under way for weeks under the direction of Mrs. Harvey Emrich, jewelry chairman.

The book tables this year are unusually well-stocked, according to Mrs. Rose Oxhandler, book chairman for the fair. More than 3,000 books to be sold include a beautiful old leather-bound Bible published in 1868, and such new volumes as Sandburg's "Lincoln's War Years." There are many rare old editions, numbers of books on art, children's books and 1,000 or more mysteries and Westerns. Musical scores are also among the "finds" in the book stalls.

The new fair feature, "Authors Meet the Public," has attracted more than 30 Woodstock writers, who will take part in the author's program at 3 p. m. Most of these will be introduced to fair-goers by Mrs. Elizabeth Rugg and Norbert Heermann, host and hostess of the program, and will autograph books to be sold. Some of the writers will not be present but will send their signed copies of books.

Those who will be on hand with autographed books include Iona Alan, Deborah Atkin, Nina Bull, Mrs. Roland Crampton, Helen Fletcher, Edmund Gilligan, Peter Neagoe, Maud and Miska Petersham, Robert Pick, John Hyde Preston, Edith Raskin, Henry Morton Robinson, Seram (Kurt Marek, author of "Gods, Graves and Scholars"), Valerie Swenson and Arthur Zaidenburg. Absent authors, who, however, will be represented by their books, include Charles Boswell, Blake Cabot, Jane Burr, Edward Chase, Anton Otto Fischer, Mary L. Fledderus, Alice H. Lewis, Dr. Harold Rugg and Mary Van Kleeck. Others attending but not writing books are Elizabeth Alexander, Mrs. H. S. Andonian, Mrs. Helen Buttrick, David Davidson, Mrs. Harrison Dowd, Norbert Heermann and Dr. John Kingsbury.

Maverick Concert High Point in Season

Woodstock, July 27 — Last Sunday's Maverick Concert marked a high point in the crowded summer season. Harry Zaratzian, first violist of the Philadelphia Orchestra, played masterfully in the opening Nardini Sonata for Viola and Piano, and again in the difficult Sonata for Viola and Piano by Honegger. Ilse Sass, pianist, showed fine musicianship, especially in the Honegger work, carrying as well the demanding piano parts in the other two numbers on the program.

Phillip Fatt, clarinetist, Cynthia Eddy, cellist, and the pianist performed Beethoven's Trio in B Major, for clarinet, cello and piano, with feeling. The last movement, Theme with Variations, was particularly effective and drew sustained applause from an audience that filled the concert hall.

The program was rounded out with the Trio in A. Minor for clarinet, cello and piano, Opus 114, by Brahms, with its lovely Andantino Grazioso and the exciting Allegro movement at the end.

More than 200 persons attended the concert, one of the regular Sunday afternoon series. Those who sat outside on the terrace moved indoors when rain began pattering down from the trees during the performance of Beethoven Trio, but the weather cleared in the last part of the program. At the finale, the Brahms Trio, the audience called the musicians back time and again and some rather degnified concert-goers were even seen to stamp their feet in approval.

Alexander Semmler, who has guided the Sunday presentations this year, announced that a pick-up service was available from the village green in Woodstock to the Maverick Hall for those without cars.

Christensens Exhibit At Parnassus Square

Woodstock, July 27—The Parnassus Square Gallery presents Woodstock with an assembly of stimulating and personal works by H. J. and A. B. Christensen.

The work of A. B. Chrisfensen strikes a sensitive balance between valid distortion and objective existence which inspired it. Her experiences in nature are transformed into strong plastic statements, stimulating the viewer through its imaginative design.

In the panels of H. J. Christensen, there appears Bach-like repetition of simple rhythms (drip-form, sharp line, pigment blotches) in a stark abstract expressionist idiom.

For the visitor to this exhibit, there is a rewarding experience in the direct expressions of these artists in the contemporary vein.

The exhibit will be open to the public July 24 to August 6.

Ira Wolfert Lectures At Parnassus Square

Woodstock, July 27—The public is invited to attend a lecture by Ira Wolfert, on writing, at Parnassus Square Galleries, Saturday, July 30, at 8:30 p. m.

In 18 years of newspaper work as a syndicated national and foreign correspondent, Ira Wolfert rose to top rank among American journalists. He served as a war correspondent in both the Pacific and European theatres of operation during World War 2 and received two bullet wounds, and a Pulitzer prize.

His short stories have been reprinted in the O'Brien and Martha Foley collections of best short stories and in the O'Henry Prize collection.

H. G. Wells called his first novel, Tucker's People, "a great book . . . by a really talented author." . . . And Ernest Hemingway described it as "the best American novel in ten years." Each of the three novels he has published thus far has been selected by critics as the outstanding novel of its year, and his second novel, An Act of Love had the unique experience of being selected for that distinction by the Saturday Review of Literature twice. Once when it was originally published, and again five years later when it was republished under the same title but in completely rewritten form.

Among his non-fiction writing, "Battle of Solomons" was a Literary Guild selection and "American Guerrilla in the Philippines" was a Book-of-the-Month Club selection.

George Joel Speaker At Local Galleries

Woodstock, July 27—On July 23, at Parnassus Square Galleries, George Joel, president of the Dial Press, spoke at great length about publishing as a business. His conclusions were provocative, and the large audience of established writers threw many challenging questions at him.

involved because a section of the road passes through the Catskill Forest Preserve.

Supervisor Mansfield Showers, town of Hunter, Greene county, said the Catskill paper, has assured State Attorney Jacob K. Javits, Assistant Attorney General William D. Bresinhan, and the Conservation Department, that reconstruction of the route is being done in strict compliance with the terms of an injunction issued on March 14, 1944 by Supreme Court Justice Sydney F. Foster.

The state had called attention to the injunction and noted that "if terms of this injunction are violated, proceedings will be immediately instituted for its enforcement."

THE NEWSPAPER noted that the injunction was the outcome of a suit started by the state in 1940 to prevent the town of Hunter from repairing the road where it runs through the forest preserve. The state noted that it had been closed since 1919 and denied the bid.

The injunction was reported as a compromise whereby the town's right to maintain the road was recognized, but the town was limited to an 18-foot road that did not essentially vary from the route and grade of the road, and with reconstruction work to be done under supervision and inspection of the Conservation Department.

BY 1944, said the Catskill paper, the town of Hunter had lost interest in the project, but earlier this month Supervisor Showers announced that the Slutzky firm would clear and grade the road without cost to the town, and that terms of the injunction would not be violated.

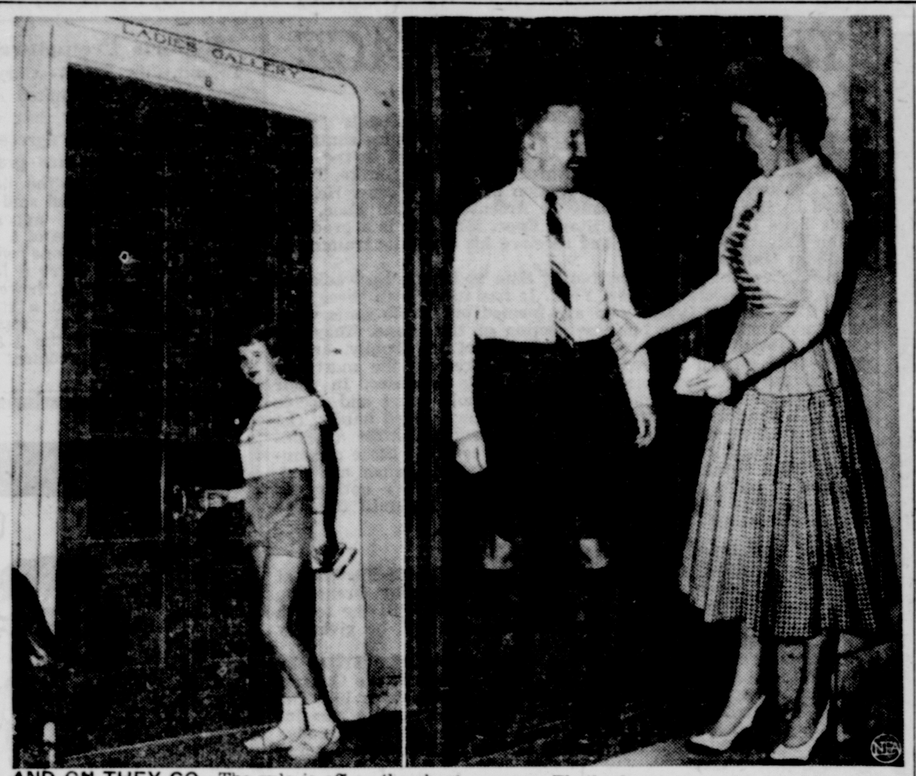

The route passes through heavily wooded mountain country to the northwest of Woodstock's Overlook Mountain.

Durkin Under Surgery

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Martin P. Durkin, 61, former secretary of labor, today underwent brain surgery at Georgetown University Hospital. The hospital said it would be several hours before it could report on his condition. Durkin, now president of the AFL Plumbers Union, underwent an operation for a brain tumor last September.

State Law

The U. S. Constitution has no provision that only a citizen of the United States may vote, but all the states have passed laws making U. S. citizenship a requirement for eligibility to vote.

AND ON THEY GO—The rule is off so the shorts are on. That's the story on Capitol Hill where Congress lifted a ban on women wearing shorts in the galleries. Testing the rule in photo at left is Marie Iannolillo of New Rochelle, N.Y., as she prepares to enter the House ladies' gallery. At right, Jim Jurney, an elevator operator at the Senate Office Building, shows Ada Mahaffie the Bermuda shorts he wears now on his job. Miss Mahaffie works for Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan).

admitted to the reading of one book a year. Incidentally this statistic in England is one in five." . . . And that "publishing as a business is a pitifully small one in this country. The entire industry grosses $250,000,000 a year or not as much as a good sized department or chain store. Book publishing has created no millionaires nor financial tycoons. I will also quickly admit that it has not created any millionaire authors either. . . . In America," continued Mr. Joel, "it is virtually impossible for a writer to make a living solely out of the writing of books. There are not more than 15 novelists who claim to be big money earners."

What is the solution: Better distribution? More readers? Even better books? "I think the answer is yes to all these questions. One of the weaknesses of publishing as a business lies in the necessity of backing authors," he pointed out, "who never develop and publishing books that the publisher knows will lose money. He does so because if he didn't he would lose the writer to another publisher. The public forgets that Sinclair Lewis did six books for Harpers with mild success and then gave his seventh book to Harcourt Brace and the title of that book was Main Street."

John Steinbeck did four books for a new small publisher and then gave his first hit, Of Mice and Men to another.

Why do people go into publishing, and why do they stay in it? "The favorite joke," Joel said, "and it's a slightly sour one is, 'It's better than working.' But I believe men go into publishing because it is personally rewarding, it gives one a sense of participation in the creative process. It is rewarding because you feel that in some measure you are having an influence on the taste and thinking of people. And the authors are interesting, although sometimes troublesome, and it's worth the travail."

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

To Hold Library Fair Tomorrow

Woodstock, July 27—All roads will lead to Woodstock Thursday for the gala Library Fair, opening at 12 noon on the library grounds. Typical of the widespread interest in the annual event is the plan for a motorcade of West Park residents from that town to the fair. The group will be headed by the Rev. Herald C. Swezy, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, West Park, and of St. Gregory's Mission, Woodstock.

The thousands of visitors expected here will begin arriving in the morning for the parade and opening of the fair. If it rains, the event will be postponed until Friday.

The installation of booths and decorations will start today. Scattered through the different sections will be hundreds of bargains, as well as collectors' items. Among the latter is a Chinese opium pipe cleaner made of two whiskers of a sea lion and a silver scoop. This strange object was donated by Mrs. Walter Weyl who said her late husband brought it to her from the Orient many years ago. The whiskers, resembling quills, were used to clean the stem of the pipe and the scoop to clean the bowl.

The jewelry section of the fair, in which the curious pipe cleaner will be displayed, will offer more than 1,000 pieces, including hundreds of earrings, pins, bracelets, rings and clips. The work of repairing and cleaning, sorting and pricing this collection has been under way for weeks under the direction of Mrs. Harvey Emrich, jewelry chairman.

The book tables this year are unusually well-stocked, according to Mrs. Rose Oxhandler, book chairman for the fair. More than 3,000 books to be sold include a beautiful old leather-bound Bible published in 1868, and such new volumes as Sandburg's "Lincoln's War Years." There are many rare old editions, numbers of books on art, children's books and 1,000 or more mysteries and Westerns. Musical scores are also among the "finds" in the book stalls.

The new fair feature, "Authors Meet the Public," has attracted more than 30 Woodstock writers, who will take part in the author's program at 3 p. m. Most of these will be introduced to fair-goers by Mrs. Elizabeth Rugg and Norbert Heermann, host and hostess of the program, and will autograph books to be sold. Some of the writers will not be present but will send their signed copies of books.

Those who will be on hand with autographed books include Iona Alan, Deborah Atkin, Nina Bull, Mrs. Roland Crampton, Helen Fletcher, Edmund Gilligan, Peter Neagoe, Maud and Miska Petersham, Robert Pick, John Hyde Preston, Edith Raskin, Henry Morton Robinson, Seram (Kurt Marek, author of "Gods, Graves and Scholars"), Valerie Swenson and Arthur Zaidenburg. Absent authors, who, however, will be represented by their books, include Charles Boswell, Blake Cabot, Jane Burr, Edward Chase, Anton Otto Fischer, Mary L. Fledderus, Alice H. Lewis, Dr. Harold Rugg and Mary Van Kleeck. Others attending but not writing books are Elizabeth Alexander, Mrs. H. S. Andonian, Mrs. Helen Buttrick, David Davidson, Mrs. Harrison Dowd, Norbert Heermann and Dr. John Kingsbury.

Maverick Concert High Point in Season

Woodstock, July 27 — Last Sunday's Maverick Concert marked a high point in the crowded summer season. Harry Zaratzian, first violist of the Philadelphia Orchestra, played masterfully in the opening Nardini Sonata for Viola and Piano, and again in the difficult Sonata for Viola and Piano by Honegger. Ilse Sass, pianist, showed fine musicianship, especially in the Honegger work, carrying as well the demanding piano parts in the other two numbers on the program.

Phillip Fatt, clarinetist, Cynthia Eddy, cellist, and the pianist performed Beethoven's Trio in B Major, for clarinet, cello and piano, with feeling. The last movement, Theme with Variations, was particularly effective and drew sustained applause from an audience that filled the concert hall.

The program was rounded out with the Trio in A. Minor for clarinet, cello and piano, Opus 114, by Brahms, with its lovely Andantino Grazioso and the exciting Allegro movement at the end.

More than 200 persons attended the concert, one of the regular Sunday afternoon series. Those who sat outside on the terrace moved indoors when rain began pattering down from the trees during the performance of Beethoven Trio, but the weather cleared in the last part of the program. At the finale, the Brahms Trio, the audience called the musicians back time and again and some rather degnified concert-goers were even seen to stamp their feet in approval.

Alexander Semmler, who has guided the Sunday presentations this year, announced that a pick-up service was available from the village green in Woodstock to the Maverick Hall for those without cars.

Christensens Exhibit At Parnassus Square

Woodstock, July 27—The Parnassus Square Gallery presents Woodstock with an assembly of stimulating and personal works by H. J. and A. B. Christensen.

The work of A. B. Christensen strikes a sensitive balance between valid distortion and objective existence which inspired it. Her experiences in nature are transformed into strong plastic statements, stimulating the viewer through its imaginative design.

In the panels of H. J. Christensen, there appears Bach-like repetition of simple rhythms (drip-form, sharp line, pigment blotches) in a stark abstract expressionist idiom.

For the visitor to this exhibit, there is a rewarding experience in the direct expressions of these artists in the contemporary vein.

The exhibit will be open to the public July 24 to August 6.

Ira Wolfert Lectures At Parnassus Square

Woodstock, July 27—The public is invited to attend a lecture by Ira Wolfert, on writing, at Parnassus Square Galleries, Saturday, July 30, at 8:30 p. m.

In 18 years of newspaper work as a syndicated national and foreign correspondent, Ira Wolfert rose to top rank among American journalists. He served as a war correspondent in both the Pacific and European theatres of operation during World War 2 and received two bullet wounds, and a Pulitzer prize.

His short stories have been reprinted in the O'Brien and Martha Foley collections of best short stories and in the O'Henry Prize collection.

H. G. Wells called his first novel, Tucker's People, "a great book . . . by a really talented author." . . . And Ernest Hemingway described it as "the best American novel in ten years." Each of the three novels he has published thus far has been selected by critics as the outstanding novel of its year, and his second novel, An Act of Love had the unique experience of being selected for that distinction by the Saturday Review of Literature twice. Once when it was originally published, and again five years later when it was republished under the same title but in completely rewritten form.

Among his non-fiction writing, "Battle of Solomons" was a Literary Guild selection and "American Guerrilla in the Philippines" was a Book-of-the-Month Club selection.

George Joel Speaker At Local Galleries

Woodstock, July 27—On July 23, at Parnassus Square Galleries, George Joel, president of the Dial Press, spoke at great length about publishing as a business. His conclusions were provocative, and the large audience of established writers threw many challenging questions at him.

Some of the statistics that Mr. Joel presented were that "only one adult American in 20

Doblers Check Panther Winning Streak at Six Games, 7-5

Joe Benjamin Halts Leaders After 1st Frame

Loss Tightens Race; Key Game Monday

League Standing

N. Y. Panthers	6	1

Ferraro Bowlodrome	1	6

The New York Panthers have been knocked off for the first time this season and the City Baseball League has a first half pennant race on its hands.

Joe Benjamin Jr., and Dobler Beer brought about the pleasant boxoffice setup yesterday by whipping the hitherto unbeaten Panthers, 7 to 5.

IT WAS THE first loss in seven starts for Manager Charlie Havlin's tossers, who now must endure the rigors of Nadler Motors game in order to cinch the pennant.

Jones Dairy and Dobler Beer still mathematically in the race also must play each other.

Joe Benjamin Jr., got off to a rocky start when the Panthers bunched three of their seven hits to score four runs. They lost another when Don Ferraro led off with a triple but was picked off third.

BENJAMIN closed shop after that, yielding only four hits the rest of the way, while striking out nine. His wildness got him in some tough spots in the latter stages but he had enough to survive.

Panthers made their last bid in the sixth when they scored once and had the tying runs on second and third when Johnny Armstrong grounded out.

A couple of three-run innings—in the fourth and fifth—gave Doblers their margin of victory. They collected only five hits off Jack Houghtaling but six costly errors made it easy for the Brewmeisters.

Ellsworth, Loeffler To Start Big Game

Tonight's the night!!!

The long-awaited and much-discussed baseball battle between the Kingston Patrolmen's Association and the Veterans of Foreign Wars will become a reality at Dietz Stadium.

The game will follow a preliminary between the KPA and VFW Fraternal Youth League teams. The first game is at 6:30 o'clock.

For the past few weeks both sides have been issuing various statements proclaiming the manner in wihch each would whip the other's hide. Now they get their chances to prove what they said.

Len Ellsworth, manager of the Cops, is scheduled as the starting pitcher. Len reportedly has an assortment of stuff, but whether or not said stuff is of the orthodox variety remains to be proved.

Ellsworth's mound opponent will be Fran "Fireball" Loeffler. Should be quite a game.

The New York Panthers have been knocked off for the first time this season and the City Baseball League has a first half pennant race on its hands.

Joe Benjamin Jr., and Dobler Beer brought about the pleasant boxoffice setup yesterday by whipping the hitherto unbeaten Panthers, 7 to 5.

IT WAS THE first loss in seven starts for Manager Charlie Havlin's tossers, who now must endure the rigors of Nadler Motors game in order to cinch the pennant.

Jones Dairy and Dobler Beer still mathematically in the race also must play each other.

Joe Benjamin Jr., got off to a rocky start when the Panthers bunched three of their seven hits to score four runs. They lost another when Don Ferraro led off with a triple but was picked off third.

BENJAMIN closed shop after that, yielding only four hits the rest of the way, while striking out nine. His wildness got him in some tough spots in the latter stages but he had enough to survive.

Panthers made their last bid in the sixth when they scored once and had the tying runs on second and third when Johnny Armstrong grounded out.

A couple of three-run innings—in the fourth and fifth—gave Doblers their margin of victory. They collected only five hits off Jack Houghtaling but six costly errors made it easy for the Brewmeisters.

Pitching being almost 90 per cent of junior size baseball, the American Legion Juniors might travel indefinitely on the stout arms of Bob Maines and Rennie Giannuzzi.

Safely past the Albany jinx, the Old Capital Motors array will be well rested and ready for Schenectady. Thereafter the schedule isn't as concentrated as it was over the weekend, leaving two pitchers available for each game.

Kingston hasn't made a serious bid for national honors since around 1936-37 when a team built around Tommy Maines, Mac Tiano, Chappie Van Derzee and others copped the state crown but lost in the zone competition at Trenton, N. J.

Poughkeepsie reached the national finals circa 1940 when Dick Whitesell was in his heydey.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Tony Mack, one of the greatest individual performers in Hudson valley bowling history, will manage the new 18-alley Bowl-O-Matic layout in Newburgh. The new tenpin palace opens Oct. 1 and will feature automatic pinspotters, no pinball machines or billiard tables . . . "to make the women feel as comfortable as the men when they visit the alleys," say the proprietors, Herman Sumars and Jerome S. Affron. . . . Danny Welch, former fireplug fullback for Highland High and an all-area selection last fall, is headed for Syracuse University. . . . Verne Gagne and Yukon Eric go through their shenanigans for the umpteenth time Thursday night at Riverview Field. . . . Amrod's department store of Saugerties has donated 60 T-shirts for the Cub Scout Coasting Derby in the village on Aug. 14. . . .

• Whither the Collegians:

Wonder where some of our KHS graduate athletic stars are heading for this fall? Well, Fred Jackson, the All-DUSO end is ticketed for Central States College at Wilberforce, Ohio. John Miller goes to Lafayette on a football and academic scholarship. . . . Bob Nash is the Navy quarterback of the future. Ray Lawrence heading for Cortland State Teachers and Bob Maines will be at Manlius Prep, a good stepping stone for the U. S. Military Academy. Donald Baum, the basketballer, is in the Navy but not the one at Annapolis. Jack Houghtaling will be pitching for Utica Tech next spring, Matty Marabella, the pole vaulter, has picked Delhi Aggies and Robert Coale, the mile runner, will prep at Severn, with the Naval Academy in mind.

Leo Fleish Sr., who has reined the 6-year-old pacer this season, is responsible for converting Bud Fromer's Tyler Hanover to a free-legged pacer this season. Fromer's fine mannered sidewheeler already has earned more than $12,000 in nine starts this season compared to $11,046 he won last season in 26 races. . . . The Federated Sportsmen's Clubs report it is very possible that ice fishing will be permitted in the lower basin of the Ashokan during the winter of 1956-57. A study of the plan is now under way. Jack Dempsey puts the finger on a major reason for poor fights of today. "An 8-round semi-final at the top place—Madison Square Garden—is worth only $1,500," says the former heavyweight champion. "In my time a fight like that was worth from $2500 to $5000. No wonder a kid won't even bother getting into the game. There's only a little money at the top, but worse yet, there's none at all on the long road up."

PITCHING — Tommy Byrne, Yankees, stopped the White Sox on four hits, none after the third inning, for his third shutout, 1-0, and a 9-2 record that makes him the best percentage pitcher in the AL.

HITTING—Ray Boone, Tigers, drove in six runs with four hits and a sacrifice fly, including the tie-breaker in the 12-inning opener, as Detroit whipped Baltimore in a twi-night pair, 8-6 and 7-2.

Stan Musial's fifth grand slam homer came three days before the All-Star game. It beat the Chicago Cubs, 4-2.

Join KLL Americans And Saugerties Nine In Semi-Final Round

Walden and Glasco joined the Kingston Americans and Saugerties in the semi-finals of the District 4 Little League tournament last night.

Walden, its pitching still carrying the brunt of the load, ousted the Kingston Nationals, 4-0, at Port Ewen. Glasco overpowered Highland by a 19-4 margin at the Saugerties diamond.

The semi-finals are scheduled tonight, with both games beginning at 6:15 o'clock. The Kingston Americans meet Glasco at the Little League Stadium here. Walden and Saugerties meet at the latter's diamond.

In 12 innings, Walden's hurlers have not allowed a run and have given up only nine hits.

Little Dick Jansen, a cocky righthander, turned the trick last night. He spun a seven-hitter and, when he occasionally got into difficulty, worked his way out in fine fashion. He had five strikeouts and four walks.

KINGSTON'S errant base-running ruined its chances for at least three runs. The locals got as many hits as the winners, but failed to muster a sustained scoring drive.

Tom Fiore was the starter and loser. He allowed Walden's first two runs in the initial inning. Hank Schatzel, who hurled a strong relief game, gave up the other two tallies in the fifth.

Bill Murphy and Schatzel paced Kingston's hitting with two safeties apiece. Murphy had a double.

A single, an error and a fielder's choice got Fiore in hot water at the start. Ronnie Lare's single delivered both runs.

In the fifth, Bill Woznick socked a double, Terry Terwilliger singled and Lare doubled for two more runs.

Most of Glasco's runs came in foursomes—in the first, second, fourth and fifth frames. The upcounty team scored one in the third and two in the sixth. It was no contest.

PAT BERARDI pitched the distance for the winners, scattering four hits. Roger Skipp, the losing pitcher, had two of the safeties.

Highland's five flingers were plastered by a 15-hit attack, including a home run by Johnny Nolan.

Joe Roberti belted three hits, two of them doubles. Willie Kithcart, Andy DePaolo, Nolan and Berardi each had two safeties.

Berardi registered seven strikeouts and walked three. The winners collected nine passes from Highland.

Midget Racing Set at Rhinebeck

Rhinebeck Speedway will be host to the "mighty midgets" Saturday night.

After an absence of several weeks, the small and swift racing cars are appearing under the Banner of the Midget Auto Racing Club. The midgets have always been popular at Rhinebeck.

Ronnie Evans, winner the last time the midgets raced at Rhinebeck, will be on hand to seek further honors.

Midget Racing Set at Rhinebeck

Rhinebeck Speedway will be host to the "mighty midgets" Saturday night.

After an absence of several weeks, the small and swift racing cars are appearing under the Banner of the Midget Auto Racing Club. The midgets have always been popular at Rhinebeck.

The midgets are an addition to the usual program of modified and non-Ford stock car racing. A 25-lap feature is set in each class.

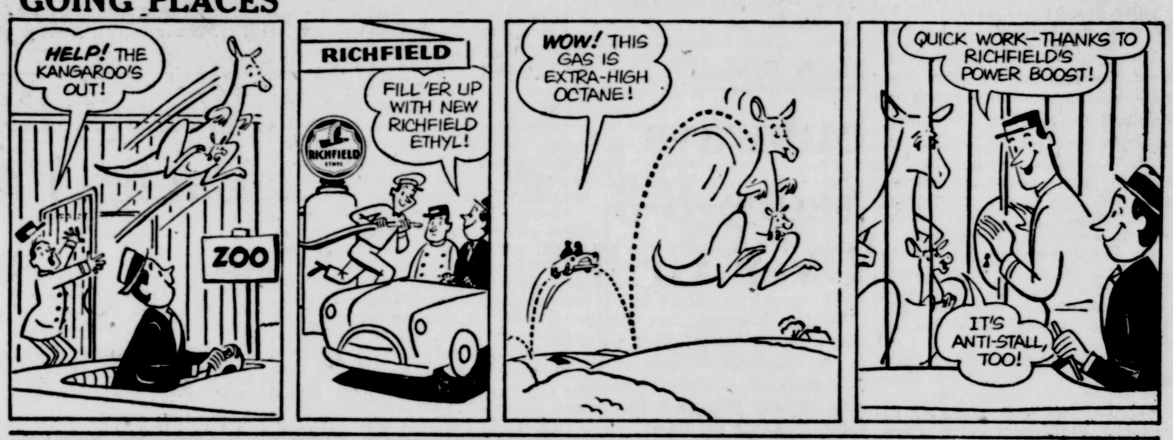

Ronnie Evans, winner the last time the midgets raced at Rhinebeck, will be on hand to seek further honors.

The modified drivers are seeking starting positions in the annual championship race, scheduled for Aug. 13.

The first heat starts at 8:30 o'clock.

It was the young pitchers, Whitey Ford, Bob Grim and Bob Turley, who were to give New York the American League pennant this year. But now that the heat's on, it's Tommy Byrne, an "Old Yankee," who's winning the big ones.

A week ago, the Yanks needed an opening victory in their showdown series with Chicago to hold the lead. It was the 35-year-old Byrne who answered the call and won.

Last night the situation was the same and Manager Casey Stengel again called on his southpaw surprise. Byrne clicked again, holding Chicago to four hits and wrapping up a 1-0 decision as Yogi Berra slammed his 17th home run.

That made New York's lead two games while Chicago stayed in a virtual second place tie with Cleveland, beaten 5-1 at Boston.

BYRNE, from the Reynolds-Raschi era and the only player ever to be be dealt away by the Yankees and then called back, was in a bases-loaded, two-out jam in the third, giving a single and two walks. But he came through and from then on didn't give Chicago another hit.

Traded away to St. Louis in 1951 because of his wildness (he led the league on bases on balls in 1949-50-51) Byrne now has a 9-2 record, with six complete games and three shutouts, since returning to the Yanks from Seattle this spring. He's walked only 44 in 88 innings.

Last night he walked five and hit two batters, but had the big pitch in the clutch to out-duel Dick Donovan, now 13-4. Byrne succeeded the Chicago righthander as the AL's best percentage pitcher (.818).

ELSEWHERE, fifth place Detroit swept a twi-night pair at Baltimore, 8-6 and 7-2. Washington split two with Kansas City, winning the first 9-3, and then losing 3-1.

In the National, ever-winning Brooklyn and Don Newcombe stayed at it, beating Cincinnati 4-2 for the big righthander's 17th victory. Runnerup Milwaukee chilled Philadelphia 6-3, New York beat Chicago in 12 innings 6-5 and Pittsburgh made it five straight, clipping St. Louis 3-1.

Boston rapped Herb Score, the rookie who's failed five times against the Red Sox, Pants Santiago and Don Mossi for 11 hits —including home runs by Ted Williams and Sammy White—to snap Cleveland's five-game streak.

Baltimore earned a 6-6 tie with the Tigers when Al Kaline lost a two-out fly in the lights in the ninth. Then Ray Boone, with six RBIs for the night, doubled home the tie-breaker in the 12th with his fourth hit. New Garver took charge in the nightcap, winning his 10th.

NEWCOMBE was touched for sevent hits, three by Ted Kluszewski, and was in a bit of a jam in the ninth when Carl Furillo dropped a two-out fly ball to leave runners on third and second. Newk got rookie Milt Smith on a fly ball as the Redlegs lost their 18th in the last 23.

Five runs in the fifth—with Johnny Logan and Hank Aaron bringing home two each with a double and single, respectively—carried Milwaukee in ahead of the Phils.

Dee Fondy dropped Al Dark's foul pop with two out in the 12th at Chicago and Dark followed it up with a run-scoring single that beat reliefer Hal Jeffcoat and the Cubs. Don Liddle was the winner, relieving Sal Maglie who gave way as the Cubs pecked away at a 5-0 New York lead in the first. Hank Sauer and Ernie Banks homered for the Cubs, who have lost 15 of 16.

Upstate Youth Sets Jaycee Mark

Elmira, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Warren Simmons of Canandaigua has won the New York State Junior Chamber of Commerce golf tournament with a record-breaking five-under-par 67 over the 6,800-yard Mark Twain municipal golf course.

The 17-year-old Simmons yesterday shattered the amateur course record by two strokes, tied the course record set by Harold (Jug) McSpaden in 1945, and posted the lowest card in the history of the junior tournament. He set a pace of 69-67-136 for the two-day, 36-hole medal play.

SIMMONS and three runner-ups will compete at the national tourney at Columbus, Ga., Aug. 16.

Defending champion John Konsek III of Buffalo was second with a 76-76-153, 16 strokes behind the winner. Don Allen of Rochester was third with 80-75-155.

Art Hemker of Schenectady, who carded a 76-81-157 in regular play, won fourth place on the second hole during a five-way playoff.

Jockey Al Brown tried to gain weight at Monmouth Park. The 19-year-old rider had to make 105 pounds so he could join the Navy, rather than be drafted.

Sermon Unheeded

Myrtle Beach, S. C. (AP)—The Rev. Ben C. Fischer, public relations officer at the Southeastern Baptist Seminary, Wake Forest, N. C., had a camera, electric razor, watch and suit case stolen from his car while he was filling the pulpit of the absent pastor of the Myrtle Beach Baptist Church.

50 Club Has California Cuties Coming to Kingston on Aug. 14

The 50 Club will bring another touring softball team to Kingston on Sunday, Aug. 14, under the lights at Dietz Stadium.

A group of City Softball League All-Stars will play the Compton, Calif., Cuties. The visitors are a men's team dressed in women's garments.

The 50 Club, also sponsored the recent King and His Court-City All-stars game.

The Cuties feature two items —top-notch "straight" softball and a comedy routine.

From the pre-game act, which features individual dances, songs and a chorus or two, through seven innings of what many refer to as softball and the final chorus number, fans should have plenty of opportunities for laughs.

The Cuties have a unique way of compiling an enviable won-lost record. They bring their own umpire on the road trips.

The antics of the Californians include an impromtu dice game in the middle of a contest; an outfielder using a fish net instead of a glove; and a third baseman covering the field with a crooked cane.

Liza Jane, billed as "softball's top comedienne," is the pitcher for the Cuties. If Liza Jane isn't effective, the visitors will use a midget, Beulah, who stands only 36 inches.

The Cuties are managed by Trino Palacios. Palacios got the idea of such a team while serving as an army athletic instructor during World War 2. He formed the team after leaving service.

Lockwood, despite the fact that he walked 16 men, hurled Shandaken to a 4-2 win over West Shokan. He allowed only one hit. Burke hurled a two-hitter for the losers.

Jimmy Rose turned in a five-hitter for Olive Bridge, which beat Phoenicia by 7-2. Germond hurled four-hit ball for Phoenicia.

Tucker twirled for Highpoint, 6-4 winner over Phoenicia. He gave up six safeties, two by losing pitcher, Craig.

Lost Your Dog?

Topeka, Kan. (AP)—A new ordinance provides that dogs not on leash be impounded and Arland Smith, city dog officer, wonders if dogs really are man's best friend. Impounded dogs can be retrieved by payment of a $5 fine and $1 a day for care. In the first month 60 dogs went to the pound and only three owners retrived them. Meanwhile dog complaints average 20 a day.

39 Under for 191 Holes

Ford Beats Middlecoff 4 and 3 for PGA Title

Detroit, July 27 (AP)—Doug Ford, the new PGA champion, is a go-go golfer.

No sooner had he finished off Cary Middlecoff in yesterday's PGA finals, winning a 4 and 3 thriller, than Ford was packing his pretty wife and three children into their house trailer and heading for Akron, Ohio, and another golf tournament.

He didn't even wait around for all the congratulations due a new champion. He said a nice thank-you, picked up his $5,250 check and was off.

BUT THESE hurry-up antics were no surprise to those who followed Ford through the seven-day PGA, watching him, quickly and surely, smash Meadowbrook's par each day—finishing 39 under par for 191 holes.

Ford won medal honors with a 7-under-par 135, and in match play disposed of George Fazio, Ted Kroll, Wally Ulrich, Fred Hawkins, Shelley Mayfield and finally, Middlecoff.

Each victory was clean, sure, decisive — and quick. He even made the notoriously slow-playing Middlecoff speed up his tempo. And this possibly, may have been the turning point in their 33-hole struggle for one of professional golf's biggest prizes.

THROUGH the morning round with the temperatures in the low 80's—Middlecoff held the upper hand all the way. He shot a 67, four under par, and was one-up at the lunchtime break.

But as the temperature and humidity increased during the afternoon, Middlecoff's game slowly, painfully started to fall apart. The machine-like Ford, meanwhile, kept clubbing his ball with the same incisiveness as he did in the morning.

He caught the fading Middlecoff for the fourth time on the 22nd hole and finally passed him on the 26th, were Cary started a run of errors by hitting three poor shots and conceding the hole.

Ford dropped birdie putts of 25 and 5 feet on the 29th and 30 holes, to go three-up, and Middlecoff never recovered. The match ended on the 33rd green in typical fashion, with Middlecoff taking a bogey 5.

Credit Warning

Chicago (AP)—A national association of automobile finance companies cautions auto dealers against loose credit terms and wild advertising in the industry. The American Finance Conference warned the practice could make the industry vulnerable to arguments favoring government controls on installment credit. The AFC said dealers who offer low or no down payment on cars with three or more years to pay are imperiling their business.

Upstate Youth Sets Jaycee Mark

Elmira, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Warren Simmons of Canandaigua has won the New York State Junior Chamber of Commerce golf tournament with a record-breaking five-under-par 67 over the 6,800-yard Mark Twain municipal golf course.

The 17-year-old Simmons yesterday shattered the amateur course record by two strokes, tied the course record set by Harold (Jug) McSpaden in 1945, and posted the lowest card in the history of the junior tournament. He set a pace of 69-67-136 for the two-day, 36-hole medal play.

SIMMONS and three runner-ups will compete at the national tourney at Columbus, Ga., Aug. 16.

Defending champion John Konsek III of Buffalo was second with a 76-76-153, 16 strokes behind the winner. Don Allen of Rochester was third with 80-75-155.

Art Hemker of Schenectady, who carded a 76-81-157 in regular play, won fourth place on the second hole during a five-way playoff.

Jockey Al Brown tried to gain weight at Monmouth Park. The 19-year-old rider had to make 105 pounds so he could join the Navy, rather than be drafted.

50 Club Has California Cuties Coming to Kingston on Aug. 14

The 50 Club will bring another touring softball team to Kingston on Sunday, Aug. 14, under the lights at Dietz Stadium.

A group of City Softball League All-Stars will play the Compton, Calif., Cuties. The visitors are a men's team dressed in women's garments.

The 50 Club, also sponsored the recent King and His Court-City All-stars game.

The Cuties feature two items —top-notch "straight" softball and a comedy routine.

From the pre-game act, which features individual dances, songs and a chorus or two, through seven innings of what many refer to as softball and the final chorus number, fans should have plenty of opportunities for laughs.

The Cuties have a unique way of compiling an enviable won-lost record. They bring their own umpire on the road trips.

The antics of the Californians include an impromtu dice game in the middle of a contest; an outfielder using a fish net instead of a glove; and a third baseman covering the field with a crooked cane.

Liza Jane, billed as "softball's top comedienne," is the pitcher for the Cuties. If Liza Jane isn't effective, the visitors will use a midget, Beulah, who stands only 36 inches.

The Cuties are managed by Trino Palacios. Palacios got the idea of such a team while serving as an army athletic instructor during World War 2. He formed the team after leaving service.

Shandaken, Olive Bridge, Highpoint Squads Score

Shandaken, Olive Bridge and Highpoint teams notched victories in the Onteora Olive Memorial Baseball League.

Lockwood, despite the fact that he walked 16 men, hurled Shandaken to a 4-2 win over West Shokan. He allowed only one hit. Burke hurled a two-hitter for the losers.

Jimmy Rose turned in a five-hitter for Olive Bridge, which beat Phoenicia by 7-2. Germond hurled four-hit ball for Phoenicia.

Tucker twirled for Highpoint, 6-4 winner over Phoenicia. He gave up six safeties, two by losing pitcher, Craig.

Lost Your Dog?

Topeka, Kan. (AP)—A new ordinance provides that dogs not on leash be impounded and Arland Smith, city dog officer, wonders if dogs really are man's best friend. Impounded dogs can be retrieved by payment of a $5 fine and $1 a day for care. In the first month 60 dogs went to the pound and only three owners retrived them. Meanwhile dog complaints average 20 a day.

39 Under for 191 Holes

Ford Beats Middlecoff 4 and 3 for PGA Title

Detroit, July 27 (AP)—Doug Ford, the new PGA champion, is a go-go golfer.

No sooner had he finished off Cary Middlecoff in yesterday's PGA finals, winning a 4 and 3 thriller, than Ford was packing his pretty wife and three children into their house trailer and heading for Akron, Ohio, and another golf tournament.

He didn't even wait around for all the congratulations due a new champion. He said a nice thank-you, picked up his $5,250 check and was off.

BUT THESE hurry-up antics were no surprise to those who followed Ford through the seven-day PGA, watching him, quickly and surely, smash Meadowbrook's par each day—finishing 39 under par for 191 holes.

Ford won medal honors with a 7-under-par 135, and in match play disposed of George Fazio, Ted Kroll, Wally Ulrich, Fred Hawkins, Shelley Mayfield and finally, Middlecoff.

Each victory was clean, sure, decisive — and quick. He even made the notoriously slow-playing Middlecoff speed up his tempo. And this possibly, may have been the turning point in their 33-hole struggle for one of professional golf's biggest prizes.

THROUGH the morning round with the temperatures in the low 80's—Middlecoff held the upper hand all the way. He shot a 67, four under par, and was one-up at the lunchtime break.

But as the temperature and humidity increased during the afternoon, Middlecoff's game slowly, painfully started to fall apart. The machine-like Ford, meanwhile, kept clubbing his ball with the same incisiveness as he did in the morning.

He caught the fading Middlecoff for the fourth time on the 22nd hole and finally passed him on the 26th, were Cary started a run of errors by hitting three poor shots and conceding the hole.

Ford dropped birdie putts of 25 and 5 feet on the 29th and 30 holes, to go three-up, and Middlecoff never recovered. The match ended on the 33rd green in typical fashion, with Middlecoff taking a bogey 5.

Credit Warning

Chicago (AP)—A national association of automobile finance companies cautions auto dealers against loose credit terms and wild advertising in the industry. The American Finance Conference warned the practice could make the industry vulnerable to arguments favoring government controls on installment credit. The AFC said dealers who offer low or no down payment on cars with three or more years to pay are imperiling their business.

Lucky Lightning

Jacksonville, Fla. (AP)—It'll be all right with E. J. Whittington if lightning strikes twice in the same place. A lightning bolt shattered his water meter box. He's still getting water in the house but it's free because it can't be measured until the city puts in a new meter.

Moncure and Judith E. Moncure, Woodstock, N. Y.

GREETING:

YOU AND EACH OF YOU ARE HEREBY CITED TO SHOW CAUSE at a Surrogate's Court to be held in and for the County of Ulster at the Surrogate's Office in the City of Kingston, N. Y., on the 6th day of September, 1955, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why a certain instrument in writing, dated May 22, 1952, relating to both real and personal estate, presented to said Surrogate's Court, should not be proved, admitted to probate and recorded as the last Will and Testament of Gabrielle Brooke Moncure, late of the Town of Woodstock, Ulster County, deceased, upon the petition of William P. Moncure, of the Town of Woodstock, one of the Executors named therein.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, We have caused the seal of said Surrogate's Court to be hereunto affixed. WITNESS,
[L. S.] Hon. JOHN B. STERLEY, Surrogate of our said County of Ulster, at Kingston, N. Y., this 5th day of July, 1955.
H. LeROY GILL
Clerk of the Surrogate's Court.

sue and increased state motor-fuel taxes, the imperative state program will collapse."

The commission asserted that the state "must receive either credit for the expenditures made on the thruway or the designation of an additional 500 miles of interstate roads." It continued:

"OTHERWISE, this state will be penalized for having the initiative to construct new, almost one-half of all the interstate mileage within the state. To so penalize this state will cripple the beginning of any other state programs in any field where future federal aid may be anticipated."

The group urged that any federal program give assurance of "adequate funds over a sufficient period of years to permit planning, construction and completion" of highways.

Checks, Driver

Among the cars to be stopped would be those with obvious defects, such as poor lights, and misaligned wheels.

Vehicles found defective would be required to have a complete inspection—free of charge—at a permanent state-operated station. These stations would be established at various locations across the state.

Should the thorough inspection indicate the need for repairs, the car owner would have to have them made within a specified time at a private garage of his own choice, or he could make them himself.

IF THE OWNER failed to have the repairs made within the allotted time he would be required to relinguish his registration.

Kelly said the permanent stations also would be available for complete, but voluntary, inspections. Cars found to be in tip-top shape would be given stickers and subsequently would be left alone by the inspection patrols, he explained.

"Under a system such as this," Kelly asserted, "not every vehicle would be inspected every year. But a considerable portion of the 4½ million vehicles registered in our state could thus be tested annually. And the possibility of inspection at any time would make motorists conscious of equipment maintenance, encouraging them to keep cars in a condition meeting safety standards."

Kelly added that his department intended to study the entire question thoroughly before making a final recommendation.

THE COMMISSIONER said that statistics gathered by his department showed that 88.5 per cent of the vehicles registered in the state carried liability insurance.

He said the department was looking into the operation of unsatisfied judgment fund plans that supplement financial responsibility laws in some states and reviewing "compulsory insurance experience."

"Definite legislative recommendations are expected to result," he said.

Also under study, Kelly reported is the problem posed by persons who hold licenses but lack physical fitness to drive. "At the very least," he stated, "what we can and must do is require every ten years or so, perhaps starting at age 40, that the licensed driver meet the same physical standards as required of an applicant for an original license.

Letchworth Cave

ship between bats and rabies, an infectious disease common in dogs and foxes.

Dr. Fenton credited the initial studies of the cave to Edwin Gould, a graduate student at Cornell University.

Gould, who is preparing a thesis on bats, banded 1,800 of the bats in the Letchworth cave and received reports on their movements from several states and Canada.

Begun in 1918, the first air-mail service was confined to the eastern seaboard of the United States.

Not R-28 Address

The Ernest Quick, 19, arrested recently by state police at Shandaken was not employed at Bright Acres on the Onteora Trail, according to James H. McCabe, who operates the farm and pony ride concession there. "He never worked here," Mr. McCabe told The Freeman. There was a Bright Acres address on Quick's arrest record, but it did not refer to the Route 28 location. Quick is awaiting grand jury action on a morals charge.

Teen Road-e-o

the drives through Washington's jammed streets and something the sponsors call the "psycho-physical" test.

This involves sitting at a machine and taking orders from an instructor. Under his orders, the kids "drive" a simulated car through a series of difficult traffic situations.

Not only are the incorrect moves tabulated, but the test shows up poor reaction times and weak judgment. None of the tests confounds the youngsters more than this one.

The tests began yesterday. Winners will be announced Friday night.

Tillson

George Fernandez, director of the summer recreation program in Tillson, announced that on Thursday, July 28, starting at 1:30 p. m., a movie featuring Blondie and Dagwood will be shown at the Tillson School. Two movies have already been shown under the summer program, which is attracting many children.

Also, in sports, Tillson played a softball team from Rosendale on July 21, and lost 12-9. A return game is expected to be played off this Thursday at Rosendale. The director stated he was pleased with attendance at all activities, including swimming at DeWitt Lake three mornings each week.

To Be Forced Candidate

Rochester, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Democratic State Chairman Michael H. Prendergast says Governor Harriman will be more than a "favorite son" candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination next year. Prendergast told a news conference here yesterday that despite the governors' announced support for Adlai Stevenson the governor would be unable to avoid becoming a candidate himself. He did not elaborate on the statements. The Rockland county Democrat said he hoped to "stimulate" the Democratic party upstate on his first tour as party chairman.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, July 27 (AP)—The cash position of the treasury July 22, 1955: Balance, $7,050,903,787.11; deposits fiscal year July 1, $2,347,549,494.59; withdrawals fiscal year, $4,393,259,034.03; total debt (x) $277,285,300,358.99; gold assets, $21,681,084,166.01; (x) includes $483,816,723.30 debt not subject to statutory limit.

Motion Does It

Bullfighters dress in bright colors and wave pieces of bright-colored cloth in the arena not only to infuriate the animals, but also to attract the spectators. It is the motion of the cloth rather than the particular color that excites and maddens the bull.

State Finance

sue and increased state motor-fuel taxes, the imperative state program will collapse."

The commission asserted that the state "must receive either credit for the expenditures made on the thruway or the designation of an additional 500 miles of interstate roads." It continued:

"OTHERWISE, this state will be penalized for having the initiative to construct new, almost one-half of all the interstate mileage within the state. To so penalize this state will cripple the beginning of any other state programs in any field where future federal aid may be anticipated."

The group urged that any federal program give assurance of "adequate funds over a sufficient period of years to permit planning, construction and completion" of highways.

Checks, Driver

Among the cars to be stopped would be those with obvious defects, such as poor lights, and misaligned wheels.

Vehicles found defective would be required to have a complete inspection—free of charge—at a permanent state-operated station. These stations would be established at various locations across the state.

Should the thorough inspection indicate the need for repairs, the car owner would have to have them made within a specified time at a private garage of his own choice, or he could make them himself.

IF THE OWNER failed to have the repairs made within the allotted time he would be required to relinguish his registration.

Kelly said the permanent stations also would be available for complete, but voluntary, inspections. Cars found to be in tip-top shape would be given stickers and subsequently would be left alone by the inspection patrols, he explained.

"Under a system such as this," Kelly asserted, "not every vehicle would be inspected every year. But a considerable portion of the 4½ million vehicles registered in our state could thus be tested annually. And the possibility of inspection at any time would make motorists conscious of equipment maintenance, encouraging them to keep cars in a condition meeting safety standards."

Kelly added that his department intended to study the entire question thoroughly before making a final recommendation.

THE COMMISSIONER said that statistics gathered by his department showed that 88.5 per cent of the vehicles registered in the state carried liability insurance.

He said the department was looking into the operation of unsatisfied judgment fund plans that supplement financial responsibility laws in some states and reviewing "compulsory insurance experience."

"Definite legislative recommendations are expected to result," he said.

Also under study, Kelly reported is the problem posed by persons who hold licenses but lack physical fitness to drive. "At the very least," he stated, "what we can and must do is require every ten years or so, perhaps starting at age 40, that the licensed driver meet the same physical standards as required of an applicant for an original license.

Letchworth Cave

Dr. Fenton credited the initial studies of the cave to Edwin Gould, a graduate student at Cornell University.

Gould, who is preparing a thesis on bats, banded 1,800 of the bats in the Letchworth cave and received reports on their movements from several states and Canada.

Begun in 1918, the first air-mail service was confined to the eastern seaboard of the United States.

Not R-28 Address

The Ernest Quick, 19, arrested recently by state police at Shandaken was not employed at Bright Acres on the Onteora Trail, according to James H. McCabe, who operates the farm and pony ride concession there. "He never worked here," Mr. McCabe told The Freeman. There was a Bright Acres address on Quick's arrest record, but it did not refer to the Route 28 location. Quick is awaiting grand jury action on a morals charge.

the drives through Washington's jammed streets and something the sponsors call the "psycho-physical" test.

This involves sitting at a machine and taking orders from an instructor. Under his orders, the kids "drive" a simulated car through a series of difficult traffic situations.

Not only are the incorrect moves tabulated, but the test shows up poor reaction times and weak judgment. None of the tests confounds the youngsters more than this one.

The tests began yesterday. Winners will be announced Friday night.

Tillson

George Fernandez, director of the summer recreation program in Tillson, announced that on Thursday, July 28, starting at 1:30 p. m., a movie featuring Blondie and Dagwood will be shown at the Tillson School. Two movies have already been shown under the summer program, which is attracting many children.

Also, in sports, Tillson played a softball team from Rosendale on July 21, and lost 12-9. A return game is expected to be played off this Thursday at Rosendale. The director stated he was pleased with attendance at all activities, including swimming at DeWitt Lake three mornings each week.

To Be Forced Candidate

Rochester, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Democratic State Chairman Michael H. Prendergast says Governor Harriman will be more than a "favorite son" candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination next year. Prendergast told a news conference here yesterday that despite the governors' announced support for Adlai Stevenson the governor would be unable to avoid becoming a candidate himself. He did not elaborate on the statements. The Rockland county Democrat said he hoped to "stimulate" the Democratic party upstate on his first tour as party chairman.

The students will highlight the role of power farming equipment on the efficient farm in a five-day Centennial of Farm Mechanization beginning Aug. 15. Centennial Event Opens in Walden On August 25

Thousands of visitors, including many former residents, will flock to Walden on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 25, 26 and 27, to join in the gala celebration of this villages' one hundredth anniversary celebration. The three-day period has been designated officially as Centennial Time and a bumper crop of special events is now being arranged to mark the occasion.

Heralds of Centennial are already in the air. Men of the village are cultivating lush sets of whiskers, mustachios and sideburns. Women are searching old family trunks for clothing of bygone years. Old high-wheel and tandem bicycles, and ancient wagons are being restored to good, running condition for the celebration.

AN HISTORICAL pageant, "Through the Years", will be presented in the Didsbury Theatre on Thursday and Friday night, August 25 and 26. The all-local cast will appear in authentic costumes of the various periods and events of village history which they will depict. There will be one show earh night, at 9 o'clock.

Band concerts, a carnival, athletic contests, firemanic demonstrations and other special events will take place all three nights and on Saturday afternoon, August 27, at Bradley Field, off upper Ulster avenue, a large municipal park. The celebrated United States Military Band of West Point will present one of the concerts at 8 p. m. Friday night of Centennial Week.

The big Centennial parade will take place at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, August 27, and will feature a fleet of floats sponsored by many of the civic, service, fraternal and commercial organizations of the village.

Bulgarian . . .

branch of the El Al Airlines received an SOS from an El Al Constellation on its way from Vienna to Israel from the Bulgarian border," he said.

"Soon afterward a cable from Athens Airfield reported the Constellation made a forced landing near Tsirbalovo, in Bulgaria near the Greek border, after fire had been opened on it."

ISRAEL is investigating the possibility of sending a commission of inquiry to the scene.

Bulgaria has an air corridor over which certain western planes, including those of the U. S. Pan American Airways, are permitted to fly on the Vienna-Istanbul route.

The Greek government's statement did not make clear how its information on the probable casualities was obtained. Presumably the crash was close enough to the border for Greek soldier observers to spot the wreckage through binoculars.

The fact four Americans were aboard was announced by El Al's London office. But the names were not immediately available.

There were eight Britons on the plane.

Military Reserve

in the ready reserves until his eight-year obligation is up.

2. Anyone who has had five years in the armed forces, or a total of five in the armed forces and the trained ready reserves, can ask for a transfer into the last-to-be-called standby reserves until his eight years are up.

THAT'S THE way it is now. It will remain that way for all those who enter the armed forces before Eisenhower signs the new bill: They have a total obligation of eight years on active service and in the reserves.

For those who enlist or are drafted after the new bill becomes law, the total obligation will be six years instead of eight.

They will have to put in combined service of five years in the armed forces and the trained ready reserves, and one year in the standby reserves.

They won't have a choice—as exists now—of choosing to go into the non-training ready reserves when they get out of the armed forces. They'll have to go into ready reserve training.

EXAMPLES: Jones gets out of the army after two years' service. He must go into the trained reserves for three years. Then for another year he is in the standby reserves.

Congress made a special provision for men already in the armed forces when they get out. Since they're covered by the old law, they can choose to go into the non-training ready reserves.

But Congress said the government—in limited numbers and only until July 1957—could offer them this deal, which they could take or reject:

A man in active service for 12 months can be discharged provided he agrees to go into the trained ready reserves for a period which, when added to his active service, would total four years. Then, since under the old law he still has an eight-year obligation, he could serve his remaining four as a standby.

OR A MAN who has filled out his enlistment or draft term, if he volunteers to go into the trained ready reserve, will have to serve only one year in that group. Then he'd serve out the rest of his eight-year obligation as a standby.

This is what the new law will also do—but again only for a limited number—for pre-draft youths under 18½:

They can become exempt from the draft by volunteering for special training of three to six months followed by 7½ years in the trained ready reserves.

A high school student who volunteers for the trained ready reserves under this arrangement could defer his required active training until he graduated or reached 20. Meanwhile, he'd be credited for the ready reserve drills he attended.

Under present law a youth who joins the national guard before he's 18½ can avoid the draft, provided he agrees to stay in the guard until he's 28. Under the new law he can shorten his term in the guard to eight years by volunteering for three to six months of active training at some armed force post.

Temperature Hits 90 For 23rd Day in Month

A 97 at 12:30 p. m., today marked the 23rd day in the month of temperatures of 90 degrees and above, the city engineer's office reported.

After Saturday's high of 104 degrees, the mercury dropped to a high of only 91 Sunday. It went up to 92 on Monday and 94 yesterday.

It appeared today, however, that the 97 at 12:30 would be the high for the day, because the mercury had dropped to 95 by 1:30 p. m.

Earnings Are

had to wait months before they could increase their rates to keep up with rising costs.

Commissioner Glen R. Bedenkapp, who is presiding, said he would decide late today or tomorrow on New York city's petition to enter the present case. New York city seeks a PSC order for a temporary $31,800,000 a year statewide cut in the company's rates and a permanent annual rate reduction of $41,500,000.

Yesterday, Ralph W. Brown, company vice president and general counsel, said the company needed the stop-gap increase to continue expansion. The company, Brown said, plans to spend $35 million more for construction this year than it did in 1954.

Cave Held on Assault

James Cave, 35, of 81 Fair street, was arrested last night by Frances Linger on a third degree assault charge. A call to the Fair street address was noted at 9:55 p. m., and officers George Dohnken and Joseph Keller were dispatched there. Special City Judge Harry Gold today adjourned the case to a later date to permit the defendant to obtain counsel. Attorney John E. Gotelli appeared in court today for the district attorney's office.

'Saliva Thread'

The thread of a spider is made of saliva-type material secreted in the spider's "tail." It comes out as a liquid and hardens on exposure to the air.

Dual Death

Danville, Va. (AP)—The coroner's report said only that Mr. and Mrs. Eugene W. Scarce died en rout to a hospital after an automobile accident. Which died first became an important question. They left no children. The estate would go to the nearest relatives of the last to die. A jury pondered and decided they died at the same time.

Lee Is Arrested For Abandonment

Harry Lee, 24, sought for the past six months by the Ulster county sheriff's office on a charge of abandonment, was returned to Ulster county today from Miami, Fla., by Sheriff Cluett Schantz and Undersheriff Clayton Vredenburg.

He was picked up in Miami by the Dade county sheriff's department on a bench warrant issued by County Judge John M. Cashin. Lee had been the object of an intensive search by the local sheriff's office since early February. Mrs. Lee resides with her parents in Ruby.

He waived extradition and the sheriff and undersheriff flew down to bring him back. Lee was committed to the Ulster county jail to await a hearing before Judge Cashin.

Demand Removal

St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, July 27 (AP)—Two thousand Virgin Islanders gathered in a mass meeting in St. Thomas' market place last night to demand removal of Gov. Archie A. Alexander. The meeting, sponsored by the CIO, approved three resolutions to be forwarded to Alexander, now in Washington, President Eisenhower and the U. S. Congress.

Warm water is better than cold for sprinkling clothes, seeming to have more penetrating qualities.

The answers to everyday insurance problems*

QUESTION: A young friend of our son doesn't own a car but is engaged to a girl who does have a car. When they go out together he always drives and I've heard him say he'd like to carry Liability insurance of his own. Would this be possible?
ANSWER: Certainly and it is a very wise thing for him to do! The premium for that kind of coverage is very low, too.

Weather: Partly cloudy.

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 71 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 91 degrees.

Becoming cloudy tonight with scattered thundershowers late tonight and tomorrow. Turning cooler tomorrow. Low tonight in the 70s. High tomorrow in the 80s.

Interior of eastern New York: Mostly sunny, hot and humid today with scattered thundershowers this afternoon and tonight. High temperature today in the upper 80s in the north and in the 90s in the central and south portions. Low tonight in the upper 50s in the north and in the 60s in the south. MICHIGAN STATE SCHEDULES FARM EXHIBIT—The history of harvesting, from cradle to combine, is graphically portrayed by students from Michigan State University's agricultural engineering and drama departments. The students will highlight the role of power farming equipment on the efficient farm in a five-day Centennial of Farm Mechanization beginning Aug. 15. More than a million persons from all over the world are expected to visit the $20,000,000 display on the East Lansing campus.

Military Reserve

in the ready reserves until his eight-year obligation is up.

2. Anyone who has had five years in the armed forces, or a total of five in the armed forces and the trained ready reserves, can ask for a transfer into the last-to-be-called standby reserves until his eight years are up.

THAT'S THE way it is now. It will remain that way for all those who enter the armed forces before Eisenhower signs the new bill: They have a total obligation of eight years on active service and in the reserves.

For those who enlist or are drafted after the new bill becomes law, the total obligation will be six years instead of eight.

They will have to put in combined service of five years in the armed forces and the trained ready reserves, and one year in the standby reserves.

They won't have a choice—as exists now—of choosing to go into the non-training ready reserves when they get out of the armed forces. They'll have to go into ready reserve training.

EXAMPLES: Jones gets out of the army after two years' service. He must go into the trained reserves for three years. Then for another year he is in the standby reserves.

Congress made a special provision for men already in the armed forces when they get out. Since they're covered by the old law, they can choose to go into the non-training ready reserves.

But Congress said the government—in limited numbers and only until July 1957—could offer them this deal, which they could take or reject:

A man in active service for 12 months can be discharged provided he agrees to go into the trained ready reserves for a period which, when added to his active service, would total four years. Then, since under the old law he still has an eight-year obligation, he could serve his remaining four as a standby.

OR A MAN who has filled out his enlistment or draft term, if he volunteers to go into the trained ready reserve, will have to serve only one year in that group. Then he'd serve out the rest of his eight-year obligation as a standby.

This is what the new law will also do—but again only for a limited number—for pre-draft youths under 18½:

They can become exempt from the draft by volunteering for special training of three to six months followed by 7½ years in the trained ready reserves.

A high school student who volunteers for the trained ready reserves under this arrangement could defer his required active training until he graduated or reached 20. Meanwhile, he'd be credited for the ready reserve drills he attended.

Under present law a youth who joins the national guard before he's 18½ can avoid the draft, provided he agrees to stay in the guard until he's 28. Under the new law he can shorten his term in the guard to eight years by volunteering for three to six months of active training at some armed force post.

Temperature Hits 90 For 23rd Day in Month

A 97 at 12:30 p. m., today marked the 23rd day in the month of temperatures of 90 degrees and above, the city engineer's office reported.

After Saturday's high of 104 degrees, the mercury dropped to a high of only 91 Sunday. It went up to 92 on Monday and 94 yesterday.

It appeared today, however, that the 97 at 12:30 would be the high for the day, because the mercury had dropped to 95 by 1:30 p. m.

Lee Is Arrested For Abandonment

Harry Lee, 24, sought for the past six months by the Ulster county sheriff's office on a charge of abandonment, was returned to Ulster county today from Miami, Fla., by Sheriff Cluett Schantz and Undersheriff Clayton Vredenburg.

He was picked up in Miami by the Dade county sheriff's department on a bench warrant issued by County Judge John M. Cashin. Lee had been the object of an intensive search by the local sheriff's office since early February. Mrs. Lee resides with her parents in Ruby.

He waived extradition and the sheriff and undersheriff flew down to bring him back. Lee was committed to the Ulster county jail to await a hearing before Judge Cashin.

Demand Removal

St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, July 27 (AP)—Two thousand Virgin Islanders gathered in a mass meeting in St. Thomas' market place last night to demand removal of Gov. Archie A. Alexander. The meeting, sponsored by the CIO, approved three resolutions to be forwarded to Alexander, now in Washington, President Eisenhower and the U. S. Congress.

Warm water is better than cold for sprinkling clothes, seeming to have more penetrating qualities.

Earnings Are

had to wait months before they could increase their rates to keep up with rising costs.

Commissioner Glen R. Bedenkapp, who is presiding, said he would decide late today or tomorrow on New York city's petition to enter the present case. New York city seeks a PSC order for a temporary $31,800,000 a year statewide cut in the company's rates and a permanent annual rate reduction of $41,500,000.

Yesterday, Ralph W. Brown, company vice president and general counsel, said the company needed the stop-gap increase to continue expansion. The company, Brown said, plans to spend $35 million more for construction this year than it did in 1954.

Cave Held on Assault

James Cave, 35, of 81 Fair street, was arrested last night by Frances Linger on a third degree assault charge. A call to the Fair street address was noted at 9:55 p. m., and officers George Dohnken and Joseph Keller were dispatched there. Special City Judge Harry Gold today adjourned the case to a later date to permit the defendant to obtain counsel. Attorney John E. Gotelli appeared in court today for the district attorney's office.

Centennial Event Opens in Walden On August 25

Thousands of visitors, including many former residents, will flock to Walden on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 25, 26 and 27, to join in the gala celebration of this villages' one hundredth anniversary celebration. The three-day period has been designated officially as Centennial Time and a bumper crop of special events is now being arranged to mark the occasion.

Heralds of Centennial are already in the air. Men of the village are cultivating lush sets of whiskers, mustachios and sideburns. Women are searching old family trunks for clothing of bygone years. Old high-wheel and tandem bicycles, and ancient wagons are being restored to good, running condition for the celebration.

AN HISTORICAL pageant, "Through the Years", will be presented in the Didsbury Theatre on Thursday and Friday night, August 25 and 26. The all-local cast will appear in authentic costumes of the various periods and events of village history which they will depict. There will be one show earh night, at 9 o'clock.

Band concerts, a carnival, athletic contests, firemanic demonstrations and other special events will take place all three nights and on Saturday afternoon, August 27, at Bradley Field, off upper Ulster avenue, a large municipal park. The celebrated United States Military Band of West Point will present one of the concerts at 8 p. m. Friday night of Centennial Week.

The big Centennial parade will take place at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, August 27, and will feature a fleet of floats sponsored by many of the civic, service, fraternal and commercial organizations of the village.

Dual Death

Danville, Va. (AP)—The coroner's report said only that Mr. and Mrs. Eugene W. Scarce died en rout to a hospital after an automobile accident. Which died first became an important question. They left no children. The estate would go to the nearest relatives of the last to die. A jury pondered and decided they died at the same time.

Bulgarian . . .

branch of the El Al Airlines received an SOS from an El Al Constellation on its way from Vienna to Israel from the Bulgarian border," he said.

"Soon afterward a cable from Athens Airfield reported the Constellation made a forced landing near Tsirbalovo, in Bulgaria near the Greek border, after fire had been opened on it."

ISRAEL is investigating the possibility of sending a commission of inquiry to the scene.

Bulgaria has an air corridor over which certain western planes, including those of the U. S. Pan American Airways, are permitted to fly on the Vienna-Istanbul route.

The Greek government's statement did not make clear how its information on the probable casualities was obtained. Presumably the crash was close enough to the border for Greek soldier observers to spot the wreckage through binoculars.

The fact four Americans were aboard was announced by El Al's London office. But the names were not immediately available.

There were eight Britons on the plane.

By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: A young friend of our son doesn't own a car but is engaged to a girl who does have a car. When they go out together he always drives and I've heard him say he'd like to carry Liability insurance of his own. Would this be possible?
ANSWER: Certainly and it is a very wise thing for him to do! The premium for that kind of coverage is very low, too.
* If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE or OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.
